My Lai Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Thursday it has given up trying to find legal avenues for prosecuting former servicemen involved in the alleged My Lai massacre.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedman said discussions between Army and Justice Department lawyers have ended without any agreement on how to try men who have returned to civilian life.

"It has turned out to be, as a practical matter, an insoluble problem at this time," Friedman said. He indicated the problem is one of jurisdiction.

Fifteen of 24 men under investigation by the Army at one time in the mass slaying of more than 100 South Vietnamese civilians March 16, 1968 returned to civilian life before they could be charged.

Prosecution of soldiers still on active duty posed no legal problem. The Army charged 13 officers and enlisted men under the Uniform Code of Military Justice, including Lt. William L. Calley Jr. who was convicted last week of murdering 22 civilians.

Only two of the 13 still face trial; the others have been cleared. However, government legal authorities were confronted with serious questions on the course to follow in trying to prosecute any of the 15 ex-soldiers deemed to have been involved.

This is because the Supreme Court in 1955 ruled out military court-martials for former servicemen. Since then, it has been generally accepted that ex-servicemen cannot be brought under the jurisdiction of military courts for trial.

The 15 former GIs in the My Lai case include Paul Meadlo who as a witness in the Calley trial admitted helping the lieutenant shoot old men, women and children at My Lai.

As civilians, Meadlo and the 14 others are no longer subject to military prosecution. And because the massacre occurred in Vietnam they do not come under jurisdiction of civilian courts in the United States.

Friedman said the Army and the Justice Department studied the problem for 18 months and were unable to resolve it.

Nixon Pilot

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's pilot said there have been three bomb scares on presidential flights—at Berlin, at Dublin and on Nixon's most recent trip to California.

Air Force Col. Ralph D. Albartazze says he has had to decline, sometimes almost to the point of rudeness, offers of some foreign governments for fighter escort for the presidential airplane.

He is proud that in its service for a punctual-minded President, Air Force One has never been early or late to a destination by more than 30 seconds.

And although the early model Boeing 707s used for presidential trips already are going on 12 years old, they are so well maintained that they should be satisfactory for that duty until 1975, he says.

Albartazze, a self-styled hillbilly from Morgantown, W.Va., and only the seventh man to hold the official title of presidential pilot, talked of his assignment at the Luncheon Forum, a meeting of aviation-oriented individuals at the Smithsonian Institution's National Air and Space Museum, Wednesday.

"We have our moments of panic and our moments of pleasure," Albartazze said.

"We have had some problems—I would be remiss if I didn't admit it.

"We have had our scares and our threats—three actual bomb threats, one of them in California this last trip.

"None of these things ever make the newspapers because they never reach that proportion."

Albartazze said that as a simple matter of safety, to avoid any possibility of a collision, Air Force One never has an aerial escort.

"There are still some nations in the world that feel this is a matter of protocol with them, and feel they really ought to fly escort to the President's plane," he said.

"We don't think our own fighter pilots ought to fly escort."

"I have had two confrontations so far and managed to turn both of them off."

"We even were threatened one time with a breach of diplomacy."

"I said, 'well, if that's what it takes we will just have a breach of diplomacy—I won't have any fighter aircraft fly escort with me.' I never heard from them."

Draft Boards—Calley

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Draft board members in more than a dozen states have resigned in protest over the conviction and sentencing of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., saying they disagree with the verdict and want no part of a system they claim is unfair.

Selective Service System officials interviewed in an Associated Press Survey said the resignations would have little or no effect on upcoming inductions. And they stressed only a few members of the nation's 4,102 draft boards were involved.

Typical of those resigning was Ben F. Stringfellow of the Hampton, Ark., board. "I will not and cannot in good conscience serve on a body that will send my son or anyone's son to combat in Vietnam not knowing whether he will return a convict or a hero," said Stringfellow.

In contrast, Roger G. Sherman, a member of the Indianapolis draft board, said, "Of course I'm continuing to do my bit. I have complete confidence the Army judicial system knows what it is doing."

Calley, 27, was convicted last week of premeditated murder of Vietnamese civilians at My Lai and sentenced to life imprisonment. The conviction and sentence are subject to automatic appeals and President Nixon has announced he personally will make the final military decision. Nixon also ordered Calley released from the military stockade pending appeal.

Several draft board members said that although they did not agree with the verdict, they would remain on the job.

Highest In Nine Months

U.S. Death Toll Up In War

SAIGON (AP) — American battlefield deaths climbed sharply to 88 last week in the Indochina war, the highest weekly toll in the last nine months, the U.S. Command announced Thursday.

In other developments: A terrorist bombing wrecked a downtown Saigon bar crowded with U.S. soldiers Thursday night, killing two persons, one an American soldier and the other a Vietnamese woman. Twelve American servicemen were among 16 wounded. Earlier reports had said 40 were wounded.

It was the first such attack directed against Americans in Saigon since last December.

U.S. planes hammered North Vietnamese forces besieging a South Vietnamese artillery base in the central highlands.

Of the 88 Americans killed last week 33 died in the North Vietnamese sapper attack March 28 on Fire Base Mary Ann 50 miles south of Da Nang.

Tabulations showed that American battlefield deaths in the first three months of the year were about 80 per cent less than in the same period last year, and 80 per cent less than in the first quarter of 1969.

The Command also reported 347 Americans wounded last week, a drop from the previous week's total of 542. The latest figures raised to 44,876 the number of Americans killed in the war and to 297,258 the total wounded.

U.S. officials tallied 22 deaths last week from non-hostile cause such as accidents and illness, raising the total in that category to 9,408.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 533 government troops killed and 1,176 wounded last week, compared with the previous week's figures of 756 killed and 1,726 wounded.

The allied commands claimed 3,657 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed last week to boost the war total to 730,756.

In the blast at the Saigon waterfront bar, U.S. soldiers said the bomb apparently had been planted in the building earlier. It went off shortly after 9 p.m. in front of the bandstand.

It was not immediately known whether the blast at the My Phuong bar, the Vietnamese name for the discotheque, was set off by Viet Cong saboteurs, by South Vietnamese with anti-American sentiments, or by someone with a grudge against the owners.

In South Vietnam's central highlands, North Vietnamese troops kept up pressure on South Vietnamese outposts for a ninth day.

American B52 bombers and smaller tactical bombers intensified their attacks against North Vietnamese positions in an effort to help besieged South Vietnamese at artillery Fire Base 6.

The base, 300 miles north of Saigon, has been under daily attack since March 31, and changed hands twice in the first two days.

North Vietnamese gunners shelled the base before dawn Thursday but South Vietnamese headquarters said there were no casualties or damage.

In Cambodia, enemy troops seized a section of Highway 4, the lifeline route linking the capital city of Phnom Penh with the country's only deep water port at Kompong Som on the Gulf of Siam.

Cambodian paratroops abandoned a two-mile section of the highway Thursday after they had been driven back by a heavy attack.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong opened up the attack Wednesday with mortar fire against the paratroopers attempting to move westward down Highway 4 about 56 miles Southwest of Phnom Penh.

The Cambodian Command claimed 200 of the enemy were killed and acknowledged that 21 government troops were killed and about 100 wounded.

Associated Press Correspondent Robin Mannoock reported that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong also struck at the rear of the paratrooper column, destroying some trucks and blowing up ammunition supplies.

Mannoock and several other correspondents were caught in the attack. He received minor wounds from mortar fragments and managed to return to Phnom Penh Thursday. Two other foreign journalists and three Cambodian drivers and interpreters were missing. The missing journalists were New Zealand-born Kate Webb of United Press International and a Japanese cameraman, Toshichi Suzuki of Nihon Denpa News.

Senate Leaders Expect Troop Pullout By '73

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top Senate leaders, Republican Hugh Scott and Democrat Robert C. Byrd said Thursday they believe President Nixon plans to remove all U.S. troops from Indochina by the end of his term in January 1973—provided North Vietnam frees U.S. war prisoners.

Scott, the Senate GOP leader, and Byrd, the Democratic whip, said in separate news conferences they drew this interpretation from Nixon's comments in briefing congressional leaders before Wednesday night's announcement of further U.S. troop withdrawals.

"He did not state a definite date," Byrd said, "but I had the very definite impression from what was said that the President has a date in mind." Asked if the date was before the end of Nixon's term, the West Virginia Democrat replied "I think that is substantially correct as I understood the President."

Scott said the date is flexible—depending on what happens with the prisoners. The White House, meanwhile, said it is standing by Nixon's refusal to fix a date for total U.S. withdrawal. The President said he expects to be held accountable by American voters if he fails to redeem his 1968 campaign pledge to end U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Although Scott saw significance in Nixon's omission of any statement about maintaining a residual U.S. force in Vietnam, he said the administration still has no intention of completing the U.S. pullout while Americans are held by the Hanoi government.

On this point, Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., urged the administration to tell the North Vietnamese at Paris it could agree to a fixed withdrawal date in return for a phased exchange of prisoners and a guarantee U.S. forces would be permitted to withdraw without harassment.

In this way, the Illinois Republican said in an interview, Hanoi's insistence on a fixed U.S. withdrawal date "could be used to bargain with."

Percy was one of a dozen Republican senators who sought Monday night to convince Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird that the time had come for the administration to tell the American people exactly when all Americans would be out of Vietnam.

He called Nixon's acceleration of the troop withdrawal rate from 12,500 a month to nearly 14,300 a month "a plus" but said he would have liked it to go up to 16,000.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., the host for the Monday night session, called Nixon's speech "a disappointment to those of us who had counseled and hoped for an unequivocal policy of total U.S. military disengagement at an early date."

Congressmen Applaud Action Of My Lai Case Prosecutor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten congressmen Thursday called President Nixon's intervention in the Lt. William Calley case "extremely improvident."

They applauded a protest of Nixon's action by the Army prosecutor of Calley.

"Capt. Aubrey Daniel's statement that he is appalled to see so many political leaders of the nation who have failed to see the moral issue in the Calley case is justified and is to be applauded," the ten said in a statement.

"As we have seen, the temptation toward demagoguery even affects the high office of the presidency," they said.

Nixon's announcement that he will make the ultimate decision in the case involving Calley, sentenced to life imprisonment for the killing of Vietnamese civilians at the village of My Lai, has brought both approving and critical comments from various members of Congress. The ten signing the joint statement are Reps. Phillip Burton, D-Calif.; John Conyers, D-Mich.; Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex.; Don Edwards, D-Calif.; Don Fraser, D-Minn.; Henry Helms, D-N.J.; Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis.; Edward Koch, D-N.Y.; Abner Mikva, D-Ill.; and William F. Ryan, D-N.Y.

All but Fraser sponsored a news conference last week at which former servicemen said they had committed or seen others commit what they defined as war crimes and they didn't think Calley should be the scapegoat for them and others.

At that time the congressmen said the broader military policy which fosters such principles as "free fire zones" should be investigated by Congress.

In Thursday's statement, the ten congressmen said that the Calley case primarily is a judicial matter involving the personal guilt or innocence of Calley and judgment on this can't be made until appeals and reviews are completed.

"The President's intervention has impaired the military judicial system and lessened any respect it may have gained as a result of these proceedings," they said. "We consider the President's intrusion at this stage as an extremely improvident executive intrusion into the total judicial process, a process terminating with Supreme Court consideration."

Above all, they said, a country must look beyond the ultimate solution of this case to the total context of the policy and conduct of the war at the time of My Lai.

"We believe this is a matter of highest national policy concern and that the facts should be fully aired at the congressional level," they said.

Calley: Where To Draw The Line?

In March of 1972, one Col. David Williamson led a force of 100 militiamen from Fort Pitt into the wild Ohio country in pursuit of Indians who had been terrorizing the border settlements.

Unable to catch their quarry, they took out their frustration on 96 Delaware Indian converts at the Moravian missionary town of Gnadenhutten — the "Tents of Grace."

The army was democratic in those days. By a vote of 82 to 18, it was decided to kill the inoffensive, Christian Indians — old men, women and children. This was done not with guns (powder was in short supply) but with knives, hatchets and mallets. The "Tents of Grace" were burned down over the bodies.

When rumors of the massacre reached Philadelphia, the Continental Congress ordered Gen. William Irvine, commander at Fort Pitt, to investigate. Finding that popular feeling was strongly in favor of what the militia had done, Irvine advised that the matter had best be quietly dropped.

Newly independent America was thus spared an early version of the "Calley controversy."

An amazing outpouring of letters and telegrams has bombarded Congress and the Pentagon protesting the conviction of Lt. William Calley for slaying at least 22 Vietnamese civilians (he admitted killing 102) at the village of My Lai in March of 1968.

The brunt of the protests is that Calley did nothing more than a lot of GIs have done in this wretched war (it was "no big deal," said Calley), or in other wars, and that he is being made the fall guy for the higher brass.

Writing before the Calley verdict was handed down—former war correspondent Neil Sheehan—no hawk but a severe critic of U.S. military policy in Vietnam—anticipated this reaction. "The military services are in the greatest danger of becoming the scapegoats of a public witchhunt...over the war crimes issue if responsible men do not prevail," said Sheehan. "...The military have few defendants in the current climate. Much of the intellectual community and many of the students are almost childishly indiscriminate in their assaults. A number of the former senior civilian officials of the country, who have changed their minds about the war they helped to prosecute, are now all eager to blame everything on the generals."

Few Americans have ever heard of the Gnadenhutten massacre. None would condone it today, if only because we are no longer menaced by redskins. We lack that kind of historical perspective regarding Vietnam.

We forget — we want to forget — that babies were blasted with automatic weapons at close range at My Lai.

Yes, women and children have tossed grenades at American soldiers in Vietnam. But toddlers, babes in arms?

Yes, this is a brutal and brutalizing war, with its tactics of search-and-destroy free-fire zones, the body count, where the enemy is a farmer by day and a guerrilla by night. Responsibility for many unnecessary civilian deaths does not begin or end with Lt. William Calley.

But if the American officer in the field who implements the orders from higher up is not to be expected to know the difference between right and wrong, between babies and potential combatants, then this war has brutalized all of us.

We forget, too, that there were men in Calley's platoon who retained enough of their humanity to refuse to obey his order to "waste" the civilians.

If Calley deserved to be acquitted, then these men should have been court-martialed.

Something To Spend Money On

Soviets Being Promised More Consumer Goods

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — Neither threats, appeals to patriotism nor the Soviet worker to feats of sustained production.

Now the Soviet leaders are promising him more to spend his money on, and Western observers are calling this "The Education of Leonid I. Brezhnev."

Whether or not he conceived the idea, Brezhnev, as general secretary of the Communist party, is taking credit for the party's new campaign to "saturate the market with consumer goods."

The leadership clearly hopes that the availability of more consumer items will prompt the worker to work harder and better.

The outcome of the new five-year plan for 1971-75 depends on the success of the campaign; increased labor productivity is counted on to provide 10 per cent of the nation's economic growth in the next five years.

Holding out a higher standard of living as an incentive to labor represents a marked change in Brezhnev's thinking.

At a meeting of the party Central Committee in December 1969 he was reported to have demanded a traditional hard-line approach, stressing the need at every level to agitate for harder work, better discipline and a curb on drunkenness.

This didn't work, nor did payment of higher wages for more output.

The worker is not lacking surplus cash. Last year the fastest growing item in the Soviet economy was private savings, which increased from 36.4 billion rubles to 46 billion, a 20 per cent rise.

Brezhnev has recognized that people are not going to work harder for money they can't spend. Until now there has been precious little in the shops worth buying.

Some specialists are wondering how much the situation will have changed by 1975. Though the plan calls for a 48 per cent rate of growth for light industry and 45 per cent for heavy industry, the latter has been predominant for so long that the relative output will hardly change.

If all the targets are fulfilled, heavy industry in 1975 will still account for 62.1 per cent of the national income, instead of 60 per cent, and light industry, from which consumer goods come, will represent 21.1 per cent instead of 20 per cent.

Houses Divided

The Global View

Nixon Helps Ease Mideast Impasse

By LEON DENNEN
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (NEA) — There will be "some days of tension and difficulty" in the Arab-Israeli negotiations, President Nixon said. But he also stressed that there are "great forces at work for a live-and-let-live attitude" in the Middle East.

Nixon is certainly a pragmatist in foreign affairs. He knows that there is no charity and little quarter in international relations.

His primary interest therefore is to preserve flexibility in the diplomatic negotiations and keep alive the mission of United Nations mediator Gunnar Jarring.

Largely because of the President's quiet diplomacy some Mideast settlement seems nearer than at any time since Israel was founded as a state in 1948.

This is frequently obscured by the day-to-day headlines that reflect the American-Russian conflict of interest and the public statements of the Egyptians and Israelis.

More often than not, those statements are made for home constituencies.

But the fact is that, although the antagonists are still apart, for the first time since the six-day war of 1967 a realistic dialogue is taking place behind the scenes.

Both Egypt and Israel have finally come to the point of making "offers" through Gunnar Jarring. This is a new and positive development. It is a diplomatic breakthrough even though the offers are made with severe conditions.

Egypt is still demanding a total withdrawal of Israel's forces to the lines before the 1967 war as a precondition to detailed negotiations.

However, President Anwar el-Sadat hinted that he was ready to enter into a peace settlement with "the State of Israel." Never before did the Arabs acknowledge Israel's legitimate existence.

On her part, Israel's Premier Golda Meir conceded the possibility of withdrawing from substantially all of the Sinai peninsula and the west bank of the Jordan River and turning Gaza into a port for the Kingdom of Jordan. She indicated other feasible ways toward a solution and settlement of the Mideast conflict.

But the Israelis, shaken by bitter past experiences, are firmly opposed to the preconditions demanded by Egypt.

They want a secure Israel fully capable of defending itself — not depending on doubtful international guarantees.

The Israelis have good reason to question the neutrality of the United Nations and the impartiality of its General Secretary U Thant.

They are suspicious of a U.N. "peace-keeping" force that will certainly include the Russians, who armed the Egyptians.

The Israelis know and understand Moscow's rulers. Soviet presence near Israel's future borders is unacceptable to them.

A "background paper" recently issued by the Israeli mission to the United Nations said in part:

"Israel will resist all pressure, from whatever sources, be they military or political, that aim at resurrecting its past territorial vulnerability by precluding the negotiation of future secure boundaries. Israel permitted this to happen once before by acquiescing in the imposed solution of 1967."

Nevertheless, Israel's seeming rigidity, like Egypt's preconditions, are the usual diplomatic bargaining. It is a necessary part of the process of reaching a settlement.

Egypt and Israel know that should the negotiations collapse the next round of fighting in the Middle East will be apallingly costly, with mutual levels of armaments vastly higher than in 1967.

Ann Landers: Letter Reveals Hostility

Dear Ann Landers: I am a heartless mother who needs to know what to do about a letter I found on my daughter's dresser. She is 18 and will be going away to college next term. The letter was written by her 25-year-old sister who graduated from college two years ago and is now teaching in another state. Here it is:

"Dear Little Sis: You wanted advice on how to handle the folks. Well, I've made the scene and can give you the straight poop. Here it is: Play it cool. Get all the financial help out of them that you can. Stay in school and earn your degree no matter what. You can tell them to go to hell later."

"When you come home for vacation, sleep a lot, stay in your room and pretend to study. This will enable you to avoid chores. It's awful to be home on 'vacation' and get stuck with housework (ick!)."

"At mealtime stuff cotton in your ears to drown out the banalities and dumb chatter. (It will be mostly about drugs, sex, and bad companions.) Mom and Dad don't know one damn thing about the issues of our time. They are stupid, uneducated and unbelievably square. It's just scary that they are so freaked out about 'a good reputation' that they live in fear that one of us will stain the family name."

"For God's sake always ask for extra money often! You never know when you'll need it. Extra scratch can be vital. I've been able to bail friends out of the can and help my roommate to pay for an abortion in advance—which is the only way these stiffs does work. If you need more info, call on me, Sis. I've been there.—Love—Senior Citizen"

Ann, I have not shown this letter to my husband. Should I? He never misses your column; and if you print it, he wouldn't guess in a million years that it came from our daughter. Tell me what to do.—Heartless Mother

Dear Mother: Don't show the letter to your husband. It's enough that you saw it. Rebellious children have been known to outgrow their hostility. When your daughter begins to think better of herself, she will think better of her parents. Be patient. And chin up, dear.

Dear Ann Landers: Because of my husband's job (he's an executive in a large and important firm) we are invited to a great deal, invariably to cocktail parties, and I loathe them. In my opinion the cocktail party is the most insidious form of torture known to modern man. By the end of the evening my feet are killing me, my girdle is cutting me in two and my face is stiff from smiling. Invariably, I am trapped in a corner by the biggest bore in the room.

People lean on walls, trying to look engrossed in conversation. How could they be? It's mostly idle chatter, two-bit gossip and drunken gibberish. As the evening goes on, the talk becomes increasingly unintelligible and senseless, until it finally sinks to the level of the dirty joke.

My husband asked last night when we are going to give a cocktail party and pay back the people whose parties we have attended this past year. I hate to be a drag but I despise cocktail parties and I don't want to give one. Must I?—Rather Be Home with a Good Book

Dear Mother: Try to sell him on small dinner parties. They are more work, more expensive and more time-consuming, but a lot more fun. Good luck.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The spoils system was practiced by U.S. politicians until Congress passed the Federal Civil Service Act of 1883. The World Almanac notes that in 1892, William Marcy, a U.S. senator, defended Martin Van Buren's appointment as minister to London by saying that he could see "nothing wrong in the rule that to the victor belong the spoils of the enemy."

Law For Today

Q. Our family wants to get a flag and fly it every day in support of our boys in Vietnam. Does this mean we must obey the President when he orders flags flown at half-staff?

A. No. As a private citizen, you are not compelled to fly your flag at half-staff. This presidential order is usually issued when an important government official dies and applies only to all government agencies. However, if you want to indicate your respect for the dead official, you may do so by flying your flag at half-staff. —Illinois State Bar Assn.

Communication

To the Editor:

I truly admire Edwin G. Olson, veteran USMC, for his comments expressed in this newspaper on April 5, 1971. I have the same feeling concerning the charges against Lt. Calley.

I am not a veteran of any war, but as a past president of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary and a member of other veterans organizations, I am very conscientious of and concerned for any veteran of any war.

In the Vietnam conflict they are fighting communism for the South Vietnamese while the same communism is at work in the United States. It is time for the people of this great country, the United States of America, to wake up, pull their heads out of the sand and realize what our young boys are facing in Vietnam. The communists are undermining our own freedom here and they are fighting them there.

May God bless every mother's son who is fighting for our peace and freedom.

There are those who have had dealings with you and, in consequence, think of you as one without emotions—but these are the people who fail to realize that a steady nature is not an unfeeling nature. You possess emotions that are deep and often dark. But you keep them under control, knowing that when you need them, they will be there to work for—and not against you.

A firm person, you make up your mind with great deliberation. You are thoughtful and, in the long run, entirely just in your decisions. You never try to blame others for your setbacks and failures—though there are times when others are obviously to blame. At the same time, however, you are not very willing to share the glory when you are successful. You know that you work hard, long, and often alone, and that you deserve to succeed.

Somewhat overdependent upon schedules, you may miss a number of opportunities in your lifetime simply because they come at an inconvenient time. You must learn to drop everything if necessary to take advantage of the chance to make exceptional gain, whether material or spiritual. Otherwise, your success will be only a percentage of what it might be.

Saturday, April 10
ARIES (March 21-April 20)—This can well be a Saturday you will remember for a long time. Make an effort to become known to strangers in the community.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Postpone a departure until late in the day. Morning is no time to put distance between yourself and home base.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—You are likely to run into trouble if you insist upon taking short cuts today. Allow children to help to their hearts' content.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—All should go well with you in the afternoon—if you've taken the proper precautions against accident in the morning.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—A day that gets better as the hours progress. Don't be disturbed by a tendency to overplay your hand during morning hours.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—The Virgo who fails to keep a promise to children may well find himself in difficulties with adults by this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Don't jump at the chance to change present circumstances. Study the situation carefully—and take another's wishes into account.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23)—Go about the business of making friends and influencing people in a calm, self-confident manner. Otherwise, you will put others off.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Business considerations must not be forgotten even though they may interfere drastically with Saturday plans.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)—The wise Capricorn will not question another's motives. Take what occurs at face value—at least for now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—A day when conservative action brings Aquarius close to a goal of long-standing. To rush things could be to forfeit them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—Where younger members of the family are concerned, you would be wise to postpone any decision that could effect radical change.

Warren Smith, Of Beardstown, Dies Tuesday

BEARDSTOWN — Warren Smith, 79, an officer of the Beardstown Savings and Loan association for many years, died at 7:55 p.m. Tuesday at Schmitt Memorial hospital.

He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. R. O. (Annie) Donaldson, and a granddaughter, Debbie.

LUCIEN MOORE, FORMER MORGAN RESIDENT, DIES

Ballot Recount Scheduled In Six Counties

Ballots cast in six counties for a circuit judgeship last November will be recounted.

Defeated candidate for judge, J. Waldo Ackerman has agreed with Judge Harvey Beam, who won the 7th Judicial Circuit post, to recount ballots cast in Sangamon, Macoupin, Morgan, Scott, Greene and Jersey counties.

Ackerman, a Republican, dropped the vote fraud allegations included in his Dec. 24 suit challenging Beam's election.

The official canvass showed Beam winning by 102 votes. No date has been set for the recount in Jacksonville.

'Honor Our Nation Day' In Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has declared April 30 "Honor our Nation Day" in Illinois.

The governor, prompted by a letter from third-grader Lori Mazza of Cleveland Hill Primary School in Cheektowaga, N.Y., made the proclamation Wednesday in conjunction with governors of eight other states.

He said the Mazza girl and some 30 of her classmates split up the job of writing to President Nixon, U.S. senators, governors and school superintendents across the country.

The girl's letter reminded Ogilvie that April 30 is the anniversary of the day in 1789 when Americans "got our first president."

"What was our nation before that?" she wrote. "Think about that!"

"Our class wants to make April 30 an annual national day to honor our nation and its leaders," she said.

The letter was signed: "Your friend, Lori Mazza."

COMMENDATION MEDAL PRESENTED CPL. JAMES WOODS

U.S. ARMY, Vietnam (AHTNC) — Army Corporal James E. Woods, Jr., 20, whose parents live at 603 S. West St., Jacksonville, Ill., recently received the Army Commendation Medal while serving with the Americal Division in Vietnam.

The medal was awarded for meritorious service. Such service can be over an extended period of time or for outstanding achievement in a single situation. In either case, the recipient must have demonstrated skills and dedication far above the average.

Cpl. Woods received the award while assigned as a gunner in Battery A, 3rd Battalion of the Division's 82nd Artillery. He entered the Army in March 1970, completed basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., and was last stationed at Ft. Sill, Okla.

He is a 1969 graduate of Jacksonville High School.

ARMY HONORS WAYNE CROW ON VIETNAM SOIL

U.S. ARMY, Vietnam (AHTNC) — Army Specialist Five Wayne K. Crow, son of Mrs. Jessie P. Crow, 1648 S. Main St., Jacksonville, Ill., recently received his second award of the Army Commendation Medal in Vietnam.

The medal was awarded for meritorious service. Such service can be over an extended period of time or for outstanding achievement in a single situation. In either case, the recipient must have demonstrated skills and dedication far above the average.

Spec. 5 Crow received the award while assigned as a legal clerk with headquarters detachment of the Signal Support Agency, Saigon. He entered the Army in September 1969 and completed basic training at Ft. Ord, Calif.

The 24-year-old soldier received his B.A. degree from the Western Illinois University at Macomb in 1969.

LESS PARTIES ON MURRAYVILLE PHONE LINES

General Telephone Company of Illinois announces completion of the project to provide suburban four-party telephone service to all rural residence customers in the Murrayville exchange.

The improved service replaced the multi-party service previously provided. Multi-party service provided for up to ten (10) parties on a line, the new suburban service provides for a maximum of four families on a line.

This improved service project is a part of the company's program to eliminate all in-party services in the state by December 31, 1973.

MORE IN SCHOOL
LONDON (AP) — More than half the school-leavers in Britain in 1969 were over 16.

A report said this was the first time in the history of state education that so many stayed on beyond the minimum leaving age of 15.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Get 2nd Opinion On Heart Irregularity

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb — I am a professional man and must meet the public. Sometimes in the middle of a public appearance I have to leave abruptly and lie down because I have paroxysmal tachycardia. I am hospitalized for a few hours many times every month because the attacks last three or four hours. I read your book, doctor. Can nothing be done for such as us? My doctor says I have no signs of heart trouble and he wants me to learn to live with it.

That is easy for him to say. My job is in jeopardy because of my sudden unexplained disappearances with my attacks. My doctor says medicine should not be given a good heart—so what can I do? Give up everything?

Dear Reader — I understand your problem well. For years I dealt with pilots who had no heart disease but had an irregularity of the heart that could cause them problems while flying. It was always difficult. Many heart specialists would agree that if a person really had repeated episodes of heart irregularity that incapacitated the patient, usually some medicine should be given in an effort to prevent the attacks. These are not tranquilizers or sedatives but medicines that have direct action on the heart muscle.

Why don't you ask your doctor to arrange a consultation with a cardiologist at one of the nearest university medical centers? All reputable physicians welcome a second opinion and help with difficult cases. If for some reason nothing can be done to improve your situation, then you will both feel better about your management and have a better relationship with each other.

Here is an interesting item for people with hands deformed by rheumatoid arthritis. Some of them can be reconstructed using silicone rubber. The joints may not return to perfect function but hands can be made to be more effective.

The operation for the hand involves removing the knuckle joint and replacing it with a hinge joint of silicone rubber.

Dr. James Urbanik of the orthopedic service at Duke University who has pioneered this procedure cautions, however, that patients with rheumatoid arthritis need a complete evaluation since the disease involves more than just joints. Many patients can be helped by other procedures. The operation has helped in other deformities like those occurring in accident victims or Vietnam war casualties. Rheumatoid arthritis is not the same thing as wear-and-tear arthritis.

Ancient But Accurate

The most accurate pre-Christian calendar is considered to be the Mayan calendar. Invented in Yucatan about 300 B.C., it gave the solar year as 365.24 days and the lunar month as 29.52 days.

Promotion For V. Thomas In Danville Firm

A former Jacksonville resident, Verne Thomas of Danville, was one of two employees of T. C. McCormick, comptroller of Interstate Printers and Publishers of that city, promoted to executive positions.

Thomas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Thomas, Jacksonville route one, and three-year veteran of the U.S. Navy. He graduated from Rount High School, was an electronic technician in service and attended the University of Utah and Electronic Computer Programming Institute in Peoria. At the latter he was named "exceptional data processor of the month" and graduated first in his class. Before joining the Danville firm, Thomas worked for the Secretary of State, State of Illinois, in the data processing section. Mr. Thomas and his wife, Mollie, live at 2730 Townway Road in Danville. She is a registered nurse on the staff at Lake View Memorial hospital there.

SON OF ASHLAND COUPLE RECEIVES CLASS HONORS

ASHLAND — William G. Doolin, a participant in the Merrill-Lynch training school in New York, received the highest honors in his class on the Chicago Board of Trade examination. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Doolin of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. William Doolin will be returning to Chicago in May, where Mr. Doolin will be an account executive at the Board of Trade office of Merrill-Lynch and will be dealing in both securities and commodities.

He is a graduate of Ashland High School and Southern Illinois University.

We find ourselves back in Glamis Castle for another bridge game. Macbeth didn't really have enough for his jump to three clubs. Macduff, the best player in Scotland, sat North. He knew that the thane of Glamis was an overbidder but he still Blackwooded to six clubs.

Banquo opened the queen of diamonds. Macbeth won, cashed his ace of spades, played ace-king and a third trump, discarded his second diamond on the king of spades and led dummy's queen of hearts. East put on his ace and led a diamond. Macbeth ruffed with his last trump and played his king of hearts. East showed out and Macbeth went down two.

"Murder most foul!" exclaimed Macduff.

"What meant thou?" asked Macbeth. "I couldn't help it that hearts broke 4-1."

"Yes, you could," replied Macduff. "Draw just two rounds of trumps, take your discard of a diamond on the king of spades and then play a heart. Ruff the diamond return, lead a second heart to dummy's jack. Return to your hand with your last trump and claim your slam. You risk nothing by this. If the singleton heart and long trump are in the same hand you have no play for it."

"Calliff! Leave my house!" cried Macbeth.

"All right," said Macduff, "but pay up first! You owe seven pounds."

"I do?" asked Macbeth. "In that case, play on Macduff. 'Tis only four in the morning."

Shrunkn Sweaters Pose Her Problem

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—When I washed my husband's sweater vests and three of my more expensive washable sweaters in that popular cold water soap for woolens, I followed directions very carefully; but still they all shrank. What, if anything, can be done to stretch these things back to the sizes they were? My sweaters are wearable as they were a bit loose to start with, but my husband's vests are a total loss as they are even too short to cover the belt on his pants. I would appreciate any help.—MRS. J.B.

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Doris who inquired about how to give a Jack and Jill shower for her daughter who is to be married. It is wrong, etiquette-wise, for her to give this party which is actually a first shower for her own daughter. Perhaps she could collaborate with the bridal attendants and low the air to circulate. This is more satisfactory than stuffing them with newspapers or a Jack and Jill party is that even those plastic blow-ups—it differs in only one way from a traditional shower and that is the husbands or boy friends of the girls are invited. Perhaps the refreshments could be less dainty and, depending on the group's preferences, cocktails and mixed drinks might be included. Dancing, card playing or any other such activity that those couples might enjoy could round out the evening.—DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY—I am one of those cluttery housekeepers who are "savers." I save all sorts of odd things because they "might come in handy" some time and often they do pay off. For example those large cardboard rolls that gift wrap comes on (a bit more than three inches in diameter) make marvelous "boot trees." I cut mine in half and they could be left long. I first spray the inside of my boots with a disinfectant and then put a roll in each boot, then quite to the bottom, to assist in the arrangements while not actually being the hostess. My understanding of a Jack and Jill party is that even those plastic blow-ups—it differs in only one way from

Ogilvie Hints New Building In E. St. Louis

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) —

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said

Wednesday there is "a very real possibility" a new state of-rice building will be constructed

James Williams Sr. was elected

Tuesday.

At a news conference, Ogilvie said he is "very pleased by the result of that election down there," in which Williams piled up 10,813 votes to 8,302 for his opponent, Virgil Calvert.

William H. Robinson, director of the Illinois Department of Registration and Education, said at a news conference a week ago that such a building would be constructed if Williams won. Ogilvie said Robinson had encouraged him to locate the building in East St. Louis, but "I told him that I did not see that as a likelihood if Mr. Williams' opponent was elected." "With Williams having been elected and with the kind of leadership he can bring to that community I think it's a very real possibility that it will be done," Ogilvie said. "We'll be doing everything we can to make sure that his administration is successful," Ogilvie said.

Election Superboard Plan May Hit Snag

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, looks for resistance to his proposal for a powerful state elections superboard.

But he takes note of the fact the Illinois Constitutional Convention last May refused to accept the new suffrage and elections article without such a board to oversee elections.

"People forget we are supposed to do this," Graham said in a telephone interview about the constitutional mandate. He is chairman of the Legislative Election Laws Commission.

The political bone that Graham expects to stick in some crawls is his proposal to give the board power by law to investigate. Both downstate Republicans and Chicago Democrats are accustomed to accusing each other of election irregularities. Democrats are contesting election of two Republicans to the Senate.

"The power to investigate for fraud," Graham said, "will be one of the board's most important functions. The board will act as a friend of the voter who can turn to it when he suspects his vote is being diluted."

Graham proposes a six-man board. The Illinois Constitution says no political party shall have a majority of the members.

Each party in each house would name two members. The governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, would make two others.

The board could establish uniform election procedures throughout the state. It could set up courses of instruction and examination of election judges.

The Constitutional Committee on Suffrage and Elections voted 7-2 against a central state election authority.

On the convention floor, however, when the chairman of the committee, Peter Tomas of Chicago, suggested a chief election authority, like the secretary of state, the convention overruled both him and the committee. The convention voted 71-30 for the superboard.

The provision said, "A State Board of Elections shall have general supervision over the administration of the registration and election laws throughout the state. The General Assembly by law shall determine the size, manner of selection and compensation of the board. No political party shall have a majority of members of the board."

Graham said he does not believe the bill will be enacted as he proposed it. But he said it serves as a good foundation to get the squabbling started so a compromise can be reached to fulfill the mandate.

However, Graham notes that he seeks to mollify local election officials, who may have fears of loss of local autonomy in the conduct of elections, by setting up an advisory committee of local officials to advise the superboard in forming of its policies.

Illinois law now provides 112 separate election authorities, 102 county clerks and 10 city boards of election commissioners.

The most powerful of the latter is the Chicago board, headed by Stanley Kusper, an election authority in his own right.

Kusper told The Associated Press the commission groups, which include Cairo, would meet before taking a stand on the constitutional mandate.

County clerks coordinate informally on election procedures and policies through the Illinois Association of County Clerks and Records.

Both the clerks and commissioners rely also on the office of Secretary of State John W. Lewis, whose index division chief, Don Ed, advises on legal questions and administrative policies as practiced through the state.

Only five states have constitutional provisions for centralized state election administrations, the convention had said.

Easter Egg Hunt At Park Next Sunday

The annual Easter Egg Hunt, sponsored by Jacksonville Jaycees for all children in the Jacksonville area, through age of seven years, will be held as usual Easter Sunday afternoon at Nichols Park. This will start promptly at 3 p.m. and if raining at that time, the event will be the following Sunday, April 18th. All children are reminded to take containers to put their eggs in.

The chairman for the project is Paul Davis and Norm Alexander is the director. Members of the committee are Dan Warcup, Earl Ford, Bob Spargo and Phil Rochester.

There will be four age groups competing for prizes:

- One through two years.
- Three through four years.
- Five through six years.
- Seven year olds.

All participating children will be receiving a gift, in addition to keeping the eggs they find and any prizes awarded. There will be a Special Egg hidden for each of the four classified groups, with the winner to receive a live Easter Bunny.

All of the over 4,000 eggs to be hidden will be individually wrapped for sanitary purposes.

FIRE REPORTED NEAR MURRAYVILLE

The Murrayville Fire Department extinguished a blaze on a farm owned by Dr. E. C. Bone Thursday night.

Complete details of the fire were not available Thursday night but it is believed that the blaze was confined to a wooded area and did not damage any buildings.

Vandals smashed lights on a tractor parked near the site of the fire and it is suspected that they started the blaze.

Penn Central Voices Charges Of Conspiracy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Penn Central Transportation Co. charged Thursday two former top financial officers and a principal investment adviser organized and manipulated an unlawful conspiracy that caused America's biggest railroad to suffer heavy losses and forced it into reorganization.

In a complaint filed in U.S. District Court, the company listed as defendants:

David C. Bevan, Gladwyne, Pa., fired Penn Central vice president in charge of finance and former chairman of the finance committee of the board of directors;

Charles J. Hodge, Short Hills, N.J., former partner of du Pont F.I. Glove Forgan, Inc., a New York brokerage house, and principal investment adviser to Penn Central;

The suit also named as defendants:

Penphil Co., a corporation formed in Pennsylvania and whose secretary-treasurer is Thomas R. Bean, lawyer-brother of David Bevan, and;

The du Pont investment firm, whose principal place of business is on Wall Street in New York City.

Penn Central charged the defendants entered into the alleged conspiracy for "personal profit, gain and unjust enrichment."

The suit listed monetary damage of at least $66 million as a result of the conspiracy, and demanded payment for the losses suffered plus additional funds "the court shall deem fit and proper."

The complaint said defendants Bevan and Hodge "were the promoters of Penphil" and that the 11 other original shareholders had various affiliations with Bevan, Penn Central, Hodge, du Pont, or the companies in which Penphil and Penn Central invested.

The lawsuit alleged: "It was one of the purposes of the conspiracy, by the exploitation of Penn Central's resources, to build Penphil into a large world-wide conglomerate by making Penphil the recipient of all of the advantages, gains, benefits, profits, and unjust enrichment which were intended to result from the conspiracy."

"As a result of the conspiracy, Penphil stockholders, including Bevan, Hodge and Gerstnecker, realized a 600 percent profit on their investment in less than eight years."

Penn Central, deep in red ink and losing more than $1.2 million daily, sought to avoid total financial collapse by seeking reorganization last June 21. In 1970 it reported a loss of $431 million, compared to a railroad deficit operating deficit of $91 million in 1969.

The suit flatly blamed Bevan, as the railroad's chief financial architect, for counseling directors to make substantial investments into non-railroad ventures.

ROODHOUSE CWF GROUP SENDS EYE GLASSES TO NEEDY

ROODHOUSE — At the Tuesday, April 6 meeting of the CWF Day group held at the Christian church an election of officers was held with the following named: president, Margaret Coffman; first vice president, Bertha Welch; second vice president, Sarah Sheppard; secretary, Lucille Wallace; treasurer, Mildred Hutton; worship director, Ilene Spencer; study director, Mary Williams; service director, Louise Jones; assistant service director, Mary Sifton; reading chairman, Bessie Rees; card chairman, Elizabeth Stansbury. Conducting the meeting was the retiring president, Louise Jones.

It was announced that 89 pairs of eye glasses have been sent to the needy. The group made plans to visit the Barton W. Stone Home for the Aged in Jacksonville Tuesday, April 13. The women expect to begin training for volunteer work at the home in the near future.

Tuesday's program included further discussion of the study of the book Created Male and Female led by study leader Louise Jones; and serving as worship leader in connection with the study was Bessie Rees. Refreshments were served by hostesses Bessie Rees and Anabelle Battershall.

FREE 85-YEAR-OLD SENTENCED FOR ATTEMPTED RAPE

BALTIMORE (AP) — A federal judge has ordered the release of an 85-year-old man sentenced five-years ago-to life imprisonment for the attempted rape of a school teacher.

Judge Alexander Harvey II signed an order Wednesday freeing Winfield S. Waters after finding that state courts refused to reconsider the sentence.

Federal authorities said the octogenarian could not have attempted the rape because of his near-blindness, crippled legs and age.

Waters emerged from the five years in prison, headed for his sister's five-acre farm and observed:

TAKING LIBERTIES WITH MAE WEST is the apt title of this whimsical sculpture getting a critical overview from cleaning women prior to the opening of an exhibition in London.

ers on the fighting in Jordan will take place in Cairo Saturday.

It will be attended by Egypt, Libya, Syria, Sudan, Lebanon, Kuwait, South Yemen and the Yemen Republic.

The representatives will discuss ways to "stop the blood bath in Jordan," the agency said.

In Tel Aviv, a prominent Israeli newspaper listed Thursday what it called essential conditions for a partial Israeli withdrawal from the Suez Canal.

The military correspondent of Haaretz said Israeli troops could not retreat more than eight miles to a point where they could still observe the vacated sector.

Correspondent Zeev Schiff said the area would have to be patrolled by an international police force, containing some Israeli but no Soviet troops.

Israel would reserve the right to re-occupy the vacated territory if it was taken over by Egyptian forces in preparation for an all-out war for the Sinai Desert, he said.

Egypt's foreign minister Mahmoud Riad says his country will never accept adjustment of its boards with Israel and will continue pressing for the complete withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied Arab territories.

Riad said in an interview with the English language newspaper Kayhan International and broadcast by Tehran Radio, that if the Israelis keep "our territories there will be no peace."

TRINITY LUTHERAN LADIES AID ELECTS SLATE

ARENZVILLE — Trinity Lutheran Ladies Aid held an all day meeting on April 1 with Mrs. Lawrence Meyer leading devotions and presenting the topic, "Who Should Go to College?"

Mrs. Gladys Morgan and Mrs. Sue Coats were guests. Mrs. Morgan told about the new mission chapel in Macomb, and the Aid voted to donate a $25 gift for it.

Mrs. Clara Leischner and Mrs. Grace Schmittner spoke about the orientation program at the Jacksonville State Hospital, and Mrs. Leischner, Mrs. Schmittner and Mrs. Rosalie Vanderpool plan to attend the April 14th meeting.

Election of officers was held, president, Mrs. Harold Witts, vice-president, Mrs. Grace Schmittner, and secretary, Mrs. Ellis Vanderpool being re-elected for another term, treasurer, Mrs. Elmer Roegge. Mrs. Herbert Tegerd will serve another year as cheer secretary, and Mrs. Homer Fricke is the new Christian Service Chairman, Mrs. William Maschmeier, pianist.

A letter was read concerning the LWML District Convention to be held at Buckley. Mrs. Lawrence Meyer and Mrs. Edward Carlis will be delegates to the convention, and Mrs. John Leischner and Mrs. John Phelps are alternates.

The Mite Box collection was received, along with donations for the State Hospital party. Those furnishing cupcakes through the Volunteer Service Committee on April 14 will be Mrs. Homer Fricke, Mrs. William Huppe and Mrs. Josephine Janssen.

Serving the noon luncheon were Mrs. Herbert Strubbe, Mrs. John Phelps, Mrs. Homer Fricke and Mrs. Edward Carlis.

Election Results In Jersey County

JERSEYVILLE — Supervisors for Jersey County were elected in five of the eleven townships Tuesday, with contests in four of the bids for Supervisor offices.

In Piassa Township George E. Kruse, on the People's ticket, won over Ethel M. Garbig, Independent. Kruse is the incumbent in the office and a long-time member of the Board. The vote was 255 to 68.

Harrison Wilford (Willie) Campbell, Independent candidate, a newcomer was elected supervisor in Quarry Township defeating E. J. Lefavre, another long-time member of the Board who ran on the Citizen's ticket, the vote being 400 to 231.

BEGGS-ROBBINS 2-PIANO RECITAL AT MAC SUNDAY

The eighth annual "Music for Two Pianos" recital program will be presented by Mac Murray faculty members Hugh Beggs and Ralph Robbins in Orr Auditorium, Sunday, April 11.

The 4 p.m. program will feature a variety of selections by four well-known European composers. The public is cordially welcome to attend the performance.

The program will include "Concerto in C major for Two Pianos" by Bach, "Six Etudes in the form of a canon" by Schumann, "Variations on a Theme by Joseph Haydn" by Brahms, and "No. 1 Avec emportement" (from "En blanc et noir") by Debussy.

Mr. Beggs, Professor of Music, joined the MacMurray faculty in September, 1931. He is a graduate of Drake University and the Eastman School of Music. He has studied extensively in Europe: at L'Ecole Normale de Musique in Paris, the Tobias Matthay Planoforte School in London, the School for Foreigners in Potsdam, and also in Vienna and Berlin.

Dr. Robbins, professor of Piano and theory at MacMurray since 1942, was previously Chairman of the piano department at Hastings College in Nebraska for 12 years.

He is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music and Columbia University, and holds the Ph.D. degree in Musicology from the University of Berlin.

GRANDCHILDREN OF ROODHOUSE WOMAN CONTEST WINNERS

ROODHOUSE — At the school music contest held April 3 at Industry, Sue Ellen Merriman of Bluffs, granddaughter of Mrs. Charles Pierret of Roodhouse, was awarded first place in the piano solo, Intermezzo by Brahms. She also received first place in a flute trio selection.

Her brother, and grandson of Mrs. Pierret, Steven, received first in a trumpet duet and second in his trumpet solo in Class A. He was accompanied on the piano by his sister.

Former Roodhouse Community High School teachers visiting his father, Elmer Storey, during the week were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Storey, of Oak Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Phillips and daughter, Kathy, of Arthur, visited during the weekend with Mrs. Jerry Hagen whose husband was hospitalized at the time and who has died. The visitors also spent some time with other friends.

Mrs. Jerome Vincent and children, Nobleville, Ind., returned home after a visit here with her father and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Nolan.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burke, Mt. Vernon, are visiting her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Smith, rural Roodhouse, and with Jacksonville relatives.

Weekend visitors in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Dean Spencer were friends, Mr. and Mrs. George Richards and Kim, Dixon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bandy spent Sunday with their granddaughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. David Bandy and family, Litchfield.

HANK WILLIAMS, JR. WED NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country and Western singer Hank Williams Jr. has married a former Dallas model, Gwendolyn Sue Yeagrain.

The wedding Wednesday evening was attended by about 150 relatives and friends. The couple plans a wedding trip to London, where Williams will sing Saturday at the third International Festival of Country Music.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—This is a story that might help explain why many business and government forecasters could be very, very wrong about the economy this year.

Conceivably, it might also help reaffirm our faith in the mental capacity of consumers, and shake up some overly confident theoreticians and clever marketing men.

Most economists are generally agreed that it is the consumer who must lead the nation out of the economic wilderness into which it receded in 1970.

They reason that the consumer has been able to save more than 7 per cent of his take-home pay for more than a year and that, based on prior experience, the time has come for him to spend those savings.

Slight fluctuations in the savings rate can have enormous impact, and could even be the difference between boom or bust.

In the last half of 1968 and the first half of 1969, for example, the rate of savings dropped from 7.4 per cent to 5.5 per cent, resulting in an $11 billion increase in spending.

Something of the same was forecast for 1971; it hasn't arrived.

Tilford Gaines, vice president and economist of Manufacturers Hanover Trust, puzzled over this. He had attended a meeting earlier this year of a dozen respected economists, all of whom were confident spending would rise.

Gaines finally concluded that perhaps economists were placing undue importance on the effect of fiscal and monetary policies in building their economic models.

In the language of the trade: "What ever else may be concluded from the erratic behavior of the savings rate, and therefore of consumer spending habits, it is quite obvious that spending habits are not just automatically adjusted to influences coming from the independent or exogenous variables to which economists have attributed so much importance."

The paragraph is worth re-reading, but simplified, it suggests that an understandable failure of forecasters is that they tend to overlook the free will of customers and view them instead as puppets whose actions respond mechanically to tugs on the strings.

"Consumers obviously have minds of their own," Gaines concluded.

He suggests that forecasters may be overlooking a fundamental shift in consumer behavior and that this shift probably explains why savings remain high and spending lags on big ticket items.

"It is possible," he continues, "that what has come to be known as the 'new life-style' is being reflected in a major way in consumer spending," one aspect of which is to buy down rather than up, to seek the model at the lower end of the line, in cars, appliances, clothes and other categories.

Americans, it seems, are not trying as they did to keep up with the Jones nor are they, for guilt or other reasons, trying to drop down with the Browns. They are just being themselves.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices rose slightly Thursday as the market advanced for the fourth session in a row. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials finished ahead 1.90 points at 920.39 and set a new 22-month closing high.

Advances on the New York Stock Exchange led declines by a narrow margin.

Gains were scored by steels and aircrafts. Drug stocks were lower. All other groups were mixed.

Some analysts said the market might have been stronger if President Nixon had set a definite date for final U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam in his speech Wednesday night.

"Despite this letdown, the market is still more than holding its own," remarked Robert Stovall, director of research at Reynolds & Co.

Brokers said they were gratified that the market was able to overcome the selloff that usually occurs before the three-day Easter weekend. Exchanges will be closed Good Friday.

Big Board turnover declined to 17.59 million shares from 22.27 million shares Wednesday.

Of the 1,680 issues traded on the Big Board, 775 advanced, and 625 declined. New yearly highs were reached by 135 issues and lows by 10.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks rose 0.08 to 56.33. The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced 9 to 321.3. Industrials were up 2.5, rails were up .2 and utilities were off .3.

The number of blocks of 10,000 or more shares traded on the Big Board fell to 125 from a revised 171 Wednesday. On the American Stock Exchange there were 19 blocks of this size.

The most-active Big Board issue was Texaco, up 1 1/2 at 21 1/2 on a volume of 290,500 shares.

Other issues on the Big Board's most-active list included Fannie Mae, up 2 1/2 at 71 1/2; Computer Sciences, up 1/2 at 13 1/2; Textron, off 1/2 at 28 1/2; and Imperial Corp. of America, up 1/2 at 17.

The American Stock Exchange index advanced .04 to 26.41. Of the 1,138 issues traded, 471 declined and 430 advanced. Volume declined to 4.84 million shares from 6.09 million shares Wednesday.

Planes Bomb Ceylon Rebels

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Ceylon air force planes bombed insurgents holding out in a school and a textile factory, the government announced Thursday.

A brief broadcast by the government radio said the school and factory were 40 miles from Colombo. The communique said the factory was financed by East Germany.

No mention was made of casualties in the air raid, which took place Wednesday. But the government said 55 more insurgents had been killed. Earlier it reported 18 insurgents killed and many others injured.

Reinforcements were sent to southern Ceylon, where regular police were reported facing heavy insurgent activity. But an army spokesman maintained the rebel attacks were "scattered and sporadic."

Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike announced the rebellion Tuesday and blamed it on an organization of young leftist militants known as Che Guevarists after the Latin American revolutionary.

No Trace Remains At Babylon Of Ancient Hanging Gardens

By ABDULLATIF EL MAYYI
BABYLON, Iraq (AP) — The Socialist government of Iraq has been urged to replant the Hanging Gardens of Babylon and revive one of the ancient seven wonders of the world to lure tourists to Iraq.

Baghdad newspapers have asked the government to restore the fabled gardens to their ancient splendor. "By rebuilding the Hanging Gardens, the government will encourage tourists to visit the site of Babylon," said one editorial.

Not a trace of the gardens remains at this dusty archeological site 60 miles south of Baghdad. Of the city of Babylon itself, once glowing with a splendor unrivaled in the ancient world, only a few low brick walls, mounds of earth and the main gate have survived the centuries.

And of course, the Lion of Babylon.

The Lion is a stone figure erected near the site of the old temple of Babylon. Though much smaller than the Sphinx of Giza in Egypt, it has one thing in common with that enigmatic half-man half-lion—it has no nose.

Egyptian history books say

Napoleon lopped off the Sphinx's nose with one of his cannons just to put the Egyptians in their place.

No one knows how the Lion of Babylon lost his nose.

And little is really known about the Hanging Gardens. Iraqi tourist pamphlets say the Hanging Gardens were built by Nebuchadnezzar in the 6th century BC to please his queen. She came from the highlands and pined for some greenery to refresh the arid plains of Mesopotamia.

Water from the nearby Euphrates River readily was available and Nebuchadnezzar cast as a villain in history because he deported the Jews from Jerusalem to Babylon—fulfilled his wife's whim and planted the gardens.

Victorian artists in England pictured the gardens as fabulous botanical treasure houses, refulgent with rare and splendid plants.

They were represented as terraces upon terraces of lush cool greenery, full of the scent of fragrant flowers, bushes and trees. The portrayal was in keeping with Babylon's slightly decadent reputation from the time it was the capital of the Babylonian civilization in Mesopotamia.

Archaeologists and historians in more recent times have cast a colder eye on the Hanging Gardens.

To begin with, it appears they weren't hanging at all. The gardens were vast fields planted outside the walls of the old city. There was a fragrance but it probably was the smell of onions, not the aroma of some rare and fragile plant.

For the gardens really were large vegetable patches, where Babylonian farmers grew cucumbers, onions and other staples. Some sections were also planted with vines to provide grapes for wine.

At any rate, the gardens now are not existent. A wooden signboard next to a low brick wall here says in English and Arabic "Hanging Gardens—One of the Seven Wonders of the World."

Donkeys and sheep nibble on the dry grass. A trickle of visitors turn off the road to have a look at the site and have a bite to eat at a restaurant.

A small museum houses artifacts and relics dug up in the surroundings. The only touch of color is provided by the remnants of the Ishtar Gate, through which triumphal processions used to pass into the city.

A yellow brick structure, it is adorned with lions and bulls in glazed blue tile. The noseless Lion of Babylon is grey.

North Greene Tips Jacksonville, 4-1

WHITE HALL — Karl Wendell fired a three-hitter and North Greene scored three times in the third inning as the Spartans clipped Jacksonville High School 4-1 Thursday afternoon.

Wendell scattered three singles and did not allow an earned run in fanning seven and striking out three walks. Dave Engel allowed five hits in his five innings, whiffing five and walking one, before giving way to Steve Anders in the sixth for the losers.

North Greene jumped in front in the second when Mark Keller opened with a single and moved to second when Mike Bell was hit by a pitch. Keller stole third and scored on a double play.

The winners pushed in three tallies in the third in what proved to be the deciding surge. Wendell started it with a one-out double, with Garrison drawing a walk to follow. Gene Vinyard drove in a run with a single and Keller followed with a two-run double.

Jacksonville, now 3-3, got its lone tally in the fifth when DeFrates and Engel reached on errors and Dave Lampitt stroked a single. Wendell then got a ground out and a key strikeout.

JHS threatened in the opening inning when Lampitt and Matt Freesen walked and Ed Aring singled, but a double play and a strikeout ended the threat.

Coody Takes Early Spread In Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) —

Charles Coody, a rangy Texan who blew a chance to win this event two years ago, ripped six strokes off par and stormed into the first-round lead in the 35th Masters Championship with a stunning 66 Thursday.

The 33-year-old Coody, veteran of nine years on the pro tour, held an imposing three-stroke lead over a group of five tied at 69.

They are veterans Don January, Bob Lunn, former PGA champion Ray Floyd, Bob Murphy and Hale Irwin, a 25-year-old tour regular who is seeking his first professional victory.

Jack Nicklaus, the reigning PGA champion and the man favored to win this tournament, had a mediocre 70. He missed two short birdie putts on the final two holes.

"I'll never learn," he said, shaking his head in disgust. "I was moving my head. I'll just never learn to keep still."

"It wasn't a good round. It wasn't bad, but those two missed putts kept it from being good."

"I'm four strokes back, but there's three rounds to go."

He was only one of the really glamour names of the game able to break par during the warm, sunny day that lured a massive gallery of some 20,000 to the 6,900-yard, par 72 Augusta National Golf Club course.

As usual, a large portion of them followed Arnold Palmer, who has won this title a record four times. But Palmer took a 73, including a double bogey six on the 10th hole where he missed the green and three-putted from five feet, missing from eight inches on his second putt.

"I played atrociously," Palmer said. "It's the worst round I've had all year. I can't think of anything I did well. I drove poorly and I hit a lot of bad irons. I made a couple of putts, but I missed a couple of short ones, too."

Defending champion Billy Casper had a 73 "and am very pleased," he said. "I feel fortunate to have scored that well today."

Tony Jacklin of England, the U.S. Open titleholder, matched Palmer's 73.

Coody, a Texas Christian graduate and former Air Force officer, had a big chance for the 1968 Masters title.

He held the lead alone when he walked off the 18th green on the final round.

South African Gary Player, winner of two consecutive tour events earlier this year, matched par 73 and was six strokes off the pace.

"I remember thinking I could par in and win it," he recalled. But he bogeyed all three of the closing holes and finished fifth.

Coody has won two four events, the 1964 Dallas Open and the 1968 Cleveland Open.

He's been a consistent money winner for the last several years, but hit a slump last season when his clubs were lost on an airline.

"I'd had that driver for a long time," he said. "We'd been through a lot together. I guess I had to go through 15 to 20 new ones before I found one I could work with."

"I'd had that driver for a long time," he said. "We'd been through a lot together. I guess I had to go through 15 to 20 new ones before I found one I could work with."

HALAS' SON LATEST BEFORE GRAND JURY

CLEVELAND (AP) — George S. Halas Jr., president and general manager of the Chicago Bears, testified Thursday before a federal grand jury here investigating the National Football League for possible antitrust violations.

Halas, son of Bears' owner and founder George Halas, refused to comment on his testimony. He was the lone witness before the jury, appearing in both morning and afternoon sessions.

The jury has been probing the NFL since November and has concentrated its efforts on reports of alleged blacklisting in the league.

Billingham, Hiatt Stop Chicago, 7-3

HOUSTON (AP) — Jack

Hiatt, an ex-Cub, drove in the first two runs with doubles and Jack Billingham fired a four-hitter Thursday night as the Houston Astros trounced Chicago 7-3.

Hiatt came to the Astros from the Cubs last fall and this was his first time he faced his former teammates.

His second-inning double off Ken Holtzman followed a two-bagger by Denis Menke. In the fourth, Hiatt's double chased in the first of three Astro runs that inning. Billingham's grounder and Joe Morgan's infield hit scored the others.

Holtzman's wildness — he walked seven — hastened his exit in the fifth. A walk opened the inning and with two away the Cub lefty walked Hiatt. Don Kessinger's diving stop of Roger Metzger's infield single loaded the bases.

A walk to Billingham produced one run and reliever Jim Colborn yielded a single to Jesus Alou for another. Alou also knocked in a seventh-inning run off Phil Reagan.

Billingham retired the first 12 Cubs he faced. Ron Santo's single broke the spell in the fifth and he scored on Johnny Callison's single. Glenn Beckert singled and Billy Williams hit his third home run in three games for the other Chicago runs in the ninth.

Calvin, Harge Let Floridians Blast Kentucky

MIAMI (AP) — Mack Calvin's 35 points and Ira Harge's rebounding ignited the Floridians to a 129-117 victory over Kentucky Thursday night that evened their American Basketball Association Eastern Division semifinal playoff at two games apiece.

The best-of-7 series resumes Saturday in Louisville, Ky.

Harge held Kentucky's rookie center Dan Issel to 16 points and contributed to Issel's fouling out with 8:31 left in the game.

Issel fouled out right after the Colonels narrowed a 16-point deficit to 3 midway through the fourth quarter.

Without him, the Colonels' rally ended and the Floridians won easily.

Harge scored 21 points and had 20 rebounds in support of Calvin. Cincy Powell led Kentucky scoring with 21.

Walker Blanks Philadelphia 2-0 On Five-Hitter

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Willie Stargell slammed a two-run double and Luke Walker held Philadelphia to five hits as the Pittsburgh Pirates shut out the Phillies 2-0 Thursday night.

Woody Fryman and Walker were tied in a scoreless duel until Stargell's double in the sixth. Roberto Clemente had singled and Bob Robertson walked before Stargell's hit.

Some Still Recovering From Tragic Air Crash

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — For two 20-year-old widows, tomorrow is a mixture of indecision and planning of misery and hope.

It has been that way for Carol Stainback and Nancy Griffith ever since Nov. 14.

Before then, Carol and Nancy were the wives of Marshall University football players. Both were expecting children, since born.

Like 19-year-old Jeff Heath, a sophomore premed student at Marshall, and his 19-year-old sister Kathy, life was only beginning for Carol and Nancy last November.

New Carol and Nancy and Jeff and Kathy are looking for a new future. Their problems are much the same and were caused by the same tragedy.

On Nov. 14 a chartered jetliner carrying the Marshall football team and prominent Huntington residents home from a Saturday afternoon game in North Carolina crashed into a muddy hillside one mile shy of its destination.

Among the 75 victims of that crash—the worst air tragedy in American sports history—were David Griffith, Jerry Stainback and Mr. and Mrs. T.I. Heath, Jeff and Kathy's parents.

In the almost five months since the crash, Jeff, Kathy, Carol and Nancy have made some decisions to adapt to their new circumstances. But none of them have committed themselves to a permanent course.

Now, Jeff is a business major. He changed fields to allow more time for other duties. Now, Jeff is father and Kathy is mother to 19-year-old Holly and 12-year-old Kevin, their younger brother and sister.

Kathy stays at home, taking care of the house and tending to her infant daughter, Shannon, husband, Charlie Watson, 20, a Marshall student, and brother and sister.

"Nobody talks about the crash much any more," Jeff said. "We're just trying to make a life for ourselves."

Nancy Griffith went home to her parents in Chase City, Va., soon after the crash. Her husband, a senior defensive end, was captain of the team.

On March 14, four months after her husband's death, Nancy moved back to Huntington. With her came daughter Angela Dearing, born Jan. 21. They moved into the same apartment the Griffiths had occupied before the crash.

"I have no real reason for coming back," she said, "but it's been our home for almost two years."

Carol Stainback, another native Virginian, is now living with her parents in Richmond, Va. With her is son Daniel Dodson, now 17 months old, and daughter Jennifer Susan, born Jan. 11.

Like Mrs. Griffith, Mrs. Stainback is considering a return to Huntington and Marshall to begin working on a college degree.

"The reason I consider coming back to Huntington," she said, "is because everyone there has been unbelievable. They have been just wonderful. Anything they can do to help

"But with two children, I have a lot to consider."

Nancy, who like Carol received $18,000 in payment of an insurance policy from the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), said she doesn't plan to work in the near future.

Carol says the only thing she's sure of is a return to school this summer.

She had originally thought about returning to Marshall. Now, she's not sure.

"I think there's too many memories back there," she said.

IC Scores 4-3 Dual Net Victory

Pete Schmidt and Frank Bridgewater scored a come-from-behind, three-set victory in the final doubles match to break a 3-3 deadlock and give Illinois College a season-opening 4-3 triumph over Illinois Wesleyan on the IC courts Thursday afternoon.

IC got three points in singles activity, via Dave Lienard, John Bellatti and Bridgewater. After the visitors, also opening their year, captured the first doubles test, Schmidt and Bridgewater, a pair of juniors, scored a 4-6, 6-2, 6-1 count for the tiebreaker.

Singles Dave Lienard (I) d Roger Ascraft (W) 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

Tom Kasazinski (W) d Pete Schmidt (I) 6-0, 6-2.

John Bellatti (I) d Jack Williams (W) 6-3, 5-7, 6-1.

Frank Bridgewater (I) d Gary Wendling (W) 6-4, 7-9, 6-2.

Ernie Kacinski (W) d Mark Strawn (I) 6-0, 6-2.

Doubles Ascraft-Kasazinski (W) d Lienard-Bellatti (I) 7-5, 6-2.

Schmidt-Bridgewater (I) d Williams-Kacinski (W) 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Final score: Illinois College 4, Illinois Wesleyan 3.

Perry captured a 14-0 romp in the six-inning opener, with Kurfman firing a one-hit shutout and driving in six runs.

Kurfman, who twirled a no-hitter last week, fanned 15 batters in six innings, walked three and allowed only a fifth inning pinch single by Bruce Lister. Kurfman blasted a grand slam homer in the sixth and a two-run triple.

Hirst blasted a pair of home runs for Barry's 8-7 count in the nightcap, including a game-winning grand slam in the fourth inning.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (NEA) — The frail figure of Robert Tyre Jones Jr., still sets the tone at the Masters. It was his golf tournament, devised in 1934 as his perpetuating memorial. He was only 32.

Bob Jones (he never has liked being called Bobby) funneled all his devotion to the game which had made him a hero of the Golden Twenties into the one week of spring rites at the course carved out of the rolling clay hills of northern Georgia.

And it is a bit of sadness that he can no longer be at the white frame cottage on the edge of the 10th tee. He is desperately ill from syringomyelia, the progressive disease of the spinal cord which has made him an invalid for more than 20 years.

The last time spoke to Bob Jones was at that cottage six Masters ago (that's how you tell time in Augusta). I was able to get in through the intercession of my good friend Furman Bisher of Atlanta. Jones was deep in an easy chair, his omnipresent wheelchair nearby, casually wearing a robe of green, the color which has become symbolic of the Masters.

To show you how time doesn't change very much, he was talking then about a young golfer who had burned the course the day before with a marvelous 64.

"It was probably the finest round of golf ever played," said Jones deliciously. "I don't see how you could play any better. Nobody ever combined his power with his style. No, style is a person's individual expression of himself. I should say his power and form. He has a beautiful swing, so effortless it looks like he's not putting anything into it."

Jones was talking about Jack Nicklaus, and all his thoughts still pertain, for Nicklaus still is the dominant figure in the Masters field, and nobody plays golf better than he.

A tribute from the great can be cherished unattenuated. Years ago there was a press tournament at St. Andrews in Westchester County, N.Y., to celebrate the 100th anniversary of this country's oldest golf course. While most of the writers were out backing, one, a little timid about showing off his lack of style (no, form), hung around the clubhouse. Bob Jones was there.

Already the roots of social ferment were dug in and spreading. The Supreme Court decision of 1964 ordering integration in the south had been handed down. Jones was a lawyer, but his views reflected his patrician upbringing. And I recall a sense of shock when he said he was against mixing blacks and whites in the same school system because the blacks were too sexually precocious. He was, however, gentle in his tone and understood that change was inevitable.

The conversation was cut short so that all could go out and participate in a putting contest which would cap the outing. The timid one went along, too, and took his turn at tapping the ball around the green. He actually won the contest.

The prize was a putter, to be presented by Robert Tyre Jones Jr., the most famous golfer ever.

I still have that putter and use it, if ignobly. But the greater reminder is a framed $10 picture at home showing a man sitting, extending his hand in congratulations. It is my memory of the Master golfer.

Hannum Takes Over Denver Job

DENVER (AP) — Alex Hannum, who has spent the last 22 years traveling pro basketball circuits, moved again Thursday to become president, general manager and coach of the American Basketball Association's Denver Rockets.

Hannum, 48, resigned Thursday morning as coach of the San Diego Rockets of the National Basketball Association, then hopped a plane for Denver.

"I couldn't be more pleased," he said of his new job. "It's something I've wanted and needed for some time."

Hannum said his five-year contract with Rockets' owner Bill Ringsby included an opportunity for profit-sharing and participation ownership of the 4-year-old franchise.

"The scope of power the Ringsbys (Bill and son, Don) have given me is probably the most important factor in my coming," he said. "I've spent the last 22 years of my life in pro basketball. Now, I've got an opportunity to use all I've learned. I've got the weight of the whole franchise on my head."

Hannum denied reports that he had been unhappy with his financial situation at San Diego or that he had encountered problems with San Diego star Elvin Hayes.

"He's going to have complete charge of managing, directing, coaching," Ringsby said. "I feel he's the best there is."

Ringsby, who saw his home game attendance drop nearly 50 per cent this year to an average 3,987 a game as the Rockets posted a 30-54 record, had at one point talked of pulling out.

"But that's all behind us now," he said Thursday. "I've never been more enthusiastic about basketball. There's no way we'll move out of Denver."

As general manager, Hannum will replace Don Ringsby, interim general manager since the resignation of Dick Elcher two years ago.

In the coaching job, he succeeds Stan Albeck, who joined the Rockets last July as an assistant head coach last November.

Sarazen Evens Out At Augusta

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gene Sarazen shot an eight Thursday on the 15th hole of the Augusta National course where 36 years ago he scored his famous double eagle in the Masters Golf Tournament.

In 1935, Sarazen holed out a 220-yard, four-wood shot for a two on the 530-yard par 5 that enabled him to tie Craig Wood and later win the Masters title in a playoff.

In the first round Thursday, the 60-year-old squire played his second shot short, hit his third into the water, dropped out with a penalty stroke and took three putts.

"That makes my average for the hole even par," Sarazen commented.

Last time the PGA championship was decided by the match play method, Lionel Hebert beat Dew Finsterwald, 2 and 1, in 1967 at Miami Valley in Dayton, Ohio.

(First of Two Parts.) NEW YORK (NEA) — Colleges and professional sports leagues have worked together — "conspired" might be closer — to restrict the freedom of choice of young athletes.

The situation has been publicized and may in time be changed by the Spencer Haywood case. Haywood, the first of what appears a growing group of college undergraduates to sign pro contracts with the American Basketball Association, has highlighted a basic conflict between the laws of the land and the laws of the National Basketball Association and National Football League.

(The latter two being aided by the tacit approval of the colleges.)

The NBA and the NFL have refused to draft college players whose class has not yet graduated. Whether the athlete himself graduates after four years has never been of much concern to the pro leagues. The ABA, meanwhile, struggling to stay financially alive, is trying to get whatever talent it can to challenge the NBA and effect a merger.

The draft rule has benefited the NBA and NFL. It has benefited those few athletes who could — or who could have — received large bonuses or contracts to turn professional when they were sophomores or juniors in college. Or, for some, right out of high school.

The significant point is that supremely gifted young athletes did not have a choice. Nothing like this cozy arrangement between colleges and pro leagues exists in other areas. For example, if a college sophomore majoring in journalism can latch on to a newspaper job, that fellow has a prerogative.

The paper does not say that the candidate cannot be hired until his class graduates — whether or not he receives a degree. What industry that relies more on talent than an academic book learning would be that arrogant? There are in fact two.

The draft rule has benefited the pro leagues: They have in the colleges a minor league which they need not subsidize. Also there is a convenient line of demarcation for drafting which helps keep a balance of league competition.

The colleges benefit in keeping $1 million intercollegiate programs stable. Outstanding athletic teams bring glory to the school, which is a source of pride to alumni who are prospective donors.

Haywood's case has been settled out of court. But a test case concerning the four-year rule may yet arise which will determine the course of the drafts, unless the leagues do it themselves.

"We are constantly reevaluating our draft rules," said NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy. "We anticipate that future drafts may have to be conducted under different rules. What the changes will be I cannot predict."

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the NFL, was a bit more testy: "I can't believe a practice that is for the protection of the colleges could be legally ruled in."

NEW YORK — Conspicuous by its absence at Riverfront Stadium was a clock.

Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati was barely completed in time to be the site of Major League baseball's all-star game last season. When the Reds were competing in the World Series three months later, there was still no clock high up someplace ticking silently, hands pacing in relentless monotony, ending where it finished and informing the fans not to forget that they were in some vague rush.

It was altogether proper that a clock should not exist at a baseball game. And as a new season gets underway there is still no clock at Riverfront Stadium.

In baseball, as Roger Angell wrote in a recent New Yorker article, time moves only by the events of the game: "This is the unique, unchangeable feature of baseball, and perhaps explains why this sport, for all the enormous changes it has undergone in the past decade or two, remains somehow rustic, un-violent, and introspective."

In other popular spectator team sports in America, most notably basketball and football, the clock virtually represents life or death. It seems no coincidence that those games have been called the reflections of our times, and that baseball has been scorned as a remnant of a time long gone.

Baseball has tried to "modernize" in many respects. Riverfront Stadium is the most flagrant example of that. It is not only the ungracious, un-natural, unsmelling AstroTurf, but it is a baseball AstroTurf to the highest 20th-century de-valid. If that would be, of course, it would no doubt destroy college football and basketball.

His fears were echoed by University of Mississippi basketball coach Robert Jarvis, whose star, sophomore Johnny Neumann, has signed a reported $2 million contract with Memphis of the ABA. Said Jarvis: "I feel the pros should have waited until a boy's graduating class finished. They are going to wreck a lot of good college programs if they don't."

They also could wreck some good college coaching salaries, which often thrive in high-pressure intercollegiate athletics.

Spencer Haywood has said, "The college gets a good player or two and all it thinks about is winning teams and packed gyms and money flowing in from all sides. Nobody thinks of the player himself." Except the pros, who are watching him mature, expense-free.

One highly placed pro basketball official said, "The original concept was that the player who decided to enter college presumably wanted to remain there. And the draft was instituted to prevent his being lured off campus by a pro offer." (Of course, the player had been lured onto the campus by recruiter-salesmen.)

The official line of the pros comes under suspicion by studies made which show that, for example, only about one-half of all pro basketball and football players receive degrees with their classes.

This is not a plea to keep exceptional athletes out of college. In fact, the abolishment of the "four-year" rule could affect only a few, the Alcindors, the Maravichs, the Gilmores, the Neumanns.

Of course these millionaires can spend their money any way they want. Night school, say, for an Alcindor, an Eldorado for a Ralph Simpson. College is for those who want it, and can hack it. The same for pro ball.

It should not matter if that star is a "hardship" case or not, whether he is being offered $1 million or not. He should be given a freedom of choice, which is what our country is supposed to be all about.

PEPITONE TICKETED CHICAGO (AP) — "You guys must be White Sox fans," joked Joe Pepitone of the Chicago Cubs told the cops who wrote him two traffic tickets Tuesday night.

The bewigged and straw-hatted Pepitone, 31, posted a $25 bond at the Chicago Avenue Police Station after he was charged with displaying expired license plates on his two-seater sports car and driving without a driver's license.

Phils Set To Initiate New Park

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gals in hot pants, an animated scoreboard, $15,250 super boxes, 4 elevators, 15 miles of ramps, parking for 18,500 cars, private restaurant club ... Philadelphia's new $45-million stadium offers everything to the fans but a baseball or football championship.

The Philadelphia Phillies play the first game Saturday in the eight-sided Veterans Stadium built on a 74-acre site adjacent to the city's indoor arena, the Spectrum, and the 100,000-seat John F. Kennedy Stadium, home of the Army-Navy football game. The new stadium seats 56,371 for baseball and 65,12 for football.

Bill Giles, vice president of the Phillies, says of the facility, "It's like comparing a Cadillac with a Model-T Ford."

He is comparing, of course, with the Phillies' old park, Connie Mack Stadium, a down-trodden 62-year-old structure in a neighborhood of older houses. Giles, who as promotion director of the Houston Astros, once was rebuked by the baseball commissioner's office for some of the messages displayed on the AstroDome scoreboard, has a spectacular ready for Phillies fans.

When a Phillies' player hits a home run, here is what happens in right-center field: Philadelphia Phil, a 20-foot figure appears between the scoreboards and hits a baseball. The ball travels to the electronic message board and strikes a Liberty Bell. The bell glows and the crack lights up. The ball continues and hits little Philadelphia Phyllis. As she falls, she will pull a lanyard on a cannon and the cannon will explode.

After the smoke and sound effects, a colonial American flag, that is rolled up, will drop down. Then a color water fountain shoots water to the tune of "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Giles says he has had nightmares that the thing won't work the first time the button is pushed in the computer control room on the press box level of the stadium. It takes four people, plus director Larry Shenk, to operate the involved electronic equipment.

Rentzel Receives Probated Sentence

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboy football star Lance Rentzel pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of exposing himself to a 10-year-old girl and was sentenced to a five-year probated sentence with the understanding he receive regular medical and psychiatric care.

The 27-year-old Rentzel said, "I plan to work with my doctor until the problem is resolved. I promise that."

Rentzel's football future is in doubt although he said, "I promised the team I'll be back and I will."

Tex Schramm, president and general manager of the Cowboys, told The Associated Press that Rentzel's "future is the same as any of our other players."

Rentzel placed himself on the inactive list after he was indicted Nov. 30 last year on indecent exposure charges.

Rentzel's court appearance took less than 20 minutes. Standing before Judge John Mead, an uncle of the wife of fullback Walt Garrison of the Cowboys, Rentzel pleaded guilty in a barely audible voice.

Mead could have sentenced Rentzel to 15 years imprisonment but took into consideration that the popular Cowboy had no prior felony convictions.

The shaggy-haired Rentzel was accused of exposing himself in suburban University Park while sitting in a car. The license number of the automobile was taken by a neighbor and police traced the vehicle to Rentzel.

After Thursday's sentencing, Rentzel, the husband of motion picture and television personality Joey Heatherton, stopped at the Dallas County Courthouse press room.

With tears welling in his eyes, he said, "I want to thank the team for standing by me to a man. It was the highlight of my athletic career."

When Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo won the 1971 Panama Open golf tournament with a final round 63 it marked the 132nd tourney win for the 48-year-old PGA pro. It was his third Panama Open. First prize was $3,500.

Pitchers on the roster of the Kansas City Royals show 66 major league victories for their 1970 efforts. The Royals won 65 games last year.

Hodge's Single Lets Cleveland Down Bosox, 3-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rookie Gomer Hodge's two-out, two-run single in the ninth inning lifted the Cleveland Indians to a 3-2 home opening victory over the Boston Red Sox Thursday.

Hodge, who had doubled as a pinch hitter and scored in the eighth inning, singled off Ken Tatum to score Ray Fosse and Doug Camilli.

Boston had built up a 2-0 lead on a pair of inning-opening homers, by Luis Aparicio in the third and by pitcher Sonny Siebert in the fifth.

Siebert, who had pitched a two-hitter over seven innings, then was tagged by Hodge's double, a pinch single by Ted Uhlaender and John Lowenstein's single in the eighth before Sparky Lyle came on to end the rally.

Then in the ninth Tatum took over and greeted by Vada Pinson's single, Fosse was hit by a pitch and Ken Harrelson sacrificed. Camilli pinch hit and hit a grounder to George Scott who threw Pinson out at the plate, the other runners going to third and second. Hodge then followed with his game-winning hit.

HIPS, Local Ecology Group, Meets Monday

The first meeting of HIPS, an ecology-minded action group, was held March 8 in the MacMurray Student Center.

The action group was started by the original members of the Jacksonville HIPS (Housewives Interested in Pollution Solutions) and by area people who attended an ecology class sponsored by the area council of churches and headed by Dr. Burkett Milner.

The speaker for the evening was Dr. John Husa who gave his views on present pollution problems.

The group then voted to join with the original HIPS who have already organized a glass collection in the Jacksonville area, to be held April 17, and May 1st. A receiving station has been obtained on the grounds of the Jacksonville State Hospital for these dates. The goal is to eventually obtain a permanent collection building for the recycling of the glass and other materials.

The next meeting will be held April 12 at the MacMurray Student Center at 7:30 p.m. Everyone interested in the group is encouraged to come and bring a friend.

Girls Plan To Picket Little League

SMYRNA, Del. (AP) — Could those little fellows in the Little League uniforms actually be big symbols of male chauvinism?

Maybe not, but it's going to be hard to convince three Little League misses otherwise. The three girls unsuccessfully tried to register to play Little League baseball Wednesday.

They were turned down simply because they were girls.

The rulebook of Little League Baseball Inc., at Williamsport, Pa., says: "Girls are not eligible."

But in the style set by older members of women's lib, the girls said they would picket Little League games and practice sessions.

Although they had previously been told that Little League rules prohibits girl players, Mary Grace Orlando, 11, her sister Margo, 9, and Christine Burris, 10, stood in line with 90 boys and a few mothers waiting to sign up.

When asked why she wanted to sign up for Little League, Mary Grace said, "I like to play baseball. I don't think it's fair that girls can't play. Boys have everything."

Mark Jacobs, 13, a veteran of five seasons on Little League is all for women's equality.

"They ain't got no coordination," he said. "If they are good enough, fine. But they aren't. Women's Liberation! If they want to play, let them, but they've got to go to war."

State Controls On Cable-TV Debated

CHICAGO (AP) — Two witnesses at an Illinois Commerce Commission hearing on cable television (CATV) gave opposing testimony Thursday on whether the industry should be placed under state regulation.

Dr. Merrill J. Shepro, president of Scientific Communications, Inc., a cable television firm in suburban LaGrange Park, testified that CATV has been in existence for more than 20 years "and has not demonstrated a need for state regulation."

Shepro contended that current rates for CATV, averaging about $5 a month, are "reasonable and uniform."

The witness said his firm has applications pending in more than 70 Illinois communities in which it seeks authority to set up CATV systems.

Shepro listed advantages he said accrue to the public from CATV systems:

—Decentralization of control of a major media of communications formerly in the hands of a few large nationwide monopolies.

Release of television programming from the economic control of advertisers into the hands of viewers. Development of more extensive educational and informational uses of television than has been the case with the broadcast television industry.

The witness responded to claims of some witnesses that CATV bears the characteristics of a public utility. He said it resembles radio, newspapers and motion pictures more than it does a utility such as a telephone company.

But a witness who favors state regulation of the industry asserted that CATV "is monopolistic in nature."

William R. Malone, counsel for General Telephone Co., Bloomington, testified, "We know of no community in Illinois where customers have a choice among competing CATV systems."

Once a CATV operator has developed an area, no other operator is likely to come in," he said.

Malone testified that rate increases by CATV systems "seem likely in the near future." He said the need for regulation by the state is "immediate."

He said the CATV industry anticipates a large percentage of its future income will come from what he called "ancillary services," including information, meter reading and banking and shopping services.

"The furnishing of most of these ancillary services clearly is in the nature of common carrier undertakings and would therefore be subject to the state's jurisdiction as are public utilities," Malone said.

He said the state must play an important role in CATV regulation "because the Federal Communications Commission and the Congress seem unwilling to pre-empt the cable television regulatory field."

The American Bowling Congress 1971 championships in Detroit are scheduled to end May 23. The tournament lasts 79 days.

Bowling Webers: Family Tradition

By JOE MARCUS

NEW YORK (NEA) — Like father, like son?

"Half as good and I won't have any complaints."

That's how 20-year-old Dick Weber Jr. answers inquiries about his hopes on the Professional Bowlers Association tour — a tour that his father has been dominating for the past decade.

"I feel it's unfair for people to ask me to compare myself with my dad," Dick Jr. said.

"There aren't many bowlers who could accomplish what Dad has done and I'm very proud of him."

"Of course, when I'm out on the tour I'm out to beat everyone and if it means beating dad then I'll be very happy."

I know that if it ever comes down to the point where we're rolling together with a title or a higher finish at stake he'll do his utmost to beat me and expect me to do the same."

The Webers plan to make about 10 head - to - head tour stops in the next year. Last year was Dick Jr.'s first on the tour, and the pair never met head - to - head.

"I'm very proud of my youngster," Dick, 41, said. "But this is a tough business and you can't let up against anyone. You've got to roll your best against all competitors. After all, they're all out after the same thing you are — money and prestige."

"Several weeks ago I was up against my brother-in-law Norm Myers. I put together five or six straight strikes at the end to beat him. I had a funny feeling. I felt great that I had won and at the same time a little sorry for Norm, who has been having his troubles in the past few years."

The elder Weber, who last year gained admittance to the American Bowling Congress' Hall of Fame, started bowling when he was 10.

After he graduated from high school Dick toured his hometown area of Indianapolis, Ind., trying to make a living out of bowling. After four years he decided to follow his wife Juanita's advice and take a steady

Mrs. Rosenbold, Of California, Dies In Cass

Lucille Rosenbold, 58, of Encino, Calif., died at 11:45 a.m. Wednesday at Schmitt Memorial hospital in Beardstown.

She had been visiting relatives in Rushville.

She was born Sept. 25, 1912 at Ray, Ill., daughter of Frank and Bertha Cook Curtis. She married Jack Guleserian in June of 1935. He preceded her in death in 1964. In 1969, she married Ralph P. Rosenbold who survives.

There are three children surviving; two sons, Armen and William Harold Guleserian, both of Encino; and a daughter, Mrs. Miriam Summers of Lockport, Ill. There is one grandchild.

Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Russell Kennedy of Huntsville, Ill.; her step-father, Clarence Reno of Rushville; and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by a brother, William.

Mrs. Rosenbold was a member of the Methodist church of Van Nuys, Calif., and a lifetime member of the City of Hope, a cancer research organization.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. this afternoon at the Roby Funeral Chapel in Rushville with Rev. Ronald Brock officiating. Burial will be in the Rushville cemetery.

RECALLS THE BABE

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Duffy Lewis is 82 this spring but he still recalls something that happened 54 years ago. And who wouldn't? Duffy pinch hit for Babe Ruth in 1916 when both were with the Boston Red Sox.

"Manager Bill Carrigan asked me to pinch hit for the Babe who was pitching that year," says Duffy. "I got the hit that won the game."

Nobody else ever pinch hit for Ruth.

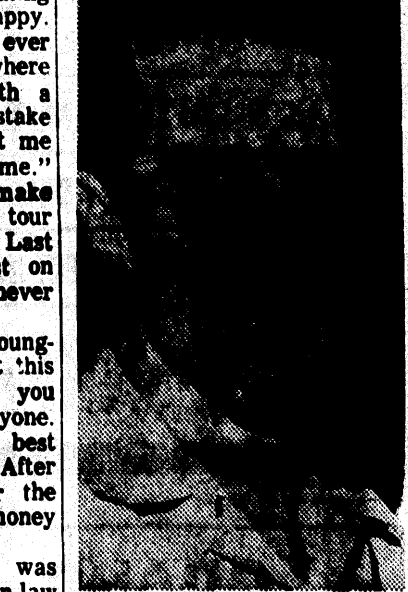

George Edward Lewis played 1,459 American League games and for eight years was a regular in the Red Sox outfield with Harry Hooper and Tris Speaker.

Manager Earl Weaver of the champion Baltimore Orioles operates on the theory that three catchers offer a team protection at that important position.

job. "I became a mailman," he recalled. "I was making a big $3,700 a year. But I still kept on bowling and in 1953 Don Carter asked me to come to St. Louis and join the Budweiser team. Man, am I happy that I took him up on that offer." He now earns an estimated $150,000 a year.

Weber has become the most feared competitor on the circuit and has surpassed his old teammates and foes — such as Carter, Ray Bluth, Billy Welu and Harry Smith — in the quest for money and prestige.

"I own a bowling lane in St. Louis and another in Florissant where we live," Dick said.

Dick Weber Sr.

"Richard (which is what Dick calls his son) operates one of the pro shops and gets out for several tournaments. I want him to realize that making it is a rough grind. No one is going to give you anything. You've got to earn it by yourself."

Weber Sr. has won four National All-Star Tournaments and 22 PBA tournaments. The most satisfying was the PBA's 1965 Houston Open.

A week prior to the event Weber's doctor, during a routine physical noticed spots on his lung. Dick feared the worst. While still waiting for the results of further examinations Dick rolled in the Houston event and set a PBA mark by recording three perfect games.

"I guess maybe I was thinking that might be my last tournament," Dick said. "But the alarm proved unfounded."

For Weber the annual PBA Nationals have been frustrating. He has gone to the post 10 times in that event and has yet to win.

"I'll be out there trying again later this year," he said.

And if Dick Weber Jr. enters the same event?

"If he does," Dick Sr. said, "tell him that to me he's just another guy I'll have to beat."

Mexico's Oaxaca Area Has Abundant Fiestas

By JOHN PLATERO
Associated Press Writer
OAXACA, Mexico (AP) — An-

A study is under way into the Zapotecan culture with the hope that its secrets may help today's world solve some of its problems.

Research Director Dr. John Paddock says the Zapotecas developed an advanced society over the centuries only to encounter economical and environmental difficulties. Their culture ebbed, but later they emerged anew and attained even greater advancement.

"These people were in a good frame of mind and licked their problems," Paddock said. "If we can find out what the motivation was, perhaps we could apply it to today's world."

Most of the natives in the Oaxaca area still speak Indian dialects as well as Spanish. But only a few know a smattering of English.

Women and young girls alike wear long black skirts to the ground with colorful striped blouses and gold earrings. During each fiesta, and there seems to be one every other day, women appear heavily adorned in gold necklaces and beautifully embroidered blouses.

Mothers everywhere breast-feed their little ones in public as they sell their vegetables and wares in the public market.

Cooked iguana and armadillo are eaten by the local populace, but frowned on by tourists.

Distinct pottery, serapes and handwoven belts are plentiful in the Oaxaca area, and a two-hour siesta is enjoyed by all.

From the outside, its appearance is almost simple. However, the interior is filled with gold and intricate carvings on the walls and ceiling. The main altar and choir loft leave one breathless with its richness and colorful carvings.

Surrounding this city are the ruins of an ancient civilization that began about 1000 B.C. and lasted until after the Spanish conquest in the 16th century.

She's Pregnant And Trapped Teen-Age Runaway Lives In Despair

Oh, God, if you are there, Please let someone take this crying baby off my hands. And let my feet dance once more.

I am so old. And I was never young.

—Teenage Lament by Nancy Curtis
By TOM TIEDE

NEWARK, N.J. (NEA) — At her request the girl herein will be called Janice. "Don't say I'm Jane Doe," she asks. "I'm not really dead. I only wish I was."

Janice is 18, blonde, short, pudgy.

Until last year Janice was like a good many of the kids in large cities and small — "liberated" is the word most commonly used. Long hair which her mother didn't like; old clothes which her father complained about; bare feet, sometimes, which elicited excitement from the principal of her school.

Not a bad kid. A confused kid. Out to beat a world in which she had grown up much too fast.

"I didn't like school. I didn't like home. I didn't like anything. I mean, everything was a drag. I remember once my father asked me to wash his car. I mean he told me. I got mad and said I wouldn't. He went out and filled a bucket with soapy water and said I would. I don't know why but I threw the bucket in the living room. Some things broke and it almost ruined the sofa. I'll never forget my dad then. He just walked out. He couldn't hit me, he couldn't yell any more, he couldn't do anything. So the poor old guy, he just walked out."

A few months after, Janice walked out, too. She joined what she calls the street scene, gave up school, took up soft drugs (pot and pills) and became infatuated with a boy on a red motorcycle who worked nights in a supermarket.

Now, half a year later, Janice wishes she were dead.

She's pregnant. She's trapped. She lives in a two-room bumpy apartment on whatever her boyfriend earns at the supermarket. At 18 years old she sits daily in an ancient chair next to a television set and wonders how the hell she got this way.

Her case, of course, is hardly unique. Kids have forever gotten her way mysteriously. But the circumstances here are a bit unusual. For one thing, she's not married; the trend among young people today, according to Census Bureau statistics, is to live together but not get married. For another thing, Janice is aware of her mistakes and is willing to discuss them with a candor that belies her age.

"I was a dope," she says. "I was just a dope."

Sitting uncomfortably on a floor cushion, twisting her hair into tangles, occasionally glancing at a soap opera on TV, the girl says it all with despair:

"Like, I can't blame nobody by myself. Not even my parents. My dad, he's not bad. He works in some shop or something. I don't even know what he does. I think he told me, but I never cared. And my mom, well, after I was 14 or 15 I thought she was a mess. She wouldn't fix her hair, she'd wear those baggy old slacks around the house. She always had this cigarette in her mouth. I didn't have anything in common with her, you know? Is that awful to admit?"

"I always figured my marriage would be different (Janice refers to her situation, inaccurately, as marriage). I mean, Larry always made me feel so good. We'd go to a show and then sit in his car. Maybe have some grass. I never wanted to leave him. Each time it was better than before. The more I saw of him, the more I wanted to get married. The more I hated school, the more I wanted to leave home. Like, it got to be the only thing I wanted in the world, to be married to Larry."

To Janice, her courtship seemed a long time. Actually it was less than three months. The couple then decided that they would "do it the right way." Live together. Like marrieds. Only not really. No hang-ups, no formalities, no hassles.

"You know, I thought I'd never have the guts to leave home and live with him. Only I got pregnant, and there was no choice. (She says she usually took birth control pills, but goofed.) Larry got real mad when he heard about it, but he calmed down. We both decided that maybe it was for the better. So we got this apartment. I think he pays $110 a month or something. And at first it was really nice, you know? We even had some parties. And I got out of cooking much by getting TV dinners. So it really wasn't bad. For a while at least."

"I don't know what happened. When you're pregnant, after a while you can't have any sex. Maybe that was it. Anyway, Larry started acting different. We started arguing. I couldn't go out because it was snowing and I was afraid of falling. He got into a wreck with the bike and we had to sell it. We got more doctor bills and some unexpected other things. I couldn't afford the TV dinners and the meals got bad. I don't know. It all went to pieces after a few months. Now I'm worried about Larry even. He talks about leaving. And I guess I cry a lot."

Indeed, she does cry a lot. In great sobs, while repeating her story. In small, quiet whimpers, when pausing for breath.

"I'm sorry, I don't mean to bawl."

The girl wipes her eyes with her hair. She looks at the television set.

"You know what I wish. I wish I could go back to school. I was always going to be a

Discharged Cadet To Become Doctor

DEARBORN HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — Leonard Siazinski, who resigned from the Air Force Academy as a conscientious objector, said Wednesday he wants to become a doctor so "I can heal rather than kill."

Siazinski, a tall, thin 21-year-old with slightly shaggy brown hair, is the first cadet in the academy's history to resign and be honorably discharged as a conscientious objector.

He was discharged March 24, two and a half months before graduation.

"It was a kind of rebellion," Siazinski said at his parents' home in the Detroit suburb of Dearborn Heights.

"It's not just wearing a fancy uniform. It's taking part in killing—even if you're only handing bullets to someone else. Everything in the Air Force is connected in some way with war," he said.

"It's not easy to say 'no' to killing once you're there in the situation," Siazinski said he enrolled at the academy without strong views on war or military life, but gradually became a pacifist through talks with civilian friends and personal reading, especially the works of Mahatma Gandhi.

He entered the academy because "it was a free education and I had no scholarships and no money at the time. I never thought of the military side of it," he said.

His philosophy became "try to treat people as human beings and God's children and accord them the same respect I'd like to be accorded myself."

He said he found, however, that philosophy "is impossible in the military when you have to order men to kill and be killed."

He taped a magazine photograph of the victims of the My Lai massacre to his door and was told to take it down and that he "shouldn't try to be the conscience of the academy," Siazinski said.

Another time, officers restricted his car to campus until he removed a peace sticker, he said, but added, "They treated me fairly."

Like Being Born Again Released Prisoner Says

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — "It's like being born again—it's like coming back from the dead," said James P. Fioramonti following his release from prison after serving 3½ years for two robberies he says he didn't commit.

Fioramonti's early release from Stateville Penitentiary came after another man confessed in court last month to one of the robberies.

The confession exonerated Fioramonti, 29, of one charge and Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie commuted his sentence for the other and made him eligible for parole.

"My thoughts are on my wife," Fioramonti said Wednesday as he collected his release pay of $60 plus $1.46 for transportation to his home in Chicago 40 miles away.

"She never lost faith," Fioramonti added. "She never believed I was the one."

His wife, LeeVal, 25, and their daughter, Jamie, 5, broke into tears and laughter as the prison doors swung shut behind him.

"This is the best day of my life," Mrs. Fioramonti said. "I'm just glad I've got him back."

Fioramonti, a salesman, was convicted in 1967 of the $3,070 robbery of the Silver Leaf Savings and Loan Association and subsequently pleaded guilty to another $400 robbery. He insists he confessed to the second charge on the advice of his attorney to win concurrent, rather than consecutive, sentences.

He was sentenced to concurrent 10-to-15-year terms. An FBI agent's investigation later turned up James Basile, 36, who pleaded guilty to the savings and loan holdup. Officially, Basile bears a marked resemblance to Fioramonti.

Fioramonti and his family plan to take a short vacation before he starts work as an electronic equipment salesman in Chicago.

COM EDISON PLANS FIFTH A-POWER PLANT

CHICAGO (AP) — Plans for construction of a fifth nuclear power plant have been announced by Commonwealth Edison Co.

Edison chairman J. Harris Ward estimated Wednesday the plant would cost $700 million and would contain two units capable of generating 2.2 million kilowatts.

This would put the facility on a par with the Zion plant, now being completed and the plant proposed for La Salle County.

Edison also is constructing an additional unit at Dresden and one at the Quad Cities.

Ward said no site has been chosen for the new facility. Another Edison spokesman said the plant would not be built in Chicago or on the Lake Michigan shore.

Construction probably would begin in 1973 with initial operation slated for 1978.

Ward said full operation at the fifth plant would bring Edison's nuclear capacity to 9.6 million kilowatts. He said by 1980 over half the firm's power supply will be generated by nuclear plants.

Private Charged With Murdering Two Officers

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Army private has been charged with murdering two lieutenants in his artillery unit by throwing a fragmentation grenade into their quarters while they were sleeping, a spokesman of the 1st Cavalry Division announced today.

The spokesman said Pvt. Billy D. Smith, 22, of Watts, Calif., has been charged with premeditated murder in the deaths March 15 of the two officers at the Bien Hoa Army base, 15 miles northeast of Saigon.

The spokesman said Smith also is charged with three counts of attempted murder but he refused to say whether these counts involved accusations of attempted murder of three other persons. He said the circumstances concerning these charges would be revealed at Smith's trial.

No trial date has been set. Smith was apprehended at Bien Hoa March 15, the day of the alleged murders, and is now in the Army jail at Long Binh awaiting trial.

VIETNAMESE APPRECIATIVE DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A Decatur physician and surgeon says South Vietnamese patients were very appreciative of his services.

Dr. Arthur L. Ennis recently returned from a two-month tour through a program of medical assistance of the American Medical Association, the Volunteer Physicians for Vietnam.

Ennis said he was stationed in a 307-bed hospital as a surgeon. He aided both Vietnamese and the Army physicians. Cases he treated included motorcycle accidents, fractures, some gunshot and shrapnel cases, burns, malaria, typhoid, hook worm, round worms and tape worms.

LITER BAPTIST AID TO HOLD BANQUET, MAY 6

The Liter Baptist Aid met in the church basement with Mrs. Edward Charlesworth, Mrs. Edward Brainer, and Mrs. Edna Mallicoate as hostesses. President Mrs. Marvin Sorrell called the meeting to order with Mrs. Joe DeGroot leading the pledge to the flag.

The group sang with Mrs. John McGinnis leading and accompanied by Mrs. Edward Brainer. The secretary, Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoate, read the minutes; and Mrs. John McGinnis gave the treasurer's report. Roll was answered with an April fool joke.

Mrs. Paul Mallicoate read the devotion and Mrs. John McGinnis read the Easter program which were prepared by Mrs. Rex Kelley, who was unable to attend due to illness.

A contest was held and won by Mrs. Roy Lair. The hostesses served delicious refreshments. Guests present were Mrs. Roy Lair, Susan Brauer, and Lisa Pierson.

The May meeting will be the Mother and Daughter banquet to be held in the American Legion Building in Arenzville at 8:30 p.m. on May 6 and served by the ladies of the Methodist church. Members are asked to let one of the committee members, Mrs. Paul Mallicoate, Mrs. Glenn Walbert or Mrs. Gene Pierson, know who their guests are no later than May 2.

Legislative Excuses By The Thousand As Lawmakers Dawdle

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois legislators acknowledge, sometimes grudgingly and with sideswipes at the opposition, that they have dawdled through the first 12 weeks of the current session, passing only 27 relatively minor bills.

Eying a stack of tough, controversial issues such as education, welfare and reapportionment, they say the pace must quicken when the House and Senate reconvene next Tuesday after their Easter week recess.

"The backlog is going to catch up with us one of these days," Sen. Robert Coulson, R-Waukegan, acting minority leader said.

"These bills are going to become urgent," Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anaconda, House minority leader, said, in one of a series of interviews with key lawmakers, that the current term "has been the slowest to this point that I've seen in my legislative tenure."

So far, Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has signed into law 12 bills, several of them providing stopgap money to bail out ailing state agencies, compared to 13 at the same time in the previous session.

But House and Senate sources indicated their work is far behind that of the last term, with much key committee work ignored in favor of haggles over confirmation of two gubernatorial appointees and verbal jousting over such highly partisan issues as the late Secretary of State Paul Powell's money bequest to the Democratic Party.

"The Senate seems unable to process bills through committee," Coulson said. But he added that when the crush of legislative business gets weighty enough, "they'll shake down."

Republicans accused the Democrats of delaying various controversial measures because of last Tuesday's Daley-Friedman mayoral election and spending more time in Chicago ward offices than Springfield committee rooms.

This was icily denied by Sen. Cecil A. Parlee, D-Chicago, president pro tempore of the Senate.

Asked if his pledge to unveil the Democratic legislative program next week meant he was waiting until after the election, Parlee replied: "I don't see any real correlation between the election and the program—they're two totally different things."

Democrats also retort that key spending bills have been late in arriving from the governor's office.

Although about 80 of the 95 money proposals that Ogilvie plans to submit for fiscal 1972 have been introduced, the governor has handed one of the biggest issues, spending on colleges and universities, back to the schools themselves.

He has delayed in submitting his potentially explosive public aid bill, probably until next week.

Rep. Henry J. Hyde, R-Chicago, House majority leader, said the governor "of course had to wait and see what the hell is going to happen on revenue sharing."

Ogilvie has budgeted $65 million for welfare which he hopes will be funded through federal revenue sharing, President Nixon's public assistance plan or some similar measure. Congress appears to be stalled on both issues.

One reason for the Illinois legislative logjam, suggested by several leaders, is what Hyde termed "the newness of virginity of the leadership."

He acknowledged he fits into the category himself having just assumed the mantle of leadership this term.

Most of the major powers of both chambers from previous years are gone.

In the House, for example, the redoubtable Democratic leader John P. Touhy of Chicago has moved to the Cook County Board. Longtime minority whip Paul F. Elward of Chicago is gone. Former speaker Jack E. Walker, R-Lansing, now is a senator.

In the upper chamber, Thomas C. McGoon of Chicago, former Democratic leader, has accepted a judgeship. And the Senate's longtime gray eminence, Republican leader W. Russell Arrington of Evanston, is confined to a hospital bed, although the secretary faithfully intones his name for each roll call vote.

Blaming Democrats for delaying on an antismoke bill for Chicago, Hyde said, "I think in the old days Jack Touhy would have banged that thing through."

Of the 27 bills approved by both houses so far, five have rushed to the aid of financially floundering state agencies, including a $103,000 appropriation for the Illinois Crime Investigating Commission, which more and more has been overshadowed by other enforcement groups.

Other bills passed: —Provided $226,500 in extra compensation for leaders in both houses, allowed for hiring of an assistant secretary of the Senate and cleared the way for salary increases for House and Senate aides.

—Raised the salaries of Illinois Commerce Commissioners.

—Increased the pay scale for highway commissioners.

—Raised the salaries of sanitary water district trustees from $600 to $600 a year.

With the toughest bills still ahead of them and a likelihood of major legislation to be introduced next week, most leaders said the prospect of a less laconic tempo when they reconvene Tuesday is good.

"The real nitty gritty hasn't been introduced yet," Hyde said. "But I'm confident that next week we'll start blasting away."

I want to thank everyone who voted for me in Tuesday's election.

Homestead Rejection Fools County Taxes

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — County clerks complained Thursday of the apparent impossibility of uniform application of the Illinois Supreme Court's rejection of a homestead tax exemption.

The court last week declared the $1,500 exemption to persons 65 or older on 1970 tax bills violated the tax uniformity requirements of the 1870 constitution.

Some clerks have said they will comply with the decision. Others have said circumstances and law prevent this.

In their dilemma, the executive committee members of the Illinois County Clerks Association recommended that the 102 clerks ask their state's attorneys how to proceed.

"It is necessary that the local situation be evaluated locally," said Walter Obinger, association legal adviser. "Every county is different."

The decision apparently caught most counties by surprise. Their computation and mailing of tax bills for this year, including the allowance of the exemption voted by the 1969 legislature, were far advanced when it came. Some tax specialists had anticipated the court might withhold decision until present tax bills were paid.

Seven of 10 county clerks meeting in Ottawa this week said they were mailing their tax bills so as to grant the exemption, but most counties probably will not grant it.

Differences in handling of the bills developed because some counties had tax billing programs farther advanced than others. Some clerks said the law forbade them to take back tax books for refiguring after they had been delivered to the county treasurer for collection.

Some smaller counties have accelerated schedules designed to get prompt payment of tax bills in the summer and fall.

Obinger said refiguring tax bills could cost a county more than the recovered exemptions would bring in.

Uniformity problems were complicated in tax districts that include counties which did not and did not grant the exemption. Tax rates of such districts would not apply equally on taxpayers in the two types of counties.

The Model T Ford was owned by Carson Klitz, a Rushville lawyer.

The roof of the Towncraft Wood Products building was damaged. There was also water damage to the building, which houses the Central Illinois Public Service offices.

The roof on the welding shop was destroyed though there was no fire damage to machinery there.

Rushville Fireman Don Koppelman suffered a mild concussion and several cuts when a wall collapsed, showering him with bricks, while he was disconnecting a meter.

He was listed in "satisfactory" condition at Culbertson Memorial Hospital in Rushville Thursday night.

Koppelman is a Rushville alderman and a candidate for mayor.

The fire is believed to have spread from an incinerator located behind the Worthington garage. No damage estimate was available Thursday night.

JAYCEES TO HOLD ANNUAL EGG HUNT AT PITTSFIELD

PITTSFIELD — The Pittsfield Jaycees will hold their annual Easter egg hunt on Easter Sunday, beginning at 2 p.m. in the field north of the Pittsfield High school, weather permitting. In case of rain the hunt will be held on the following Sunday, April 18.

Children will be divided into three age groups, one to three, four to six and seven to ten and will hunt the sacks filled with Easter eggs with their respective age groups. Some sacks will contain a slip of paper with a number which entitles the finder to an extra prize.

Merchants have helped the Jaycees with special contributions to the Easter egg hunt. All children are welcome.

Inspectors Call County Jail Unacceptable

State inspectors looked over the Morgan County jail again Thursday and once more recommended that it be abandoned. A similar conclusion was reached by the three-man team from the state Bureau of Detention and Jail Standards over two months ago.

The county commissioners restated their belief that the jail should be improved to conform with acceptable standards rather than shut down.

Sheriff Harold Wright said the inspectors told him that while it might be possible to bring the jail up to minimum standards it would be only on a temporary basis and eventually would have to be closed.

Wright said the inspection team would return soon and make specific recommendations concerning improvements at the jail.

Louis Joy, 73, Born At Loami, Dies In Minn.

LOAMI — Louis E. Joy, 73, of Pequot, Minn., died at 4 a.m. Wednesday at the Veterans Hospital in St. Cloud, Minn.

He was born Oct. 31, 1897 at Loami, son of W. C. and Ola Elmore Joy. He married Irene Hunziker in New Berlin in 1924. She survives with one daughter, Mrs. Betty Yates, of Anaheim, Calif. There are two grandchildren.

Mr. Joy was a ticket agent for the Illinois Central Railroad for many years. He was a veteran of WW I and a member of the Methodist church.

Friends may call from 2-9 p.m. Sunday at the McCullough Funeral Home at Loami.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Monday at the funeral home with the Rev. Harvey Wright, pastor of the Loami Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in the Sulphur Springs cemetery at Loami.

W. L. Deatherage Dies Wednesday At Beardstown

BEARDSTOWN — Wallace L. Deatherage, 79, died Wednesday morning at his residence near Beardstown.

He was born in Morgan County on Oct. 7, 1891, son of Henry and Fannie Jolly Deatherage. He married Ethel J. Siegmans in 1946 at Huntington, W. Va. She preceded him in death March 21, 1969.

Mr. Deatherage is survived by two brothers, H. O. Deatherage of Beardstown; and Walter D. Deatherage of Waverly; a half-brother, Reed Shipley of Pekin; a half-sister, Mrs. Julia Howard of Beardstown; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by a brother and his parents.

Easter Egg Hunt Planned In Winchester

By Mrs. James Cox (Winchester Correspondent) (Telephone 742-3817)

WINCHESTER — The monthly meeting of American Legion Post No. 442 was held April 7 at the Legion Hall. Approximately 60 Legionnaires enjoyed the fish and chicken supper that preceded the meeting.

Commander Irvin Ehlerth conducted the meeting. It was announced that those who are going to help with the Easter Egg Hunt should report at Ebaugh Park by 12:30. The Easter Egg Hunt is scheduled to start at 2 p.m. Sunday at Ebaugh Park. Children ages one through 12 are invited to participate.

The hunt is sponsored by the Legion with the local business and professional places cooperating. In case of bad weather, the hunt will be held the following Sunday.

Commander Ehlerth stated that he had been approached for the Legion to donate a flag pole for the new nursing home. A motion was made and passed to do so.

The Legion signed a contract with Glenn Smock to provide the amusement rides for the upcoming Burgoon in August. The Legionnaires voted to purchase 100 bumper stickers "America Love It or Leave It" and distribute them at 25 cents each.

The members were reminded of the visit of the Bloodmobile April 13 to be held at the Legion Hall. Jim Miner's name was drawn for the $100 door prize. He was not present to win.

The next meeting will be May 5.

CWF Meets The CWF of the First Christian church met April 8 at the church for their monthly general meeting. Nineteen members were present.

The president, Mrs. Weldon Fearnough, directed the business session. A memorial book was presented to the CWF by Mrs. Maude Gillham to be kept in the church library to record memorial gifts to the church.

Mrs. Virginia Norman and Mrs. Eddie King volunteered to keep these memorials recorded.

Announcement was made of a CWF Workshop to be held May 16 for this area at the Central Christian church in Jacksonville from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. Officers and group leaders were urged to attend.

The members were reminded that subscriptions for "Illinois Christian" are due and anyone wishing to renew or subscribe to this church magazine may do so by contacting Nellie Roosa.

The CWF will sponsor a bake sale sometime in May. Mrs. Jesse Saffer will be chairman of the sale.

The lesson "Values of Conflicts" was given by Nellie Roosa with devotions being presented by Mrs. George Myers.

In charge of refreshments were members of the Dorcas Circle. They were: Mrs. John Carlton, Mrs. Bessie Andell, Mrs. Mike Rumpel, Mrs. Wes Andell and Mrs. Russell Norman.

Cancel Regular Dance The square dance lesson sponsored by the Scott Square 'N' Aders which would normally be held Saturday has been cancelled. Next lesson in the series will be April 17.

REITHER on Beardstown

By Virgil Reither

BEARDSTOWN — A. C. (Todd) Schuettler has been re-elected Beardstown township supervisor.

Running as an Independent against Dick Lashbrook, a Democrat precinct committeeman, Schuettler polled 770 votes to 451 for Lashbrook.

Sam Campbell of Beardstown ran unopposed for re-election as road commissioner and received 840 votes.

Park District Vote A heavy vote was registered in the Park Board election Tuesday with four candidates out for two positions.

Winners were Milton LaMaster with 385 votes and Nels Glesne with 355. They will have six year terms. Defeated were Robert Rankin and Robert Gillenwater with 331 and 281 votes respectively.

John White, unopposed for a two year term, received 601 votes.

Cultivating Friends Farmer friends of Fred Ruppel gathered at his farm in the Bluff Springs area Tuesday and plowed about 100 acres readying it for the spring planting.

Mr. Ruppel has been hospitalized for some time due to illness and his neighbors were as anxious to get his work done as they were to get their own finished.

About 10 tractors and drivers completed the job in quick time. Plowing has been underway for nearly two weeks, and one farmer said this week that most of the work is done.

Corn, beans and oats will be planted by the farm operators soon. Generally the corn planting is done toward the latter part of April, with beans waiting for warmer weather conditions. Oats are a "smaller" crop in this area.

City Council Lewis Jones, who has the landfill contract with the city, has asked that his contract be terminated as of July 1.

His request was read before the city council meeting in the city hall chambers Tuesday night, and aldermen decided to table the matter for study.

Jones said his reasons for the request were the constantly rising costs of labor and machinery.

Cleaning of sewers was discussed and a report was given by the firm which is making preliminary studies. The details included a statement that a half truck load of sand was removed from the sewer in a single block.

ASSEMBLY OF GOD WILL PRESENT EASTER CANTATA

The First Assembly of God church will present "Easter Song", an Easter cantata by John W. Peterson, Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. The guest conductor will be Dennis McHatten, music major at Evangel College, Springfield, Mo. It will be narrated by Pastor W. A. Gardner. Phyllis Evans will be the organist, and Darlene Tempeiman will be the pianist.

The public is invited also to the Sunrise service at 6 a.m. and the morning worship at 10:45 a.m.

State Road Program Valued At $25 Million

SPRINGFIELD — Fifty-six projects valued at $25 million were listed Thursday for bids to be received Apr. 22 in Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's 1971 road program, Public Works Director William F. Cellini announced.

The letting will be the fourth of nine scheduled for the 1971 road program, which is the largest in the state's highway building history, according to Cellini.

Projects on which bids will be received are located in 28 counties throughout the state. In Cass county, 2.87 miles of resurfacing on Illinois 125 east of Beardstown is scheduled. Also, 14.71 miles of widening and resurfacing on Illinois 108 from 4 1/2 miles east of Carrollton east to Illinois 111 is scheduled in Greene and Macoupin Counties.

The work up for bids includes a number of projects in Gov. Ogilvie's Immediate Action Program to upgrade older highways throughout Illinois that are too narrow for today's traffic needs. In addition to pavement widening and resurfacing, the program includes the widening or rebuilding of a number of narrow bridges along the various routes.

GRACE METHODIST YOUTH TO PRESENT EASTER DRAMA

The youth of Grace United Methodist church will present a drama, "The Continuing Christ" for the Sunrise Easter Service at 6:30 a.m., in the church sanctuary.

The dramatization is an attempt to move beyond the historical Easter and create an imaginary conversation among some of the young people who lived in Jesus' day.

Israeli Warplane Downed Over Golan

By The Associated Press
An Israeli fighter-bomber went down in flames over the embattled Golan Heights front Monday, and the two pilots bailed out and were captured in Lebanon. It was the first Israeli warplane lost over the front since the October war.

Tank and artillery duels raged from dawn to dusk along the length of the 40-mile Golan cease-fire line for the 28th consecutive day. No casualties were reported.

Syria said the Israeli F4 Phantom was brought down over Mt. Hermon by its air defense system, apparently meaning a missile. But Israel denied this, saying the plane burst into flames because of "a technical hitch."

Lebanon said the plane crashed in the Arkoub region near the village of Chebba, only six miles north of the Israeli border and about 40 miles south of Beirut.

A Lebanese spokesman said the two pilots were safe and said they were picked up about three miles west of Chebba. He did not say where they were being held.

Israel admitted using warplanes for the first time since the October war on Saturday. It said air strikes were ordered after the Syrians attacked an Israeli position on 9,000-foot Mt. Hermon, on the northern tip of the heights.

In Damascus, informed sources said Syrian delegates will leave for Washington within the next 48 hours for talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on disengagement with Israel on the heights.

They said the Syrian team will be headed by Brig. Gen. Hikmah Chehab, chief of Syrian army intelligence, and will include a few military and Foreign Ministry experts.

In Jerusalem, Premier Golda Meir spent the day consulting with her Labor party on whether to get rid of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, whose departure from the cabinet could bring down the government.

But she was unable to pull her bickering party together, postponed a key meeting of the party leadership set for Monday night, and left the crisis unresolved.

White House Abused IRS, Says Weicker

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House made a total effort dating from the first days of the Nixon administration to use the Internal Revenue Service and other federal agencies to control its political and ideological opponents, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker said Monday.

Weicker, R-Conn., made public a flood of memos which he said showed the systematic abuse of the IRS, starting with the creation in 1969 of a secret task force to collect tax information on so-called activist groups.

Using another set of documents given the Senate Watergate Committee, Weicker detailed what he said were 54 separate undercover investigations conducted for the White House by retired New York City detective Anthony T. Ulasewicz.

They included three separate and unsuccessful attempts to link Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., to "wild parties" in California, Hawaii, and Arizona.

Testifying before a joint session of three Senate subcommittees investigating the extent of covert government intelligence operations, Weicker also produced documents indicating the White House had a strong interest in the tax problems encountered by presidential friends, evangelist Billy Graham and actor John Wayne.

Wayne has sent a telegram to Weicker saying he never asked for or received IRS favors.

Weicker advised Wayne in a telegram to take his complaints to the White House and said he was sending the actor the memos in which White House aides John W. Dean III and John Caulfield discussed his tax difficulties.

Weicker produced what he said was an IRS memo that showed that Ronald Reagan, now California's Republican governor, was assessed $13,091 in taxes owed for the years 1962 through 1965.

The memo showed Wayne had been assessed $237,331 in taxes owed in 1966 alone. Other years for which deficiency figures were given showed much smaller totals.

Specific comparison tax audit information also was supplied the White House on entertainers Frank Sinatra, Sammy Davis Jr., Fred MacMurray, Peter Lawford, Jerry Lewis, Richard Boone, and on Lucille Ball and her husband, Gary Morton, the memos showed.

Weicker said the IRS memo on the formation of

Statistics On Murder Rate Told

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A baby born this year in one of America's 50 largest cities has almost a 2 per cent chance of being murdered in his lifetime, according to a mathematically based study released Monday.

Dr. Arnold Barnett, an instructor in applied mathematics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, told a seminar his study shows that a baby born in 1974 is more likely to be murdered than an American soldier in World War II was to die in combat.

Barnett said statistics based on the current murder rate also show that a male baby born in one of the 50 cities has a 3 per cent chance of being murdered. In World War II, according to Defense Department statistics, less than 2 per cent of the more than 16 million Americans who served were killed in battle.

However, the murder statistics are figured over a lifetime while a soldier's time in battle is very limited and many soldiers never get into combat.

Barnett said traditional homicide statistics compiled by the FBI, which showed about 20,000 murders last year, are "misleading" and unsatisfactory in predicting the risk of murder because they don't relate the deaths to the growing crime rate.

Barnett noted, for example, that the 250 people killed in Atlanta in 1973 seems a small number compared with the 500,000 who weren't. But he said "if this rate continues, homicide will be the cause of death of roughly one of every 27 Atlantans born this year."

Barnett uses a model projecting current homicide rates into the future. Using that applied to the current homicide rates, he found that one of 79 persons born in Boston this year could be murdered; one in 67 in New York; one in 60 in Chicago; one in 82 in Los Angeles; one in 40 in Washington; one in 35 in Detroit and one in 51 in Miami.

Farms Suffer After Storms

By The Associated Press

As new tornadoes struck the South Monday, farmers reported they had lost several million dollars worth of animals, crops and supplies in last week's vicious storms. But all agreed that the storm damage wasn't nearly as severe as it could have been.

An Associated Press survey of damage showed most spring crops had not been planted when the tornadoes struck 11 states and Canada, killing more than 300 persons and leaving thousands homeless. Federal officials estimate damage to all kinds of insured property is over half a billion dollars.

Meanwhile, new tornadoes struck in Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina on Monday causing one death, more than a dozen injuries and extensive property damage.

The fatality occurred when a tornado hit a mobile home in the southwest Georgia community of Lester. Three other persons were injured.

Extensive property damage was reported in Anderson County, S.C., where a tornado overturned several mobile homes and ripped a house from its foundation.

Eight persons were treated at hospitals and released after a tornado struck the northern part of Gainesville, Ga. The Georgia Civil Defense Department said six to eight houses and six to eight businesses were damaged.

A woman and two children were treated for injuries suffered when another tornado hit their mobile home 12 miles north of Cumming, Ga.

'A Matter Of Justice' Nixon Inks Wage Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation raising the federal minimum wage in stages from $1.60 to $2.30 an hour was signed into law Monday by President Nixon.

Nixon had vetoed similar legislation last year, and voiced reservations about the measure sent him by Congress. But he said he was signing it because "raising the minimum wage is now a matter of justice that can no longer be fairly delayed."

The measure raises the minimum wage for 36 million workers covered under the 1966 minimum wage law from $1.60 to $2.00 on May 1, with other increases boosting it to $2.30 by Jan. 1, 1976. The $2.30 rate will be effective for all affected workers by 1978.

In addition, the legislation extends federal minimum wage and overtime requirements to 7.4 million additional workers.

Nixon signed the bill in his oval office, telling Labor Secretary Peter Brennan, who was seated alongside, that "we wouldn't have it without you."

In a written statement distributed by the White House, Nixon said the new wage schedule fits his criteria for "reasonable increases... phased in so that the very people such increases are intended to help do not find themselves suddenly priced out of the job market."

He said Congress did not go as far as he wanted in protecting the training and work opportunities for youth and said the bill creates unemployment risks for domestic workers.

U.N. Economic Session Probes 'Fourth World'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The planet's poorest nations, newly dubbed the "Fourth World," get a chance to portray their plight at a special economic session of the United Nations General Assembly which opens Tuesday.

The session, costing about $300,000 and expected to last three weeks, will seek guidelines for coping with energy shortages and price explosions that are rejiggering world economies. Most drastically affected are the poor countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Economists have labeled this group the Fourth World to distinguish them from Third World countries which are developing but which are also rich or potentially rich in raw materials. The two industrially developed "worlds" are usually referred to simply as East and West.

United States Ambassador John A. Scali, in an assembly preview, told reporters the price increase in oil alone had added $12 billion annually to expenses of developing countries.

Noting that the United States has poured billions into foreign economic aid, Scali said "we would welcome all of the assistance that is available for this goal, particularly from any nation which finds that it has excess funds available now."

Oil exporting countries decided Sunday in Geneva to create a special fund to help developing countries, but did not agree on its size.

A British diplomat said the Soviet bloc nations in the past have "hidden behind the rather flimsy argument that aid is the responsibility of the rich Western countries. That

Khadafy Still Libya's Leader

BEIRUT (UPI) — The Libyan Information Minister was quoted Monday as saying that Col. Moammar Khadafy remains the country's leader even though he has given up political and administrative powers.

His position continued to be a major subject of debate in the Arabic press.

The Cairo newspaper Al Gomhouriya said the 32-year-old leader of the revolution that ousted the Libyan monarchy Sept. 1, 1969, had in effect been forced into the move at a "stormy session" of Libya's ruling Revolution Command Council. The Beirut newspaper An Nahar carried a similar report.

However, An Nahar, the Beirut daily Al Safir and other newspapers, quoted Libyan Information Minister Abu Zaid Dourdah as saying Khadafy himself instigated the changes in responsibilities. Egypt's Middle East News Agency and later the Libyan news agency (ARNA) reported over the weekend that Khadafy had handed over "political, administrative and ceremonial functions" to his prime minister, Maj. Abdel Salam Jalloud.

Information Minister Dourdah told As Safir: "The appointment of Jalloud to undertake political, administrative and ceremonial functions was the result of a decision taken by Khadafy himself because he wanted to devote himself to the armed forces and matters of ideology and organization."

He stressed that Khadafy remained Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces and chairman of the Revolution Command Council—a post that makes him chief of state.

Woodman! Spare That Last Straw!

Saying "You've got to stand up for what you believe in these days," a woman in Branford, Conn., proceeded to stage a brief sit-down strike in the branches of a 200-year-old Golden Beech to save it from the chain saw.

Mrs. Penny Stebbins, along with several of her neighbors, was attempting not only to save the historic tree but to prevent the building of a house on a lot facing Long Island Sound. As she explained, "When they started to cut it (the tree) down, that was the last straw. This is the last open piece of land on the water."

One can sympathize with Mrs. Stebbins while predicting both that the house will be built — no one has a legal right to stop it — and that it will never occur to her or her neighbors that if their own houses had never been built there would be many 200-year-old trees and many open pieces of land on the water.

The same thing has happened in other places, and each one is, in microcosm, the story of the settlement of America. If no one had come to the New World after the first settlers, there would be all kinds of unspoiled open space today.

The white man was quite willing to guarantee vast tracts of territory to its original owners, the Indians, with the promise that it would be theirs "forever." And for the most part, the pioneers meant what they promised, for they already had what they needed.

It was all those people who kept coming over from Europe, not to mention the children and grandchildren of those already here, who saw no reason to honor the treaties with the Indians. After all, there was still plenty of land left.

Today, in the more heavily populated areas, we are reduced to fighting for the preservation of the last remaining lot-sized parcels of open space — the "last straws." It's sad, but how could it have been otherwise?

China Burns Its Bridges

Having raked over the bones of that ancient philosopher of the status quo, Confucius, and attacked the evil influence of such Western composers as Beethoven and Schubert, the Mao minions are now waging a campaign to remind the Chinese of the indignities and atrocities they suffered at the hands of foreigners in the days when China was weak and helpless.

According to China-watchers on Hong Kong and Taiwan monitoring mainland broadcasts, the Chinese are being told in mass rallies of such things as the mass murder of 2,000 children in the southwestern province of Yunnan by unidentified "imperialists."

"Never forget class bitterness and blood-and-tears hatred," the participants at another rally are said to have shouted again and again.

Like the first Cultural Revolution, this latest one is apparently an attempt by aging Mao Tse-tung to whip the Chinese people into a permanent state of revolutionary fervor. The people seem to have an alarming tendency to lapse into complacency when they are not faced with some kind of internal or external enemy.

Ironically, it has been the very success of the regime in banishing the age-old specter of famine and giving the ordinary Chinese more economic security than they have ever known that has made such periodic convulsions necessary.

What effect this latest antiforeign campaign will have on China's recent tentative emergence into the outside world is not yet clear. At the very least, it suggests the difficulty of building bridges to a country that every few years has to burn them down in order to preserve its ideological purity.

As Cardinal Shehan Retires

The retirement of Cardinal Lawrence Shehan of Baltimore offers occasion for tribute to one of the nation's most remarkable and influential clergymen. From the time he became archbishop in 1961 until Pope Paul VI accepted his resignation the other day, Cardinal Shehan made creative use of church power to help bring about social reform.

It is Shehan's belief that religion and the pursuit of social goals are inseparable — that the church cannot be held apart from the world but must be deeply involved in political and social questions. He put this philosophy to work in many practical ways, notably in the early 1960s when he ordered parochial schools in the archdiocese racially integrated.

Cardinal Shehan's enlightened views of the clergy's role encompassed all aspects of public life. He observed at one time that the clergy "has a unique obligation to emphasize the moral implications of both foreign and domestic policy." This outlook was exemplified by his opposition to the war in Vietnam, which in 1971 he declared to be "a scandal the Christian conscience can no longer endure." The forthrightness of that expression was typical of this man of God whose career contributed so much to the concept of active involvement by the clergy in all important aspects of life.

Lines Drawn For Battle On No-Fault Insurance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate lines are drawn for one of the biggest legislative battles of the year—a showdown on no-fault auto insurance.

Major consumer lobbies representing motorists are supporting a bill to set minimum federal standards for state no-fault laws allowing auto accident victims to collect benefits without proving negligence. Victims could still sue for additional damages.

The opposition is led by the American Trial Lawyers Association.

The insurance industry is split. Supporting the legislation is the American Insurance Association, including State Farm. Opposed is the American Mutual Insurance Alliance, including All-State.

At stake are billions of dollars in auto insurance premiums, the $1.5 billion a year trial lawyers collect in auto accident cases, the welfare of injured motorists and possible relief for a clogged court system unable to handle the growing number of damage suits.

The problem is immense. Almost 30 million cars are involved in accidents each year, leaving more than 50 thousand dead and more than two million injured. The pending bill would not cover property damage although sponsors would like the state laws to include it.

It is estimated that auto accidents result in losses of $10.5 billion a year but that victims recover only $6.5 billion under the present system of having to prove negligence. And that is collected unevenly.

There is no compensation in 55 per cent of the cases involving death or injury. According to Virginia Knauer, the President's consumer adviser, a government study shows small losses frequently are overpaid while large losses are underpaid.

The reason: insurance companies are not interested in laying out big legal fees fighting small claims but bring out all their big guns to fight expensive claims.

The government study also showed that the present system is expensive as well as inequitable. Out of every dollar of premiums, the motorist gets back less than 50 cents in benefits.

Mrs. Knauer said that in no other system "does the payment mechanism, including the lawyer's fee, eat up so much of the benefit dollar, and leave the claimant with so little."

The trial lawyers deny their opposition to no-fault is based on the fact that roughly 20 per cent of all legal fees come from automobile accident cases. They claim it would violate the due process of the Constitution by limiting a victim's right to sue for damages.

The majority of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which cleared the bill by an 8-to-7 vote, rejected that view, citing workmen's compensation laws as a precedent.

In any case, defense lawyers for insurance firms would be seriously affected. Sen. Warren H. Magnuson, D-Wash., author of the measure, says a study shows that insurance rates could be lowered about $1.5 billion annually under no-fault.

Insurance company opposition is centered on the bill's provisions for unlimited medical and rehabilitation benefits. Some firms demand what they call subrogation—automatically paying victims holding policies with their companies but having insurance firms compensate each other when blame is fixed.

Although St. Helena's is run by the Seventh Day Adventists, no one tried to sell us religion. I was impressed by the dedication and the quiet dignity of the personnel. They truly believe in what they are doing but they apply no pressure to persuade the guests that theirs is the only way.

On Friday, December 7, I walked out of St. Helena's feeling very good about myself. "Keep in touch," said Dr. Herschel Lamp, the director. "We want to know how you get along." From that day to this I haven't had a cigaret. Easy? Of course not! There are times when the craving is so strong I must excuse myself from a meeting and go wash my face with cold water. (They taught us to do this during moments of crisis.) But I have kicked the habit, Honey, and if I can do it, anyone can.

Masami says gasoline prices are higher today in a ratio of 8 to 5 over September, and in the first panic of December-January he was limited in the amounts he could buy.

Expansive, smiling, he suddenly broke out a small guitar and began singing familiar, if old, American popular songs like "Springtime in the Rockies" and "Red River Valley." I joined in, and so did Akiko, who lived a while in Detroit.

And, oh yes, Kuniko, daughter of Masami's sister. Just 7, she showed me her arithmetic book stamped with five red circles for excellence. An example of her work in shodo (brush-writing) is on exhibit at the Tokyo Metropolitan Art Museum. Inflation and the family? Sure, sure, I know. But what I remember is Kuniko running alongside the car, smiling and waving, as I left.

Ann Landers:

Kicks Smoking Habit at Clinic

Dear Ann Landers: You have printed several letters in your column about smokers, how they hate the habit and wish they could get unhooked, but never have you printed a letter with a solution. This may be your first.

I started to smoke when I was 17. I was on my own in the business world and thought if I smoked I'd look older. For a few years it was eight or ten cigarets a day, usually when I was with someone I wanted to impress. Gradually I realized I was smoking more than I had intended. I found myself lighting a cigaret every time I had a cup of coffee, or whenever I reached for a telephone. By the time I was 21, I was hooked.

I coughed, hacked, and burned holes in my best suits. I even burned a hole in the dining room table. I must say my wife was wonderful. She never nagged me to quit because she was smart enough to know that each person must make that decision himself.

Last November some friends from Reno came to spend the weekend. Edna mentioned something about an acquaintance who had been a nicotine freak for 38 years, how she had gone to a clinic in California, checked in on Sunday and left the following Friday — total cost, $375. Edna said that woman was a chain-smoker, thoroughly addicted, but five days at "that place" produced the miracle. I sent for the literature at once.

On December 2, I left for St. Helena's Hospital and Health Center. When I arrived at the gate I was smoking. Then I saw a sign, "You are entering a non-smoking area. Deposit smoking materials here." I put out my cigaret and tossed it (along with the rest of the pack) into the trash can provided for that purpose.

The next five days were rough, but they were fascinating, too: I met men and women from all over the country. We exercised vigorously, ate vegetarian meals, drank countless glasses of fruit juice (no liquor allowed), listened to lectures, watched films, and took steam and sauna baths to ease the withdrawal symptoms. Then there was "Frank," that horrible-looking, cancer-ridden lung floating in a bottle of alcohol. He managed to turn up in the dining

Hospitality also a Japanese custom

By Bruce Blossat

TOKYO — (NEA)

Well, I went to visit the Yamada family here in a district not far from the city's celebrated, glittering Ginza, and it was some kind of time.

Tokyo has a "home visit system" under which families volunteer for visits like mine, in the interest of "better international understanding."

I was primed with questions about the family's living costs under galloping inflation, fuel and other shortages, their taxes, etc. I got them asked, but the real thing was that the evening quickly dissolved into such a small festival of fun that when we parted, we felt like old friends.

My hostess, Mrs. Etsuyo Yamada, her son Masami, and a young girl who is a family friend, drove me in their station wagon to their home in the Taiko-ku district. It was on a commercial street, with entry through a slender sliding door panel.

One look and you could see that the house and a small shop (it turned out to be a specialized sort of drug store) merged as one. We doffed our shoes in Japanese custom, and sat down around a brightly lit dining table, nibbling at seaweed-covered rice cakes and quaffing a bit of beer. (Rice prices are controlled, but food costs generally are up at the little stores where the family stocks its larder.)

The Yamada family and its prior generations have lived at the same site for 120 years. An earlier house burned to the ground in the 1923 earthquake. I suspect it happened again in the massive March, 1945, fire-bombing by United States B-29s, but the family was too gracious to mention that. The present house is of wood and wallboard, cramped and small, warmed by an electric heater. Tight quarters but somehow comfortable.

The father, Seibei Yamada, a longtime pharmacist, was described as "retired" and was not present.

Mrs. Yamada, a beautiful woman of 66, has many interests. She is general president of a cluster of 50 clubs doing social welfare and education work in the Taiko-ku district, where 220,000 people live. She also runs a small plant in Kyoto which makes things from richly-colored, gold-threaded brocade. She gave me a lady's tiny coin purse as a gift.

Masami told me on the way out, in his excellent English, that he was the family black sheep, since his older brother is now the pharmacist and his divorced sister runs the drug shop. She is licensed to practice Chinese medicine, which seems to involve things like herbs and chlorophyll, and demands of "patients" that they follow rigid health rules. Business comes by word of mouth and evidently is brisk. With house and shop, the family pays $500 a year in real estate taxes.

The fun began when I asked Masami how old he was. The young family friend, Akiko Honjo, an architecture student at Tokyo university, laughed hard. The joke was he is older than he looks and doesn't like to admit it. He finally confessed to 36. When I said I hadn't married until I was 37, he gave a happy shout, and grasped my hand firmly as if two strayed souls had made bond.

But Masami is not all that lost. He is accredited from Tokyo university's graduate school of arts, paints at a seaside studio south of Tokyo, has two big plant-and-flower murals on the family walls, designed a wrapping for his mother's boxed products, runs a ski club in Japan's mountains west and north of Tokyo and once appeared in a television film in Europe while joining in a long, high-Alpine ski run from France to Switzerland.

India Seeks Black Bonanza To Help Beat Energy Crisis

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India is caressing the hope that signs of offshore oil will run into a black bonanza to help beat the energy crisis.

The press carries almost daily reports of new optimistic developments in the extensive Indian search for oil inland and under territorial waters.

Attention centers on the Bombay High, a geological lump under the Arabian Sea about 115 miles north-west of Bombay.

The petroleum and chemicals minister, D.K. Borooah, told parliament recently that the Indian Oil and Natural Gas Commission will press explorations there and begin pumping oil "within three years."

Foreign experts are less optimistic, underlining that the Bombay High drilling team has hit only one on the three positive holes necessary for conclusive indication that oil exists in commercial quantities.

But Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government is unable to wait. Hard-pressed by increased oil prices and faced with unrest over food prices and scarce grains, it is seizing the ray of hope and trying to turn it into a beacon.

A petroleum ministry study predicts that annual Indian oil production will rise from an insignificant 50,000 barrels in 1973 to nearly 84 million barrels in five years.

That would go a long way toward softening the blow of foreign oil imports — 112 million barrels in 1973 — that are expected to cost almost half India's anticipated export earnings of $3 billion this year.

It also would go a long way toward softening the criticism of Mrs. Gandhi's government who berated her for dealing with Americans during the diplomatic nastiness caused by Washington's "tilt" toward Pakistan in the 1971 war.

The Bombay High drilling is supervised by about 15 veteran offshore oil prospectors from the Houston-based Offshore International, on contract to the Indian government. They are training a 60-man Indian crew.

The offshore drilling rig was built by a Japanese company to save Mrs. Gandhi the embarrassment of buying directly from Offshore International. But the Texas company provided the knowhow and major components.

Leftist criticism was particularly acid because a Soviet Seismic survey team first pointed out the promise of Bombay High nearly a decade ago. The exploration never got seriously under way until the American drillers were brought in.

Dr. Dunseth is Virginia Senior club speaker

VIRGINIA — The Virginia Woman's Club held its last formal meeting of the club year at the Virginia Library Thursday, April 4. The next meeting will be the annual May Luncheon Thursday, May 9th, at the Virginian Country Club.

Mrs. William Knight opened the meeting with the pledge to the flag, followed by the club collection.

Mrs. Rollo Rexroat led group singing. Mrs. William Huffman read minutes and Mrs. John Boyd the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Knight welcomed 48 members and guests to the meeting. Each guest was introduced.

Reservations for the annual May Luncheon are to be made by calling Mrs. Charles Collison and Mrs. Leonard.

Mrs. Rollo Rexroat introduced Dr. Ward Dunseth of Jacksonville, who gave an interesting program on the American Indian. Dr. Dunseth talked of and displayed many Indian relics, such as arrowheads, pottery, Indian clothing, guns, etc. Of great interest and beauty was a beaded Indian cradle board, believed to have belonged to the family of a chief of importance.

Mrs. Robert Virgin, music instructor at the Virginia schools, introduced students from the seventh and eighth grades who entertained.

A Tea was served from a table decorated with an Indian bowl holding fresh white and orange flowers, flanked with wood candleholders and white tapers. Coffee, tea, finger sandwiches, nuts and mints were served. Hostesses were members of the Education Department, Mrs. Rollo Rexroat, chrm.; Mrs. Walter Blair, Mrs. Warren Musch, Miss Mildred Dinwiddie, Mrs. Gerald E. Gill, Mrs. Charles Crum and Mrs. Jack Calhoun.

Panther Creek club in Cass at Smith home

VIRGINIA — The Panther Grove Club enjoyed a potluck dinner March 27th at the home of Mrs. Duane Smith with Mrs. Fred Gilbert assisting. The meeting opened with group singing, Mrs. Mary Meyer at the piano.

Mrs. William Stephens read the minutes and gave the treasurer's report. Roll was a flowers exchange.

Mrs. William Knight had the program on Flowers. She demonstrated making a terrarium.

Two musical contests had winners, Mrs. Fred Gilbert and Mrs. William Stephens.

A flower game had winners Mrs. Garland Winkelman and Mrs. William Knight.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Johnson have returned to their home here. The Johnsons have spent the winter at their home in Inverness, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wharton and family, Madison, Wisconsin, spent last weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George McDonald. They also visited with relatives Mrs. C. W. Zeller and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Beaver of Jacksonville.

Mrs. Edward J. Long of Questing Hills Farm has been elected as Vice-President of the Illinois Polled Shorthorn Association at the annual March meeting held in Macomb, Illinois, recently. Lee Deutsch of Monee, Illinois, was elected as the new president; Robert Halin of Minok as secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Long is the first woman to hold office in the state association.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "East's three diamonds bid was made to suggest a lead. If North had doubled East would have run to four clubs, a contract that would only be set one trick if West played correctly. North didn't bother to double and the spade game was reached."

Jim: "This hand is given as an example of how an alert declarer bases his play on knowledge of his opponents' bidding methods. The defense started with the ace of diamonds, a diamond ruff and the king of clubs lead. South took dummy's ace, drew trumps with two leads and discarded his last club and a heart on dummy's good diamonds. Then he ruffed dummy's last club and studied the heart suit."

Oswald: "Playing bridge in a vacuum, South would cash dummy's ace of hearts and lead a heart toward his queen. This play would work if East held the king of hearts or West held the doubleton king. In this latter case he would have to give South a ruff and a discard."

Jim: "It would also have failed miserably this time and South was sure that it would. West's two club overcall had marked him with the king of hearts. If he only held two hearts he would have held an eight-card club suit. So South entered dummy with a trump, led a low heart, stuck in his nine after East followed and poor West was end-played."

Durable Satisfaction. A great deal of the joy of life consists in doing perfectly, or at least to the best of one's ability, everything which he attempts to do. There is a sense of satisfaction, a pride in surveying such a work—a work which is rounded, full, exact, complete in all its parts—which the superficial man, who leaves his work in a slovenly, slipshod, half-finished condition, can never know. It is this conscientious completeness which turns work into art. The smallest thing, well done, becomes artistic. William Matthews.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Underarm stains far from myth

By Polly Cramer

Polly's Problem — Are shields made to go under the arms of men's suit coats similar to the dress shields women wear in their clothes? My husband uses an anti-perspirant but still his suits have to go to the cleaners far too often because of the underarm problem. How do others handle this problem? — MRS. L.B.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with department and other stores that advertise great bargain sales but take no phone orders. I am 80 and almost blind. Attending such sales is an impossibility but I would like to take advantage of them. I wish they would help us senior citizens and handicapped people who cannot go to the sales by offering a mail order service. We need such bargains. — I.N.A.

DEAR POLLY — and M.R.B. — To extend a too tight waistband I opened up the seams of a half-slip two inches down, finished the edges with the zigzag stitch on my sewing machine and sewed an inch of elastic on to the opened ends of the elastic at each side. The result is a slip comfortable at the waistline. — E.V.B.

DEAR POLLY — I had the same problem as M.R.B. who wants to stretch the elastic in underwear. I solved this by stretching mine over the back of a chair where it was left for several days until it had stretched to fit. To hurry the process moisten the elastic band but be sure to protect the chair's finish if you do this. — DOROTHEA.

DEAR POLLY — I also used Dorothea's method for stretching a nylon shirt that fit a bit too snugly. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — The new 55 mile-an-hour speed limit is rigidly enforced in our state. I found the 55 mark on my speedometer rather difficult to read so put a very narrow strip of orange "glow in the dark" tape on the glass from top to bottom along the 55 mark. — MRS. S.B.

DEAR POLLY — The rubber cushions covering the tops of my crutches were showing signs of wear but were too good to discard. I slipped those footies we wear when going without stockings over the rubber tops. They have elastic around the edges and are just the right size. I was saved the cost of buying new rubber pads for a while. — EVELYN

DEAR POLLY — I dropped a pan on my white stove and it knocked off a big patch of enamel. I painted this piece with two coats of aluminum paint with three or four days of drying between each coat and then applied white touch-up paint, let dry thoroughly and then put on another coat. The results have been most satisfactory. — E.O.H.

People Are Teaming Up In Car Pools To Save

By The Associated Press

The high price of gasoline has spurred new interest in car pools among people who rejected pleas to get together to save fuel, but are willing to team up to save money.

An Associated Press survey on Saturday showed that car pool plans proliferated in the early days of the gasoline shortage, but interest declined as gasoline availability grew.

Computer-organized programs drew thousands of applicants, but authorities in many areas were disappointed with the number of people who actually participated.

Now, however, with gasoline prices soaring up to 60 cents a gallon in some areas, commuters who drive to work are taking a new look at the idea of car pools. They also are lured by cheaper parking rates and insurance savings offered in some areas.

"The price of gasoline has gotten to the point (where) more people are ready to participate in car pools," said John Woodward of the Topeka, Kan., planning department. He said the city had responses from 2,500 state employees who indicated they would be interested in joining car pools.

Miami radio station WIOD has processed more than 2,000 applicants through its computer since it started "Computer-a-Ride" two months ago. Officials say hundreds of people have been matched up, although they don't have exact figures. "We have switched to promoting the saving of money rather than gasoline as prices continue to soar," program manager Ken Warren said.

Another WIOD spokesman, Mike Costello, said that more and more callers are inquiring about economic savings rather than fuel availability.

The Connecticut Transportation Department said its computers had matched up 75,000 potential car poolers. Project manager Charles Gudatis said interest in the program declined recently, but added: "We are still getting applications... because of the cost (of gasoline)."

The Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. in Hartford, Conn., offered $1 a day to any employee who didn't drive to work. The company said it has paid out $38,652 in the past four months. Travelers Insurance offered free parking to car poolers.

Car pooling hasn't caught on yet in Jackson, Miss., but a city spokeswoman said, "Once gas gets really expensive people probably will be (more interested)... People like the convenience of their cars at lunch time and you just can't do that with a car pool."

Bonnie Ellington, a labor relations specialist with the Federal Aviation Administration in Kansas City, said she and two other federal employees in a computer-matched car pool are "going to keep it going because of high gasoline prices, not because we can't get gas. Once you've gotten used to pooling, you're less inclined to abandon it, despite the loss of independence."

It's always popular!
1 tablespoon butter
½ cup finely chopped green pepper
8-ounce can tomato sauce with onion

3 tablespoons water
¼ teaspoon chili powder

In a small saucepan gently cook the green pepper in the butter until softened. Add the remaining ingredients. Heat slowly, stirring several times, until bubbly. Serve very hot. Makes 1½ cups.

The Idaho Highway Department is working on a car pool program, and Boise officials who studied the situation said the establishment of a $47,500 citywide car pool program could save $325,000 per year in auto expense in the city of 80,000.

Authorities had mixed reports on existing car pool programs. Missouri officials said a car pool effort involving 2,000 state workers in the Jefferson City area was working well. Spaces in state parking lots are reserved for cars with two or more riders and officials reported a 20 per cent drop in the number of parked cars.

Various reasons were given for lack of interest in some cities and states.

University of Utah officials said the results of a car pool program set up a week ago were disappointing. "So far it's been much slower than we thought it would," a spokesman said. "Perhaps spring quarter was not the ideal time to start this kind of program. There are a lot more students and others riding bikes or motorcycles." The spokesman said planners of the car pool program hoped for a turnout of 2,500; instead, only 200 persons signed up.

Arguments among car poolers were reported in a few areas. A Long Island man was charged with first degree assault after he allegedly shot two brothers who argued about which seats they would take in a car pool.

DR LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Follicles determine amount of hair

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please settle a disagreement between my friend and me. I say that if a person shaves or removes hair with a depilatory then the hair doesn't grow back in a greater amount or darker in color. I think that it only looks darker because it hasn't been bleached by the sun yet and that is why it looks darker.

DEAR READER — The number of hairs depends entirely on the number of active hair follicles within the skin. The follicle is like the root to a blade of grass. You can cut the top off and the root will allow more grass, or hair, to grow right back.

The stub of hair is tougher, and a shaved area will give that bristle-feel to touch. If you ever walked over some cut grass stubble or stubble from a wheat field you can see how tough it is too at the base. The shaving doesn't make the hair tougher, it just leaves the tougher stubble.

Cutting off or even pulling out the hair still leaves an active follicle, and the hair will return just as it was, no darker and in no greater quantity. The only way to solve the problem is to remove the follicle. This is what electrolysis does. Using an electrical needle the hair follicle is destroyed. It usually takes several treatments to get all the hair follicles because some of them have not sprouted their next hair at the time of one procedure and can't be located. By repeated procedures, in time all the hair follicles can be destroyed, and hence no more hair.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have thalassemia — Cooley's Mediterranean anemia. I believe it is a form of leukemia (cancer). I am 59 years old. I'm so tired constantly. It gets progressively worse. I know there is research going on. Is there anything at all that can relieve this terrible tired feeling? I do have so much work that needs to be done. So, constant rest is out of the question. I go around feeling so tired that at times I'm like a zombie.

DEAR READER — You may well have thalassemia, but I doubt you have Cooley's Mediterranean anemia. That particular type of anemia is usually confined to young children. Most likely you have another variant of the thalassemia type of anemias.

The thalassemias are all abnormalities in the formation of hemoglobin which is associated with varying degrees of anemia. Depending on the severity of the problem, the liver and spleen may be enlarged, and there may even be jaundice. Since you don't mention these things, I would assume you do not have that

Ashland Youth Suffers Cut While Wrestling

ASHLAND — Jim Bast, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bast, received a deep cut on his right arm just below the elbow Thursday evening in the West Park here. He was rushed to emergency at Memorial Medical Center in Springfield. Stitches were required inside and outside to close the wound; the outside requiring eight stitches. He was able to return home that night.

Jim and some friends had been playing basketball at the court, then started wrestling on the grass when Jim rolled over on his arm. It was cut with glass in the grass.

The Centenary Club met Thursday afternoon, April 4, at the home of Mrs. Karl Hager, with Miss Julia Hewitt as assistant hostess.

The meeting was opened by the chairman, Mrs. Chester Douglas, with silent prayer.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Lloyd Edwards had charge of the games, followed with Ray Benny Hager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hager, who gave a contest humorous reading, "The Bear Story." It was enjoyed very much. Benny is Mrs. Hager's grandson.

Billy Yancy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yancy, received an aluminum bat from Coach Gregory for being one of the three top salesmen of the beef raffle to raise funds for athletic lights. The other salesmen were Tim Huff, Greg and Henry Votsmier.

severe a form. Probably your fatigue is related to an anemia. Your doctor would most certainly know with a simple blood test. He may be able to control your anemia with medicines. I do want to assure you that what you have is not leukemia, nor is it cancer. It is an inherited condition affecting the hemoglobin or iron-containing pigment within the red blood cells.

YOKOHAMA, Japan — Navy Petty Officer Second Class Frances L. Jumper, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh F. Jumper of R.R. 3, Jacksonville, reenlisted for an additional four years of Navy duty at Military Sealift Command Far East (MSCFE) headquarters on March 20.

The reenlistment ceremony was performed by Captain Darrel D. Ruebsamen, Commander, Military Sealift Command, Far East.

A 1968 graduate of Jacksonville High School, Miss Jumper attended junior college in Mt. Vernon, Ill., for one year before joining the Navy in July 1969.

She went through recruit training at Bainbridge, Md., and served with Airborne Early Warning Training Squadron 110 at Naval Air Station, North Island in San Diego, Cal., before reporting to MSCFE for duty in June, 1972.

A Navy yeoman, Miss Jumper worked in the command's administration office during her two-year tour of duty in Japan. "I enjoyed Japan," she said. "I've done and seen things that I never would have had an opportunity to do unless I was in the Navy."

Miss Jumper left Japan on April 6. She has orders to report to the staff of Commander - in - Chief, Pacific, in Hawaii.

"I'm looking forward to duty in Hawaii," she explained. "I've never been there other than passing through and I've heard a lot about it. I also plan to go to school during my off-duty hours, to get the training I want in business administration."

She plans to spend 30 days leave in Jacksonville before reporting for duty in Hawaii.

Dinner guests March 31 of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Mason and children were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Walker of Pekin; Mr. and Mrs. Leverelette Walker, Roodhouse; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walker, Manchester.

Dinner guests March 31st of Mrs. Tressa Brown were Mrs. Cecil Thady and Mrs. Lucille Cooper.

Thursday morning coffee break hostess was Betty Lawson. Attending were Mabel Prather, Barbara Odel, Mary Green, Ethel Lewis and Rosella Bridges.

All-American flowers are more colorful than ever

By SHEILA and ALLAN SWENSON
Six exceptional new flower varieties survived the rigorous testing in all parts of the country to prove their worth for your 1974 gardens. These new varieties have been named All-America award winners this year.

Every year, hundreds of new varieties are tested in 30 trial gardens in all parts of the country. To receive All-America recognition, they must be consistently better in growth and bloom than any previous varieties.

Scarlet Ruffles, a brilliant, deep, fully double zinnia won gold-medal honors this year. Ball-shaped flowers are two-and-a-half inches across on long stems for cutting. Plants continue blooming after cutting and have hybrid vigor for long summer endurance.

Another zinnia, Peter Pan Orange is a bronze medal winner. It's doubled flame-orange flowers are four inches across. Peter Pans combine large flower size with dwarf growing habit, less than a foot high. Continuing bloom habit makes them delightful for beds and borders all season long.

Red Fox Celosia displays carmine-red plumes with fresh green foliage contrast. Central plumes seven inches long are complemented with many side plumes on two-foot-tall plants.

Magic Charms Dianthus, a bronze-medal winner, is the first hybrid dianthus with a full white to scarlet color range. A hardy annual, it grows easily from seed planted directly in the garden.

Diablo Cosmos, another bronze winner, thrives in many soils. By July it offers hundreds of semi-double blooms about two inches across, from bright orange to fiery red.

Showboard Marigold is tops. It received All America, All Britain and All Europe honors this year. This triploid hybrid combines best characteristics of dwarf French and tall American varieties. It bears bright yellow, two-and-a-half inch across, fully double blooms on 12-inch tall plants. The compact bush growth makes this winner ideal for edgings, window boxes, beds and other planters.

This year, these new varieties offer even more spectacular displays for every garden.

THE HAGUE (UPI) — The International Court of Justice went on record March 26 with a resolution expressing "strong disapproval" of news leaks anticipating its verdicts.

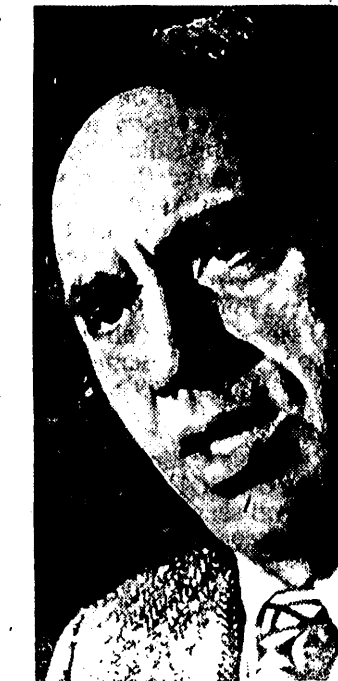

The resolution was adopted by an 11-3 vote after press speculation on how the court would vote in pending complaints by Australia and New Zealand against France involving French nuclear tests in the Pacific. It said the court reiterated "its view that any making, circulation or publication of such statements (on pending court cases) is incompatible with the fundamental principles governing the good administration of justice."

SAIGON (UPI) — Imported U. S. rice on the Saigon market costs 18 cents a pound. At the U. S. embassy grocery store, it costs 72 cents a pound.

The United States bought the Virgin Islands from Denmark for $25 million Jan. 17, 1917.

IF THE SHOE FITS, wear it as the saying goes, but 11-year-old Luciano Fabiani of Bologna, Italy finds this 1.2 meter-long monstrosity somewhat ungainly to trot around in. The oversized shoe weighing 331 pounds, was part of a display at a shoemakers' exhibition in Bologna.

SPECULATING on the nation's volatile political mood, controversial attorney William Kunstler predicted that the nation's bicentennial will be the year a revolution is launched by disgruntled American minority groups.

SAIGON (UPI) — In an attempt to lure more tourists to South Vietnam, the government has eased visa restrictions imposed in 1968 to keep out foreign anti-war militants.

Beginning late last year, airport immigration officers were authorized to grant seven-day visas to anyone with a valid passport.

The visas cannot be renewed, meaning the tourist must leave Vietnam within a week.

Before the new ruling and since 1968, visas had to be obtained at Vietnamese embassies or consulates abroad before coming to Vietnam.

D'Estaing, Mitterrand Enter French Elections

PARIS (AP) — Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing and Socialist leader François Mitterrand on Monday officially entered the race to succeed the late Georges Pompidou as president of France.

Chapin Woman's Father Dies In Kansas City, Kan.

CHAPIN — Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Anderson have returned to their home in rural Chapin after attending funeral services for her father, Leroy Allen Ruttan, in Kansas City, Kansas, Wednesday, April 3rd.

Mr. Ruttan died March 31st in Kansas City at the age of 69 years. He retired in 1972 from Rock Island Railroad. Surviving are his widow; daughter, Mrs. Joyce Anderson, Chapin; son, Richard, Leavenworth, Kansas. One son preceded in death.

Brother Of 2 Local Women Dies Monday

Herbert H. Stringer, brother of Mrs. Gene Pierson and Mrs. Hobart Troxell of Jacksonville, died Monday in Monticello, Ky. He was 53 years old.

Survivors include three sisters in addition to the above two; his mother, Mrs. Estill Stringer; his wife; seven children; and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at the Marvin Hicks Funeral Home in Monticello with burial to be in that city. Visitation will be this evening at the funeral home.

Little League Tryouts

Tryouts for the existing positions in the Jacksonville Elks Little League have been scheduled for this coming Saturday, April 13th at the Little League diamonds on the State Hospital grounds.

The 12-year-olds will try out at 9 a.m., the 11-year-olds at 10 a.m., the 10-year-olds at 11 a.m. and the nine-year-olds at 1:00. The league-ages is figured by the age prior to Aug. 1. Another tryout for those unable to attend Saturday will be held Monday, April 15. In case of rain Saturday, the tryouts will be held April 20. Only those players not already on one of the Twilight League teams will try out. The player draft will be held Monday night, April 20.

Players are asked to bring a glove and be aware of their birthdate and address. There will be two sign-up points, one for the North League and one for the South. The dividing line for the leagues is Mound, Grove and Beecher.

Card of Thanks

My sincere thanks to my doctor and hospital personnel for the wonderful care I received while a patient at Passavant Hospital. Also, a big thanks to all for the cards, flowers and visits and for the many acts of kindness shown to my husband and myself.

Rosella Smith

I would like to express my appreciation to my doctors and Memorial Medical Center personnel for the excellent care given me. Thanks to my friends and family for the beautiful cards, flowers and other expressions of kindness during my hospital stay and since I have returned home.

Jeanette Kinnett

I wish to thank my minister for his visit and all of those who sent flowers, cards and expressed their concern during my illness and stay at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis.

Mrs. Mallie Steele

Our sincere thanks and appreciation for cards and flowers received with the passing of a loved one, my father.

The family of Mrs. Arnold M. Anderson

But while Mitterrand had the virtually unanimous backing of the left for the May 5 presidential elections, Giscard d'Estaing was the third major political figure of the Gaullist coalition to declare his candidacy.

Former Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas and National Assembly President Edgar Faure, both within the main Gaullist party, announced their candidacies soon after Pompidou died last week. The Gaullist leadership endorsed Chaban-Delmas as its official candidate.

Giscard d'Estaing, speaking in the town hall of Chamlières, the small town in central France where he is mayor, promised scupulous defense of French interests, "to make France an equal partner of the biggest and smallest nations."

Mitterrand was received with enthusiastic applause and a unanimous endorsement by a special congress of the Socialist party in Paris.

He said his campaign would call for greater individual freedom, more social justice, more energetic measures against inflation, a "more fraternal" France and a greater voice for France in world affairs.

Jane P. Smith Rites Tuesday

Funeral services for Mrs. Jane P. Smith will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Church of Our Saviour. Interment will be in Diamond Grove cemetery. Williamson Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

She was born June 21, 1893, in Lexington, Missouri, daughter of Francis and Marie LeMour Penn. She married Otto Smith June 7, 1918. He preceded her in death April 16, 1959.

Mrs. Smith is survived by two sons, Wayne P. and Alan Lee, both of Jacksonville; two grandchildren; and two great grandchildren. A brother, Joseph Penn of Dearborn, Michigan, also survives. She was preceded in death by a sister.

She was a member of the Church of Our Saviour.

Services Held For Mrs. Rose

Funeral services for Mrs. Pearl Rose were held 2 p.m. Monday at Cody and Son Memorial Home with the Rev. Harold Hendrick officiating. Organist, Mrs. George Vasey, played "Beyond the Sunset," "Sweet Bye and Bye," and "Closer Walk With Thee."

Mitterrand received the backing of the powerful Communist party and the extreme left Socialist Unity party. Unlike in the 1969 elections which brought Pompidou to the presidency, the Communists and the Socialist Unity party are not putting up separate candidates. The two parties won 25 per cent of the vote in the 1969 elections, while the Socialist candidate, Gaston Defferre, won only 5 per cent and never had a chance.

Potpourri — Bob Meyer, 1001½ Clay street, wishes his new daughter, born at 15 minutes after 10 p.m. April 3rd at Culbertson hospital, Rushville, would have waited "just a couple of hours." Then her birthday would have been on April 4th, to coincide with the birthdays of the six-year-old twins in the family. The new baby weighed slightly less than 10 pounds at birth and the parents are elated.

"Da jege" makes the decisions on the bench himself, but at home Joyce, Reither, the wife of the Advocate Fred Reither, has a little something to say about it. She is preparing to sell their home at 10 Woody Avenue, so she can transfer the family to the country and there indulge her love for horses and dogs, gardening and growing flowers. Woody Avenue, she thinks, is not quite the neighborhood for barns and kennels.

Members of the Beardstown Rotary club say one of the best programs in a long time was given last Monday night by a local woman, Buffy Tillitt McCoy, who told of her trip to Russia and displayed pictures and slides to add to her interesting descriptions. Buffy emphasized to deep interest of the Russians she met about the United States. She is the daughter of former mayor Glenn Tillitt and Rita Mary Caldwell Tillitt.

If Attorney Reed Woolley of Beardstown is elected as a member of the school board in the upcoming balloting he will become the second Woolley on the directorship. Stuart Woolley, 1015 Washington street, was elected a year ago. Reed, a former assistant state's attorney in Cass, has held several civic posts in Beardstown and has practiced in Florida as well as Illinois. He lives at 1912 Jackson street with his wife and two daughters.

Melvin Mitchell, 912 Walnut street, who submitted to open heart surgery in Springfield several weeks ago, is getting along so well that he is petitioning his doctor to allow him to resume work for Allis Chalmers. Mitch looks and feels great.

Felt Quake Several Beardstownians reported they "felt" the earthquake reported in the news from Springfield April 3rd. Mrs. Arlene Miller Bley said while she was reading the paper and listening to the report of the quake she felt it distinctly to remark: "Why I felt that," but (she said) the announcer made no reply. Elmer Skeens announced that the tremor "shook" a flower pot on a table in the room in which he was sitting.

Mrs. Bill Schlueter, 417 W. Seventh street, has been helping get out water bills during this busy period at the office of City Clerk Henry Dufelmeier and his efficient and hardworking Deputy John Beutin.

Jamieson: Masters Is Special

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — "I can see how Arnold and Jack can get so pumped up about the Masters," said Jimmy Jamieson. "It's something special and it gives you a special feeling."

"Like Arnold said, you can get goose-pimples just driving up to the gate in front of the clubhouse. I can remember when I was just a kid, you know, 13 to 17 or 18, back in Illinois. The Masters was the start of our golfing season. I'd watch it on TV and get my clubs out in the living room and play right along with them."

"It was a lifelong ambition for me just to get to Augusta and see the Masters. That happened in '67. Then it was my ambition to play in it. That happened after I'd finished sixth or eighth or something in the PGA at Palm Beach Gardens. It was high enough to get me in the Masters."

That was in 1972. And now the likeable "little round man" has a chance — considerably more than an outside shot, perhaps a very good chance — to win the Masters.

"That," said Jamieson, who describes himself as chubbier, "would be the completion of a life-long dream."

Jamieson, 30, missed more than a month of competition this year because of a chipped bone in his right thumb. It's healed now and he's had a couple of strong finishes since his return to action.

Among them are a tie for second in the Citrus Open, and a sixth in last week's Greensboro Open after he's challenged for the lead for three rounds.

"I had a chance to win, so I'm a little disappointed that I didn't," he said Sunday after the Greensboro tourney. "But it sure got me primed for the Masters. I came here for a couple of days last week just to practice," he said. "I can't say I played very well, but I sure got enthused."

R. S. Menees, Virginia Native, Dies Sunday

VIRGINIA — Robert Spencer Menees of Grand Rapids, Mich., died Sunday morning at White Plains, N.Y., while on a business trip there. He was 56 years old.

He was born Feb. 16, 1918, in Virginia, a son of Charles A. and Blanche Spencer Menees.

He attended Virginia schools, graduating from Virginia High School in 1936. He attended Illinois College in Jacksonville, where he received his B.A. degree in 1942. Following several years' duty as a Navy pilot during World War II, he continued his education in Michigan, where he received two master's degrees.

Mr. Menees had resided in Grand Rapids for a number of years. He was employed by Hazeltine and Perkins Division of the Brunswick Drug Co., and at the time of his death was president of the Michigan division of that company.

He was active in community and civic affairs, as well as Republican politics.

Survivors include his wife, Sara; three sons, Craig, White Plains, N.Y., Corey, employed with the state health department of North Carolina, and Bradley, a freshman at Michigan State University; his mother, Mrs. Blanche Menees of Virginia; and a brother, Charles of University City, Mo.

Memorial services will be held Thursday afternoon in Grand Rapids, with interment in that city.

Nixon

But, he added, the legislation "on the whole ... contains more good than bad and I have concluded that the best interests of American people will be served by signing it into law."

The last legislation raising the minimum wage was enacted eight years ago. The additional coverage goes to 5 million federal, state and local employees, 1 million domestics and additional retail store employees, service industry employees and farm workers.

The minimum wage increases would be phased in on this schedule: Workers who had coverage before 1966, an estimated 36 million, would have a $2 floor May 1, $2.10 Jan. 1, 1975 and $2.30 Jan. 1, 1976.

Those brought under coverage by the 1966 act and the present one $1.90 May 1, $2 Jan. 1, 1975; $2.20 Jan. 1, 1976, and $2.30 Jan. 1, 1977.

Farm workers, now with a $1.30 floor, $1.60 May 1, $1.80 Jan. 1, 1975; $2 Jan. 1, 1976; $2.20 Jan. 1, 1977, and $2.30 Jan. 1, 1978.

Full-time students may be employed for no more than 20 hours a week at 85 per cent of the regular wage floor.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — It all shows up in the pocketbook or the checkbook anyway, so it probably doesn't make much difference, but the nature—and maybe even the degree—of inflation is changing.

If the change continues it will deprive the Nixon administration of a favorite defense: that inflation is concentrated in food and energy and other prices are responding to restraints.

No longer is that completely true. There are indications energy inflation might top out. And farm prices, which usually are quickly reflected in retail prices, actually have fallen.

After rising for three straight months, prices received at the farm in March dropped 3.8 percent. There were sharp drops in livestock, grains, eggs, fruits and vegetables. Processed food prices also fell.

Meanwhile, wholesale industrial prices took off, led by hefty increases in metals. On an annual basis, wholesale prices rose 15.6 percent last month, with more than a quarter of that accounted for by metals.

But the spread of inflation was far greater than that. Also higher were chemicals, wood pulp, paper, plastic products, tires, concrete items, man-made fibers, textile products, appliances, furniture...

The list of increases was long and inclusive, affecting even the prices of toys and jewelry. Few areas of the economy now are free of the cancer cells of inflation.

The latest evidence on prices not only undercuts the old alibi that prices were stabilizing, but underscores five years of futility in bringing inflation under control.

Latest evidence that the economic downturn and possible recession might be less damaging than had been anticipated comes from the latest jobless figures which show unemployment remaining just over 5 percent.

The March figure actually dropped, from 5.2 percent in February to 5.1 percent, to the surprise of many business and academic forecasters who had projected rates of between 6 and 8 percent. In fairness, most of those

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — A record-tying 10 per cent prime lending rate posted by a New York bank sent another chill through the stock market Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 7.58 to 839.96, and the New York Stock Exchange composite was down .52 to 49.03, putting both indicators at their lowest closing levels since mid February.

Losers swamped gainers, 1,115 to 323 among the 1,778 issues traded on the Big Board.

Bankers Trust Co. of New York announced shortly before trading opened it was raising its prime from 9 1/2 to 10 per cent, directly on the heels of Friday's general move in the banking industry to a 9 3/4 per cent rate.

The news touched off a sharp decline in early trading, after which the market leveled off.

"There was no great rush to sell today," said Saul Smerling at Standard & Poor's Corp., noting the big Board trading volume of 10.74 million shares, second lightest of the year.

"The market seemed to be declining by its own sheer weight. Perhaps it's partly hope, but the impression seems to be getting around that at 10 per cent we may be at or close to the top in the prime rate."

A rising prime usually prompts a negative reaction in the stock market because it means an increased cost of money for corporations.

Brokers say the prime is also psychologically important because it is the most widely publicized barometer of general interest rate trends.

Standard Oil of California was the Big Board's most active stock, dipping 1/2 to 27 1/2 in trading highlighted by a 200,000 share block at 27 1/2.

Golds, which are usually strong in a weak market, were among the most pronounced losers Monday as bullion prices dropped in Europe. Dome Mines tumbled 12 to 17 1/2, Campbell Red Lake lost 6 to 8 1/2, ASA, Ltd., was down 6 to 8 1/2, and Homestake fell 4 1/2 to 83 1/2.

Steels, farm implements, oils and most forest products issues were also weak, while autos were mixed and some airlines turned up with fractional gains. The American Stock Exchange market value index fell 1.18 to 94.73, and the NASDAQ composite index for the over the counter market was off .78 at 89.92.

Nepal Trying To Develop Trade Ties With China

By BHOLA RANA
KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — The 54,000 square-mile kingdom of Nepal, sandwiched between China and India, is trying hard to develop trade ties with China and the adjoining region of Tibet in addition to those it already has with India.

A five-member delegation from the world's only Hindu kingdom has been in the forbidden Tibetan capital city of Lhasa since March 20 to study prospects for trade.

After the Chinese takeover of Tibet in 1950, Nepal was the only country permitted to maintain a consulate in Lhasa after India was ordered out.

The Nepalese trade team, which has the cooperation of China, also is seeking the return of goods left behind in Tibet by Nepalese merchants when the Chinese Army marched in. Officials here decline to speculate on the value of the goods.

Trade figured prominently in talks Nepal's 29-year-old King Birendra had with Chinese leaders during his state visit last December. He said then that Nepal was "trying to build up" its trade. A trade mission from Tibet is expected here next month.

The formidable Himalayan heights have always acted as a barrier to Nepal's foreign trade.

jobless rates were forecast when the energy shortage seemed far worse than it turned out to be. Some economists maintain they shouldn't be blamed for their inability to understand the political climate, which they say accounts for their error.

In the minds of some businessmen, the most serious imbalance in the economy is neither inflation nor unemployment, but rising interest rates. Continued increases, they fear, will stagnate the economy.

Two schools of thought are at war over those rates. One school, led by the Federal Reserve Board, insists that money must be restricted in order to combat inflation, even if interest rates rise sharply.

An opposition school argues the economy has received enough damage already from inflation and other factors and must be spurred to renewed activity by having access to money at moderate interest rates.

Council Makes Recommendations Offshore Oil Development Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's Council on Environmental Quality has recommended steering offshore oil development away from the southeastern coast and the Gulf of Alaska, in favor of areas off New England and

Maryland-Delaware - New Jersey. In a year-long study, still unpublished but obtained by The Associated Press, the council warned that "high environmental risk" would be posed by opening areas off the southeastern

Atlantic Coast, the Gulf of Alaska and Long Island-northern New Jersey to petroleum development. The council's study was the first major federal effort to grapple with the complex and emotion-loaded question of drilling for oil off the popular sandy beaches that line the Atlantic from Cape Cod to Florida. The council said oil spilling ranging from tiny to large probably would occur during offshore operations and could damage beaches and wetlands.

It concluded that spill off northern New Jersey and Long Island probably would reach land more frequently and more quickly because of ocean currents near shore, than spill farther south off Delaware and Maryland, or farther north off New England.

Spills in the Gulf of Alaska would also be likely to reach shore.

Furthermore, the council said, offshore development could have strong impacts on land by bringing with it new refineries, petrochemical plants, population growth and related development.

"Serious consideration must be given to postponing leasing in an OCS (outer continental shelf) region where oil cannot be safely produced and safely transported to markets because of significant threats of earthquakes, tsunamis (tidal waves) and severe storms," the council also said.

Those descriptions clearly applied to the Gulf of Alaska, where the council noted the frequency of earthquakes, tsunamis and storms, and the probability that spilled oil would reach shore.

They also applied to the southeastern Atlantic coast which, the council noted, "experiences storm conditions which are more severe than those prevalent in either the Gulf of Alaska or the North Sea."

The council said that "less risk would face development" off New England and the mid-Atlantic.

The council concluded that new offshore oil development would be acceptable, provided great care is taken to protect the environment.

Asian Nations To Buy More Grain: Butz

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Despite some resistance to high American farm commodity prices in Asia, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said Monday he expected greater than ever sales in the region, even in China "which is complaining about fungus in United States wheat."

Arriving here for a five-day visit to the Philippines, Butz said the Chinese purchased $1.2 billion in American farm products last year and he expected them to increase their sales next year.

He said the United States was preparing for "massive" farm harvests. He attached no political significance to the Chinese rejection of shipments of 60,000 tons of American wheat they said were tainted with wheat smut. He said China did not have the fungus and the Chinese didn't want to expose the country to it.

Planning To Circulate Gasoline Mileage Data

DETROIT (AP) — The federal Environmental Protection Agency is planning to circulate simplified gasoline mileage data as an easy-to-use guide for buyers of 1975-model cars.

The agency currently is the only federal office performing fuel economy tests. It has been releasing figures for the past two years on about 500 cars, often including more than one result for the same model with varying engines and gear ratios.

POTATO MARKET

CHICAGO (AP) — (USDA) — Major potato markets FOB shipping points U.S.: 1A Fries in 100 lb sacks: Wisconsin russets few 10.50-11.00; occasionally higher and lower; Minnesota North Dakota Red River Valley round reds 9.00-9.25, mostly 9.25; few high as 9.50-10.00; Idaho russets few 11.75-12.00, occasionally higher.

Eric Stork, deputy director of the agency, says the current method of releasing the figures is too difficult for the average consumer to use.

"It's just not descriptive to the public," he says. "If I were your personnel director and I handed you

Precious Metal

Futures Drop

CHICAGO (AP) — Silver futures, apparently following the lead of gold prices and other so-called precious metals, declined sharply on domestic commodity exchanges Monday. In New York City, silver futures were down from 20 to 45 cents an ounce, while in Chicago the fall was also 20 cents an ounce and the expiring April option was down 55 cents an ounce at one time. The April option has no limit on trade in its last month.

Soybean futures fell nearly the limit of 20 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade and soybeans also were lower. Wheat, corn and oats gained ground.

Weakness in grains and in the soybean complex was a carryover from last Friday and some new buying came into the pits after the selling had eased.

Late in the session, commission house brokers came in with purchase orders and as prices rose shorts were forced to cover. Soybeans, oil and meal, however, moved slowly.

At the close, soybeans were down 7 to 16 1/2 cents a bushel, May 5.32; wheat was 4 to 9 higher, May 4.37; corn was 1 1/2 to 3 1/2 higher.

Under a new plan still on the drawing board, Stork said similar car models with the same weight and engine size would be grouped together for convenience.

The agency's mileage tests, a byproduct of emission testing performed in its Ann Arbor laboratory, has come under constant criticism from auto executives.

Slide Into Retirement Slowly Conference On Aging Is Told

CHICAGO (UPI) — The best way to retire is to slide into it slow and easy, a psychiatrist told a national conference on the aged.

Dr. Bernard A. Stotsky spoke Tuesday before a conference sponsored by the American Medical Association.

People should plan more carefully for old age and have the option of withdrawing slowly from the busy world of working for a living, he said.

"Clearly at 65, it is not unreasonable to set new goals and to plan ahead for the next decade," Stotsky said.

The retired should live within their means but as actively and as fully as possible so that, when death comes, it will be an accidental event "to be confronted hopefully on our feet rather than on our knees or on our backs," he said.

There are now more than 20 million Americans over the age of 65. When the average man reaches 65 he can expect to live for more than 12 additional years. The average woman of 65 has more than 16 years ahead of her.

To ease the often-painful change into retirement, Stotsky said, the worker should have the opportunity to make retirement a gradual, spaced process with periods of parttime employment gradually giving way to minimal or, ultimately, no employment.

Planning for second careers should be encouraged.

The University of Washington medical professor said recent research has shown that intellectual capacity does not decline markedly in old age among those who are physically well.

The elderly also retain their ability to learn new skills and memory does not decline to the extent once believed, he said.

"In view of these findings, it is not illogical for intellectually intact aged persons to continue their education, to engage in activities which exercise and stretch intellect, to maintain their autonomy and to exercise personal choice in staying where they are or going where they want to be," he said.

In another report, Dr. Edward J. Lorenz said the quality of life in the later years depends in part on physical condition. He said it is never too late to start a well-planned exercise program.

Lorenz, medical director at DuBourke Rehabilitation Center, White Plains, N.Y., said that without proper exercise, the physical processes of aging could be more restrictive and perhaps handicapping than they otherwise would be. He said an exercise program for the elderly should be undertaken with the guidance and recommendations of a doctor.

K. Lyle Davis Ashland Post, Unit Speaker

ASHLAND — The American Legion and Auxiliary enjoyed potluck supper Wednesday evening with thirty being in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Davis of Jacksonville were guests for the supper. Mr. Davis is Commander of the 20th district, and gave a most interesting talk on the history of the Legion and some of the work it does now.

The American Legion was organized March 15th, 1919, in Paris, France, to honor and serve veterans of World War I and their families and now serves veterans of all wars. He said the Rehabilitation for Veterans of all wars did not happen overnight, but took teamwork from National Headquarters and hometown organizations. Mr. Davis told how many Veteran's hospitals have been closed and what a tragedy since they are needed. The Legion and Auxiliary are trying to keep other Veteran's hospitals open. The one at Jacksonville is one we are more familiar with since it is in this area and one they have been trying to phase out. He suggested writing

State Representatives, not only Legion and Auxiliary members but all interested in keeping these hospitals open.

Sixteen members of the Ladies Aid of the Church of Christ met Wednesday afternoon, April 3rd, in the church basement.

Mrs. Molly Summers was in charge of the scripture and devotions, and Mrs. Irene Daniel had the program. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Douglass and Mrs. Eula Fitzsimmons.

Roodhouse Club Buying Junk Cars

ROODHOUSE — The Roodhouse Rotary club announces it is in the market for old junk cars and will pay five dollars for them if there is a motor in the vehicle.

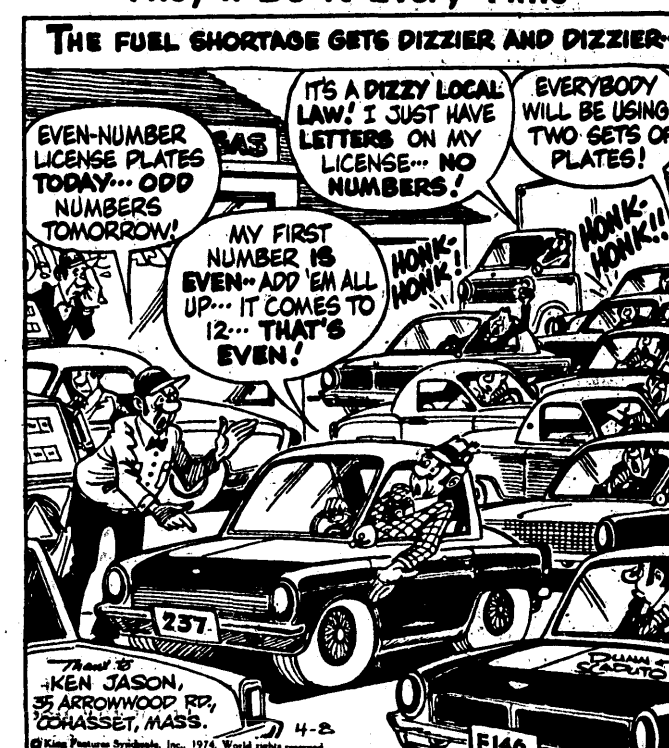

The offer by the club is good through May 1, 1974. The program is one that can benefit the city by helping to remove eyesores from the city streets and alleys.

Profits from the project will be used for civic improvements. As known by the people, the city ordinance prohibits abandoned cars, trucks, etc., on city streets and alleys.

Anyone with a car to be sold to the Rotary Club may call any of the following numbers: 589-4145, 589-5216, 589-4331, or 589-4118.

Cars without motors are also acceptable but the club will pay only $3.00 for such cars.

Routt Hammers Perry By 11-1

PERRY — The Routt Rockets scored four runs in the first inning, one in the second, two in the fourth and four more in the fifth inning to down the Perry Pioneers, 11-1, in a PMSC Conference baseball game played Monday afternoon.

Routt, now 1-2 and 1-0 in conference action, was led by senior shortstop John Vahle with three hits while catcher Jim Bernardini and first baseman Mike Steel added two each of the Rockets nine hits.

Stanley Cup Set To Open Long Grind

Eight National Hockey League teams begin the chase for the Stanley Cup this week with the spotlight on the goal-tenders.

Hegan's Single Lifts Yankees To 3rd In Row

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Hegan's tie-breaking single with two out in the sixth inning following an intentional walk to Roy White helped the New York Yankees to a 5-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians Monday.

It was the first time since 1959 the Yanks have started the baseball season by winning three consecutive games.

Hegan, a left-handed batter, ripped his decisive hit to center field off southpaw Tom Hilgendorf, the third Cleveland pitcher, scoring Gene Michael, who had doubled down the right field line with one out.

The Yanks added two runs in the seventh on singles by Ron Blomberg and Graig Nettles, Sudakis' grounder and singles by Michael and Jim Mason. Cleveland scored once in the eighth on John Ellis' double and Chris Chambliss' single.

The Indians took a 2-1 lead in the fifth on Oscar Gamble's home run but New York tied it in its half of the inning on Thurman Munson's sacrifice fly.

Nettles staked New York to a 1-0 lead in the second inning with his second home run of the year. Cleveland tied it against winner George Medich in the third on Angel Hermoso's infield hit, John Lowenstein's bunt single, a wild pitch and Gamble's grounder.

Schnitker Takes No-Hit Victory Over Virginia

BLUFFS — Kevin Schnitker fired a no-hitter as Bluffs notched a 10-0 five inning, PMSC Conference triumph over Virginia Monday afternoon.

Schnitker fanned ten and allowed only three baserunners, on walks, and was never in trouble in claiming the gem, shortened by the ten-run rule.

Kerry Griner drove in two runs and Mark Barnett one, with Kevin Schnitker adding a double to Bluffs' five-hit attack. The Bluejays scored eight times in the third inning and ended it with two more in the fifth.

Bluffs stands 2-1 for the season.

Aaron Relieved Ruth Chase Over

ATLANTA (AP) — "If God didn't see fit for me to hit the home run here, then I would have hit it somewhere else," Henry Aaron said Monday night after becoming baseball's all-time home run king.

The reserved 40-year-old superstar was obviously relieved that the chase of the legendary Babe Ruth had finally ended.

It did at exactly 9:07 p.m., EDT. Aaron connected for the historic 715th home run off Al Downing of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The two-run blast, a 400-foot shot, sailed out of a jam-packed Atlanta Stadium, just to the right of the 385-foot marker in the fourth inning, giving the Braves a 3-3 tie at the time.

Atlanta went on to win the game 7-4.

Aaron opened his post-game news conference by criticizing unnamed writers for questioning his performance during a three-game season-opening series in Cincinnati.

"I have never went out on a ball field and not given my level best," he said. "I played in Cincinnati the two out of three games I was supposed to play."

"Contrary to some of the reports I have read that I was a disgrace to the ball club, I did my level best."

Aaron declined to say what written reports had been critical of him.

Aaron hammered a 1-0 pitch over the left field fence just to the right of the 385-foot marker and circled the bases for the 715th time accompanied by a massive fireworks display.

A sellout crowd of 52,870 rose as one for a standing ovation and Aaron's Atlanta teammates poured out of the dugout and out of the left field bullpen to greet the 40-year-old superstar.

After Aaron touched home plate, teammates lifted him and carried him a few steps before the slugger broke away and trotted to a special box adjacent to the Atlanta dugout where he embraced his wife, Billye, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Aaron of Mobile, Ala.

He stayed with his family about two minutes before returning to the field and holding aloft the historic ball.

The ball carried about 400 feet and did not get into the seats. It was brought back to Aaron by Atlanta relief pitcher Tom House.

The Braves, with the help of Aaron's momentous homer — one of only four hits they collected — and six Dodger errors, won the game 7-4.

After Aaron's two-run blast, and two walks by Downing — to Dusty Baker and Dave Johnson — Mike Marshall became the new Los Angeles pitcher. Then Vic Correll reached first on an error, filling the bases, and pinch hitter Frank Tepedino walked, forcing in the run that put the Braves ahead 4-3. Ralph Garr's sacrifice fly drove in the fourth run of the inning.

The legendary Ruth, who died in 1948, had hit 714 home runs, the last three in 1935 in a game against Pittsburgh on May 25.

Ruth played for 22 seasons, got into 2,503 games and had 8,399 at-bats.

The soft-spoken Aaron's record shot came in his third game of his 21st season. It came on his 11,295th at-bat and in his 2,967th game.

"Just thank God it's all over," Aaron told the cheering crowd.

Moments later, black Hall of Famer Monte Irvin, representing Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, presented Aaron with a $3,000 diamond-studded wrist watch commemorating the occasion. The watch had the figures 715 imprinted in gold on it.

Irvin was booed loudly by the crowd. The displeasure was aimed at Kuhn, who had ordered the Braves to play Aaron in Cincinnati Sunday against the club's wishes.

As soon as the ball left the park, huge block numerals "715" were flashed on the center field message board — about 25 feet to the right of where the home run landed.

Then the message board flashed "Hank."

Downing, a 32-year-old veteran of 13 major league seasons, returned to the Dodger dugout during the on-field ceremonies for Aaron after the historic home run.

It was only Aaron's third home run off Downing, beginning his fourth year in the National League. The others came last season — No. 676 in Los Angeles on April 15 and No. 693 in Atlanta on June 29.

Aaron had ended his highly publicized chase of Ruth on opening day in Cincinnati with his first swing of the 1974 season. It came off right-hander Jack Billingham, and was a three-run, first-inning blast.

Aaron struck again Monday night with his first swing of the nationally televised game. He had walked on five pitches in the second inning and scored on an error.

His first run of the night set a National League record at 2,063, moving him ahead of fellow Alabama native Willie Mays, who retired last year.

The stage had been set in dramatic fashion with a special 30-minute pregame show honoring Aaron.

The Atlanta star received a two-minute standing ovation during those ceremonies when he told the crowd: "Hope this thing gets over with tonight."

Aaron's homer gave the Braves 3-3 tie with Los Angeles in the fourth inning. It came after Darrell Evans had reached on an error by Dodger shortstop Bill Russell.

Aaron then hit his home run at 9:07 p.m. EDT, and the game was halted for 11 minutes before play resumed.

Downing then walked the next two batters, and was removed from the game by Dodger Manager Walt Alston. The 5-foot-10, 182-pound pitcher then strolled, his head erect, to the Dodgers' dugout to the applause of the Atlanta crowd.

Aaron thus ended in a hurry the controversy that had swirled around him ever since the Braves announced before spring training they would not use him until Monday night's home opener.

Commissioner Kuhn suggested that Atlanta use Aaron as it had last year, playing roughly two of every three games.

The Braves started him in the season opener last Thursday, but Manager Eddie Mathews announced he would play no more in Cincinnati because "Atlanta fans deserve 715."

Kuhn stepped into the controversy again. He ordered Mathews to play Aaron in Sunday's series finale at Cincinnati.

Atlanta officials had expected Kuhn to attend the special tribute to Aaron here, but the commissioner was attending a dinner in Cleveland.

"I had no commitment to be there," Kuhn said in Cleveland. "I was invited both to Atlanta and Cleveland, and I decided to accept the invitation here since I was in Cincinnati and fortunate to participate on the day Aaron hit his 714th home run."

Some writers had questioned whether Aaron was really trying in Sunday's game.

"I have perfect confidence in Hank Aaron," Kuhn said. "He always has and always will give all he's got."

The home run was Aaron's 93rd against the Dodgers, his 75th since the team moved from Brooklyn to Los Angeles.

It was his 180th home run in Atlanta Stadium since the Braves moved here from Milwaukee in 1966. Aaron's 715 home runs broke down to 508 off right-hand pitchers and 207 off left-handers.

Bartow To Coach U.S. World Team

CHICAGO (AP) — Gene Bartow, new head coach at the University of Illinois, was named Monday to coach the United States basketball team in the World Championships July 3-15 in Puerto Rico.

The appointment was announced by Frank H. Spechalske, chairman of the Federation Internationale De Basketball Amateur (FIBA) to certify amateur teams for international competition.

Bartow, 42, recently became Illinois coach after four seasons at Memphis State. He was voted Coach of the Year for 1972-73 by the National Association of Basketball Coaches for leading Memphis State to the NCAA tournament finals.

Bartow, who last summer coached a U.S. cage team which toured China and also coached Puerto Rico in the 1972 Olympic Games, said he would seek this country's top 12 amateur players to start training about June 23.

"If they are available, I would like such stars as Bill Walton of UCLA, Dave Thompson of North Carolina State and Quinn Buckner of Indiana," Bartow said.

Bartow said, with the help of the Olympic Committee, a list of prospective players and the training site would be selected within the next few weeks.

This marks the first time since World Championship play began in 1952 that the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) has not been the organizing body for such U.S. competition.

The Olympic group, however, runs the U.S. show for Pan American Games and Olympic participation and Bartow's selection for the World meet at Puerto Rico also could be a springboard to coaching America's next Pan-Am and Olympic teams.

The U.S. never has won a World championship, but this marks the first time the event will be held when American collegians will be available and Bartow said the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has sanctioned the Puerto Rico competition.

"This affords us to select the best players from the college ranks," said Bartow, who directed the Puerto Rico national team to a second place finish in the 1971 Pan Am Games at Cali, Colombia.

The 14-country field in the World Championships at Puerto Rico includes the Soviet Union, U.S., and Cuba, who finished one-two-three in the 1972 Munich Olympics.

It also includes Yugoslavia and Brazil which, along with Russia, dominated the last World Championships in 1970. Also entered at Puerto Rico are Mexico, Africa, Argentina, Spain, Asia, Canada, Australia and Czechoslovakia.

Spechalske also announced that John McLendon of Chicago would be official scout for the basketball committee.

Spechalske, athletic director at Eastern Montana College, said his committee had two directives from FIBA confirming that group had jurisdiction over U.S. entry in the World Championships and that FIBA had discarded bids by the AAU and the Basketball Federation of the United States of America for international sanctioning.

The Federation recently filed an anti-trust suit in Washington contesting the right of the U.S. Olympic Committee to conduct participation in the World championships, contending this was beyond the Olympic charter.

Beardstown Tops Wildcats By 3-0

BEARDSTOWN — The Beardstown Tigers scored singled runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to down the Winchester Wildcats, 3-0, in a non-conference baseball game played Monday afternoon.

The Tigers, now 3-0, scored an unearned run in the fourth before Ralston singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on Clark's RBI safety.

Tom Ashcraft homered for Beardstown in the sixth inning.

A's Can Attest Jenkins Is Back

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The world champion Oakland A's wish to give testimony to the soundness of Ferguson Jenkins' right arm.

"He made it look so ridiculously easy that I wondered if he was even sweating," Oakland's slugging right fielder, Reggie Jackson, said after Jenkins checked the powerful A's on one measly bunt

Winter Sports Athletes Honored

Athletes in three winter sports were honored Monday night at the Jacksonville High School Boosters Club Awards Night at the school.

Picked for special awards were Susan Sullivan, Most Valuable Volleyball Player; Jay Dickman, Most Valuable Basketball Player; John Heinzman, Most Valuable Wrestler and Rick Baumgardt, Jim Patterson Award for Most Improved.

Varsity letter winners for the girls volleyball squad were seniors Susan Bellatti, Barbara Benz, Diana Burdard, Sue Campbell, Carol Duncan, Teresa Gish and Mary Mansfield and juniors Darcy Davidmeyer, Susan Sullivan, Carol Way, Kerry Marshall, Gail Murphy, Cheryl Opperman, Kim Smith and Mary Spradlin, and manager Vicky Fredericks.

Wrestling letter winners were seniors J. T. Blimbing, Thor Thorsen, Rodney Thompson, Mark Evans, Dan Schofield and John Heinzman, juniors Steve Crawford, Larry Foster, Steve Stewart, Paul Armstrong and Dave Reside and sophomores Rick Trout, Eric Floyd, Scott Evans and Rick Baumgardt.

Letter winners for basketball were seniors Bill Versen, Frank Walker, Brad Mills, Jim Fry and Jim Lukeman and juniors Ron Hall, Tom Gotschall, Glen McKean, Bob Bettis, John Wittich and Jay Dickman.

single Saturday night. "The guy that got rid of him in Chicago ought to be fired."

Oakland only hit three balls hard off Jenkins in his American League debut with the Texas Rangers — and all three were caught. The result was a one-hit, 2-0 victory for Texas.

The 30-year-old Jenkins, six times a 20-game winner with Chicago, became discontented with the Cubs last year, and there were reports he couldn't throw hard any more. Jenkins finished with a 14-16 season, then the 1971 Cy Young Award winner asked to be traded.

The Rangers sent Bill Madlock and Vic Harris to the Cubs for Jenkins.

"I'm not bitter at the Cubs," Jenkins said. "When I go to Chicago now, I'll just be thinking about beating the White Sox." Then, turning to his new home, Jenkins said: "Boy, I love this ball park. After pitching in Wrigley Field, it looks like Yellowstone. All I know is I lost 62 one-run games in Chicago. What a difference this park would have made."

Jenkins has brought a simple philosophy from the National League to the American League: "I keep the ball down and try to throw strikes."

He threw just 106 pitches at the A's. Center fielder Bill North of Oakland, Jenkins' former roommate at Chicago, said: "He didn't show me a thing and I mean that literally.... Everything he threw me was at the knees and on the corners."

North said he's glad to see Jenkins out of Chicago because of the abuse he took from the front office and some of the fans. "I know what he went through over there," North said.

New York City has been the scene of 127 World Series games. Chicago and St. Louis rank next with 40 games each.

Cubs Should Get To Open Year Today

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs, who vainly tried to launch their National League season in frigid Montreal last weekend, probably will get to do it in their home opener against the Philadelphia Phils here Tuesday.

Bill Bonham (7-5), scheduled to hurl his first major league opener at Montreal Saturday and then Sunday, will face the Phils' Ron Schueler (8-7) before an expected Wrigley Field crowd of about 30,000.

Sunny and warmer weather was predicted with temperatures close to 50 degrees.

The twin postponements in Montreal, hit by snow flurries over the weekend, probably will necessitate a seven-game series in five days in June when the Cubs next visit Montreal.

The drastically rebuilt Cubs will unveil four new regulars and a 25-man squad averaging slightly over 26 years of age. Gone are such erstwhile indispensibles as Ron Santo, Fergy Jenkins, Glenn Beckert and Randy Hundley.

They have been replaced by newcomers Bill Madlock at third base; Vic Harris at second base; Jerry Morales in left field and George Mitterwald catching.

As a matter of fact, only Billy Williams, 35, shifted from left field to first base, and shortstop Don Kessinger, 31, remain from the 1969 Cub machine which collapsed in a famed September swoon.

Veteran centerfielder Rick Monday expressed regret that the Cubs, along with Montreal, remain the only clubs still untested in the new major league season.

"It would have been nice for some of our kids to have gotten their feet wet in Montreal," said Monday. "But they have to do it sometime, anyway. I don't care who you are or how long you play, there's something about an opener that's special. You really get that adrenalin going."

The Montreal postponements knocked Ken Frailing, obtained from the White Sox in the Santo deal, out of rotation for the three-game series with the Phils.

The Cubs will send Rick Reuschel against Dick Ruthven Wednesday and Burt Hooton against Steve Carlton Thursday. After a Good Friday day off, Frailing, who was slated to pitch last Sunday, and Bonham will face Montreal in a Saturday twin bill here.

Maddox Sparks Giants To Fourth Win In Row, 4-3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Garry Maddox knocked in four runs with a three-run homer and a single, and the unbeaten San Francisco Giants rolled to their fourth straight baseball victory, a 4-3 decision over the Cincinnati Reds Monday.

Rookie right-hander John D'Acquisto blanked the Reds on three singles until Merv Rettenmund belted a leadoff homer in the seventh inning. Elias Sosa took over after Pete Rose's double and Dan Dreissen's single scored the second run of the inning.

The Giants scored off loser Roger Nelson in the first. Bobby Bonds led off with a walk, advanced to third on a ground out and a balk, and scored on Maddox's line-drive single to left.

D'Acquisto triggered the three-run fifth with a one-out single. Chris Speier walked with two down and Maddox followed with his second homer of the season.

The Reds added a run in the ninth on a sacrifice fly by Joe Morgan.

Maddox extended his batting streak to 15 games — the first four of 1974 and the final 11 of 1973.

INDIANS CANCEL CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians have canceled their home baseball opener against the Milwaukee Brewers which was scheduled for Tuesday afternoon.

The club made the announcement about 5 p.m. while it was snowing in downtown Cleveland.

Pistons Hoping Preview Correct

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Ray Scott of the Detroit Pistons may have been exactly right when he predicted bench strength might be a key factor in his club's showdown with the Chicago Bulls in their now-deadlocked National Basketball Association Western Conference semifinal playoffs.

The Pistons battled back to knot the series at two victories apiece Sunday night with reserves George Trapp and Stu Lantz contributing heavily to a 102-87 bombing of the Bulls.

So, coming into Chicago Stadium Tuesday night for the fifth game in the best of seven series, Scott is looking good in his pre-series comment that "I hope bench strength is a deciding factor, because I have a lot of confidence in our bench."

Trapp, Detroit's sixth man, came off the bench at Detroit Sunday to pepper in 12 third period points and wind up with 22. Lantz, who had stoked the "Piston attack in Detroit's opening victory of the series, also had the Bulls reeling Sunday night with his 23-point contribution.

Still another Piston reserve, floppy-haired John Mengelt, added more firepower to Detroit's backcourt with six points.

All the machine-gunning by the Piston spares enhanced the work of big Bob Lanier, who has been damaging to the vaunted Bull defense all the way and tossed in 25 points while grabbing 18 rebounds in Detroit's second victory.

"What we did Sunday night was successful and we'll keep at it until it proves unsuccessful," said Scott of his shock troop tactics.

"The whole point of using Lantz was to keep Chicago's Jerry Sloan occupied. Sloan has been scoring some 20 points a game against us in this series and we wanted somebody in there who would make him work at both ends of the court."

Bull coach Dick Motta looked cautiously ahead to the Tuesday night return to the Chicago Stadium.

"We're about evenly-matched teams," said Motta. "But we're going to have to play better than we did Sunday night to win."

Wells, Staake Lift Meredosia By Comets, 3-1

MEREDOSIA — Don Wells fired a two-hitter and Dave Staake was perfect at the plate as Meredosia edged Chandlerville 3-1 in a PMSC Conference baseball game Monday afternoon.

Wells gave up only two singles while fanning seven and issuing three walks. Losing hurler Dave Geiss scattered six hits, three by Staake, while setting down six batters on strikes and giving up two free tickets.

After Leinberger singled home a Chandlerville tally in the third, Meredosia went in front with two in the fourth. Steve Browning walked and stole second and scored on Jon Alhorn's single. After Tim Crow reached on an error and moved up on Gerald Klopfer's ground out, Staake singled home the go-ahead tally. Browning walked, stole second, moved to third on a passed ball and scored on a wild throw for an insurance run in the fifth.

Meredosia stands 1-1 on the year and in the PMSC.

Charles Sweeps Greensboro Title

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Bob Charles, once again a winner on the American tour, is busily rearranging his schedule. "I'll have to change things round a bit," the slender, graying veteran from New Zealand said Sunday after his victory—his first since 1967 in the United States—in the Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"I'll now make two more trips to the United States this year," he said. "I'll definitely play in 15 tournaments. I'll definitely play enough to keep my card."

He hadn't planned on that. He'd planned to surrender his playing privileges in the United States until his final-round three-under-par 68 stood off a half-dozen challenges and won him the $44,066 first prize in this tournament.

Charles, a 38-year-old former British Open champion who abandoned the American tour a year ago, finished with a 270 total, 14 under par on the 7,021-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

He finished one stroke ahead of Ray Floyd and Lee Trevino, tied at 271. Floyd, who lost a share of the lead with a bogey on the final hole, had a closing 67 and Trevino, gunning for a second consecutive triumph, once took a share of the lead with three straight birdies and finished with a 66.

Charles opened the final round with a one-stroke lead, but a bogey on the second hole opened the gates. Five other players shared the lead at one time or another on the sunny day before Charles solved it all in the run down the stretch before a massive gallery of 47,253.

The left-hander birdied the 17th after a beautiful iron shot left him a five-foot putt. He holed it to go 14 under and move past Trevino, who had finished at 13 under.

"I'd planned on playing six tournaments on this trip, then coming back for three more," he said. Now he will play seven—he just became eligible for the Tournament of Champions—and will make two return trips.

The Rules of the Tournament Players Division, the governing body for tour events, require players to compete in a minimum of 15 tournaments to retain their playing rights.

Charles had planned to surrender his after this year.

"Now I'll definitely play the 15," he said and smiled. "I want to retain my American playing rights for a couple of more years."

Final top scores and money winnings Sunday in the $220,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament on the 7,021-yard, par-71 Sedgefield Country Club course:

Bob Charles	65-70-67-68—270	$44,066

Lakers Are First To Be Eliminated

By The Associated Press

"I felt they knew the game was over early," said Milwaukee's Jon McGlocklin after the Bucks walloped Los Angeles 114-92 and eliminated the Lakers from the National Basketball Association playoffs.

It was a sad and somber observation about the once-powerful Lakers, who only last season had reached the final series before losing to the New York Knicks in five games.

Their loss to the Bucks Sunday night at Milwaukee made them the first team to be ousted from the playoffs this season, losing the scheduled best-of-seven Western Conference series 4-1. The victory moved the Bucks into the West final against the winner of the Chicago-Detroit series, tied at 2-2 following the Pistons' 102-87 triumph Sunday night.

In the other NBA playoff game Sunday, the New York Knicks edged the Capital Bullets 106-105 for a 3-2 lead in their Eastern Conference semifinal series.

The other East series, between the Boston Celtics and Buffalo Braves, tied at 2-2, resumes Tuesday night at Boston.

In the only ABA playoff game Sunday, the New York Nets trounced the Virginia Squires 116-88 for a 3-1 lead in their East Division semifinal.

The Kentucky Colonels, leading Carolina 3-0 in the other ABA East pairing, can clinch the series tonight with a victory over the beleaguered Cougars at Lexington, Ky. In the West, the Utah Stars, leading the Conquistadors 3-2, can advance to the final with a triumph at San Diego tonight, and the Indiana Pacers, with a 3-2 advantage over the Spurs, can end their series in San Antonio Wednesday night.

Milwaukee, with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar the dominant performer with 21 points and 13 rebounds, and Ron Williams contributing 22 points, overwhelmed the Lakers for the second straight game with a devastating fast break and relentless team defense.

The Bucks took charge quickly, reeling off 17 consecutive points in the first quarter for a commanding 23-6 lead.

Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 22 points, but had only four in the first half when Milwaukee raced to a 51-28 lead.

Pistons 102, Bulls 87

Detroit got a total of 33 points from Bob Lanier and reserves Stu Lantz and George Trapp in the third period in breaking open its game against Chicago. The Pistons, leading only 47-44 at halftime, were in front 82-65 after the third quarter during which Lanier and Trapp each hit 12 points and Lantz collected nine.

Lanier led both teams in scoring with 26 points and in rebounding with 18. Lantz finished with 23 points and Trapp 22. Bob Love topped Chicago with 23 points, while Chet Walker and Norm Van Lier each scored 20.

The fifth game of the series will be played Tuesday night in Chicago.

Knicks 106, Bullets 105

Walt Frazier was a veritable one-man show for New York, firing in his playoff career high of 38 points, including 16 in the critical last period, as the Knicks repulsed the Bullets and moved within one victory of clinching their series. Game Six will be played Wednesday night at Landover, Md.

Frazier, booed by the fans in his previous game at Madison Square Garden, silenced his critics with a dazzling performance. He scored 14 of the Knicks' last 18 points and passed off for the other four to Bill Bradley.

Elvin Hayes was high for the Bullets with 27 points, one more than Phil Chenier.

Nets 116, Squires 88

The Nets' triumph, led by rookie Larry Kenon's 25 points plus 21 points each by Julius Erving and John Williamson, put them within one victory of clinching their series against Virginia. They can do it tonight in Game Five at Uniondale, N.Y.

New York assumed control in the second quarter, outscoring the Squires 30-16 for a 16-point lead at halftime. Kenon and Mike Gale spearheaded the Nets' surge in that period, combining for 14 points.

The Nets wrapped it up with a 26-6 spurt in the first 7½ minutes of the final period. Cincy Powell paced Virginia with 22 points and George Carter added 19.

NEW YORK: Did Gaylord Perry throw a spitball? That's the point of this argument between, l-r, umpire Marty Springstead, Cleveland manager Ken Aspromonte and Perry. Happened in the sixth inning, and the umpire's decision stood. Under the new rule in effect this year, umpires can declare a pitch to be a spitball and an illegal pitch on their own judgment without needing to catch the pitcher "wetting" the ball. (UPI)

Jackson And A's Enjoy Texas Stay

By The Associated Press

Reggie Jackson won't be able to hit in Texas again until August 6.

But if the Oakland A's could play there all the time and add one Rangers' player to their lineup, Jackson says the American League West title would nearly be wrapped up by then.

The outspoken A's outfielder bid a fond farewell to Arlington Stadium with his second and third home runs of the season and seven runs batted in Oakland's 8-4 triumph over the Rangers.

He finished the American League baseball season's opening series with seven hits in 13 at bats, eight runs batted in, two doubles and a .538 batting average.

Jackson could well have added to those impressive statistics had Ferguson Jenkins not one-hit the A's Saturday night.

"If we had him on our staff," said Jackson, "we could all go home by Aug. 15."

In other American League games Sunday, the California Angels and Chicago White Sox were tied 4-4 after 10 innings when snow postponed their contest; the New York Yankees bombed the Cleveland Indians 7-1; the Baltimore Orioles and Detroit Tigers split a doubleheader—the Orioles won the opener 5-1 and the Tigers took the second 8-4 in 10 innings.

The Boston Red Sox at Milwaukee Brewers game was rained out, as was the Minnesota Twins-Kansas City Royals contest.

"I've never had a start like this before—ever," said Jackson, the Most Valuable Player during the 1973 regular season and World Series. "Normally, I get off slow."

Angels 4, White Sox 4

Snow began falling during the eighth inning and led to the postponement of the California-Chicago game after 10 innings of play. The entire game will be replayed at a date to be determined, but all records of Sunday's contest will be counted toward the final statistics.

The Angels had a 4-1 lead after seven innings, but Chicago scored twice in the eighth and tied it in the ninth on Ken Henderson's double and Carlos May's single.

Sunday results in the National League: the New York Mets crushed the Philadelphia Phillies 9-2; the Atlanta Braves downed the Cincinnati Reds 5-3; the Los Angeles Dodgers dropped the San Diego Padres 9-2, and the San Francisco Giants clubbed the Houston Astros 8-4.

The scheduled doubleheader between the Chicago Cubs and Montreal Expos was postponed, as was the Pittsburgh Pirates-St. Louis Cardinals game.

In Sunday's American League action, it was Oakland 8, Texas 4; New York 7, Cleveland 1; and Baltimore 5, Detroit 1 in the first game of a doubleheader and Detroit 8, Baltimore 4 in the 10-inning nightcap. Minnesota at Kansas City and Boston at Milwaukee were postponed and California and Chicago battled to a 4-4 10-inning tie before snow ended play. The game will be replayed.

GENOA, Italy (AP) — World junior welterweight boxing champion Bruno Arcari of Italy will defend his title against Japanese challenger Lion Furuyama in Monte Carlo June 8, his manager, Rocco Agostino, said Friday.

Arcari, 31, successfully defended his crown, won in 1970, against Spanish challenger Tony Ortiz in Turin, Italy, in February.

Entries Open For '74 YMCA Golf League

Entries are now being accepted for men interested in playing in the Jacksonville YMCA's Mens Summer Golf League. The league will be going into its sixth year of organization. Play will again be scheduled for Nichols Park on Monday evenings with tee times starting at 4:30 and running until 6:00. The first matches begin on May 20th.

This league will be limited to six teams with seven men to a team. No substitutions will be permitted. Team scores will be the low four handicapped scores of the seven man team. The 1974 handicaps will be the handicap that the players ended with last season. New players will be required to play four rounds prior to the start of the league.

All players enter as individuals and are then drafted to teams by selected captains. Since YMCA Executive Director, Donald F. Hardesty, is moving from Jacksonville to a new position with the Milwaukee YMCAs, an entry deadline is being set for this Wednesday, April 10th. That will give Hardesty two days in which to develop teams and schedule.

Awards for the league are presented to all players on teams placing first and second, to the lowest handicapped golfer, lowest season actual score, best putting average, the most improved golfer, and the lowest handicapped score.

Entry fee for the league is $6 for YMCA members, and $7 for non-members. All entries must be submitted with entry fee.

The New York Yankees lead in World Series victories with 20. They have lost nine times.

The St. Louis Cardinals lead National League teams in World Series victories with eight.

Record Quest Ugly Travesty

ATLANTA (AP) — What should have been one of baseball's most glorious hours—Hank Aaron's quest for Babe Ruth's home run mark—has turned into an ugly travesty.

Baseball blew the big one.

Only the quiet, gentlemanly grace and patience of the central figure in the drama—Aaron himself—has persevered in the wild cascade of blunders, cries of alarm and panicky moves by the men entrusted with running the sport.

The grand, beautiful show of America's favorite pastime, a once-in-a-lifetime event, became a burlesque.

— as grandiose as that record may be.

Who is to say that Atlanta is a better team with Aaron in the lineup? He was rested for 40 games in 1973.

And the sad part of it all is: Aaron became the innocent victim. The other guys dulled the lustre of his triumphant hour.

Flyers, Martin Both Gain Magic Number At 50

By The Associated Press

For the Philadelphia Flyers, it was "50 and out," while for Buffalo's Rick Martin, it was "50 and over."

The Flyers, the West Division champions, ended their regular National Hockey League season Sunday night with a 6-2 triumph over the Minnesota North Stars, giving them 50 victories and making them only the third team in NHL history to reach that figure.

The Boston Bruins, the East Division winners, have done it three times, including this season, and the Montreal Canadiens have done it once.

Martin, meanwhile, became only the third player in NHL history to score 50 or more goals in one season, raising his total to 52 with a three-goal outburst in Buffalo's 5-2 victory over the St. Louis Blues.

In other NHL regular-season finales Sunday, the Boston Bruins battered the Toronto Maple Leafs 6-4, the Chicago Black Hawks whipped the Detroit Red Wings 7-4, the New York Rangers downed the Montreal Canadiens 6-4, and the Atlanta Flames beat the Pittsburgh Penguins 6-3.

The Stanley Cup playoffs begin Tuesday night with Atlanta at Philadelphia. The other opening-round matches start Wednesday night, with Toronto at Boston, the New York Rangers at Montreal, and Los Angeles at Chicago. Each is a best-of-seven set.

The Flyers' yield of only two goals against Minnesota enabled Philadelphia's Bernie Parent to tie Chicago's Tony Esposito for the Vezina Trophy, awarded to the goalie or goalies with the lowest goals-against average in the league. Both the Flyers and Black Hawks allowed 164 goals during the season.

Bill Barber paced the Flyers' attack with the second three-goal game of his career, getting his third goal with only 12 seconds left.

The loss gave the North Stars their worst record since joining the league in 1967. They finished with a 23-38-17 mark.

Sabres 5, Blues 2

Martin completed his "hat trick" in the final minute, connecting for the Sabres' final goal with 47 seconds remaining. It gave him 134 goals—an NHL record—for his first three seasons in the league.

"Everybody was helping me and trying to set me up," said Martin. "I was so happy after I got the 50th that I didn't worry about getting any more, but this was just one of those nights when everything worked out."

During the game, the Blues announced that Coach Lou Angotti also would become the team's general manager, replacing Chuck Gatto, who was named director of player personnel.

Bruins 6, Maple Leafs 4

Wayne Cashman fired in three goals and assisted on two others, Bobby Orr collected two goals, including the game-winner and four assists, and Phil Esposito had a goal and three assists before being ejected with a game misconduct in the third period for Boston.

Esposito, the league scoring champion for the fourth consecutive year and the fifth time in the past six years, finished with 145 points on 68 goals and 77 assists.

Black Hawks 7, Red Wings 4

Tony Esposito, who won the Vezina in his rookie season of 1969-70 and shared it with teammate Gary Smith in 1971-72, missed a chance at it outright again when he yielded a goal to Detroit's Marcel Dionne with 1:06 remaining.

Chicago's Jim Pappin and J.C. Bordeleau, and Detroit's Bill Hogabam each scored twice, while Stan Mikita surpassed Bobby Hull as the Black Hawks' leading all-time scorer, getting two assists for a career total of 1,154 points.

Rangers 6, Canadiens 4

Rod Gilbert, Steve Vickers and Jean Ratelle each scored twice for the Rangers as they beat Montreal in another preview of a Stanley Cup opening-round series.

Flames 6, Penguins 3

Jacques Richard set an Atlanta record with his 27th goal of the season and Keith McCreary scored the tie-breaker for the Flames.

Saturday's NHL results were: Montreal 6, Boston 2; New York Islanders 4, Minnesota 2; Toronto 3, Buffalo 1; Detroit 8, New York Rangers 3; Los Angeles 11, Vancouver 1; Chicago 6, St. Louis 3; Pittsburgh 6, Philadelphia 1.

In the World Hockey Association playoffs Sunday, it was: Toronto 4, Cleveland 0; New England 4, Chicago 3; and Minnesota 8, Edmonton 5.

Saturday's WHA playoff scores were: New England 6, Chicago 4, and Minnesota 2, Edmonton 1.

Jim Lonborg was the last American Leaguer to pitch a World Series shutout. He achieved it for Boston against St. Louis, winning a one-hitter 5-0.

In the past 10 years, five World Series games have gone extra innings. The Mets have won two of them.

Pleas Heard In Court Cases Here Monday

Judge Gordon D. Seator Monday morning accepted several pleas from defendants on a variety of charges.

Percy Johnson, Jr., 17, of 250 E. Wolcott withdrew his plea of innocent and entered a plea of guilty to two counts of burglary. The sentencing was continued to May 3 for an investigation by the probation office.

Gary Strubbe, 31, of R.R. 4 entered a plea of guilty to disorderly conduct and was ordered to pay a fine of $35 and $15 costs.

Harold R. (Bebe) Hayes, 48, of 335 E. State entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of aggravated assault and asked for a trial by jury. The jury trial was scheduled for May 14.

Patrick E. McKinnon, 16, of Murrayville entered a plea of guilty to a charge of violation of classification on his driver's license and was ordered to pay a fine of $5 and $10 costs.

Richard Carroll, 25, of 1138 Allen Avenue had his charge of burglary continued to April 29 for arraignment. He is free under $4,000 bond pending appearance at that time.

All revenue from the duck stamps issued each year by the U.S. Postal Service is used for acquisition of wetlands for waterfowl.

Hospital Notes

Marvin Schlieker of Meredosia is a patient in Memorial Medical Center at Springfield.

Teenage Boy Injured In One-Car Crash

A teenaged boy was seriously injured in a one-car accident shortly before 9:30 a.m. Sunday at a rural intersection, southwest of New Berlin.

Donald Lornitis, 14, of Springfield was admitted to the intensive care unit at St. John's Hospital in the capital city. His condition is listed as "serious."

Sangamon County authorities say Lornitis was one of six occupants of a car that had been taken without authorization from the Peaceful Valley Youth Ranch at Carlinville. Macoupin County authorities had reported the car as stolen earlier in the day.

Deputies say the car rolled over and into a ditch when the driver failed to negotiate a curve at the intersection of two county roads. The driver and Lornitis, along with the four other occupants, are all residents of the Youth Ranch.

The driver, identified only as a 16-year-old juvenile, was cited for having no valid driver's license.

Nixon Scores Diplomatic Success

PARIS (UPI) — French newspapers and commentators — some with a touch of bitterness — said Monday President Nixon scored a notable diplomatic success by demonstrating the weight of U.S. influence during his weekend visit to Paris.

Minutes after memorial services which Nixon attended for the late President Georges Pompidou ended, the center of world diplomacy shifted to the U.S. ambassador's residence where Nixon met leaders of both east and west.

Roland Faure, the chief diplomatic writer for the conservative newspaper l'Aurore wrote:

"What a strange vengeance for America to see this feverish diplomatic activity taking place in the former Rothschild palace flying the American flag only a few steps from the Elysee (presidential palace) from which were issued so many condemnations of the White House and where the expulsion of American forces from our soil and France's pullout from NATO was decided."

Aurore and other newspapers said it was ironical that Nixon discussed a redefinition of Atlantic relations with Western Leaders in the same city where Pompidou had blocked such moves.

And Nixon, at a caviar-and-vodka breakfast with Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny, underscored the closeness of American-Soviet relations in the country where it is being condemned as a "condominium," French newspapers and radio stations said.

"The lord of the Western World," said a three-column headline in the conservative daily Le Figaro. The paper carried a cartoon showing a kneeling Europe kissing the hand of Nixon who is sitting on a throne with his feet resting on a funeral announcement, presumably Pompidou's.

"Everything indicates that American diplomacy will try to score maximum points during the provisional vacancy of power in France," Le Figaro said. The Communist newspaper Humanite wrote: "Watergate? Nixon's tangle with the tax office? Impeachment requests? Trifling things...Only the leadership matters."

The business daily, Les Echos, said "A brilliant demonstration of a Soviet-American condominium in a country which loses no opportunity to condemn it." "The vacancy of power in France gives American diplomacy a free hand for its offensive."

"Nixon accomplished a personal operation in Paris," said the Gaullist newspaper La Nation. The newspaper said Pompidou, at his latest Cabinet meeting had admonished his ministers to prevent France from becoming an American "dependency."

Six Explorers From Here At National Meet

Six local persons affiliated with the Explorer Scout program here attended the 1974 Exploring Presidents Congress in Washington, D.C., April 1-5.

Making the trip, by plane from Chicago, were J. R. Davidmeyer, advisor for the auto mechanics Post 153, and Peter Heaton, member of Post 153, and another associate of Post 153, Dan Forth, Illinois College student and associate advisor and also past Area Exploring cabinet member.

From journalism Post 975 Karen Crossin, who is the Exploring Presidents Association chairman, and Debbie Hansel, Association president. Harry Laswell, with emergency service Post 326 and Association vice president was the sixth member of the group.

The keynote speaker was Senator Hubert Humphrey. The days were filled with vocational seminars. The objective of the Congress was to elect the new National Explorer president and cabinet members. Jacksonville has had an Explorer program in operation the past five years.

Cashes In On Death Of Insured Guppy

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — An insurance company that paid $650 to the beneficiary of a dead fish admits it could happen again.

President John N. Singletary of the Globe Accident and Life Insurance Co., said his firm has about 325,000 college student policies recorded in its Oklahoma City computer. Any one of them could be a ringer, he said.

The company issued a $650 check last week to a University of Arizona student who insured and cashed in on the death of his pet guppy, Fred Finn.

Singletary said, with a sigh, "yes, it can happen again."

"In this age of computer technology these things will happen," he said. "Worse things have happened in other places and I imagine other things will happen. The problem is still human, in our case, the girl who programmed it was thrown by the metric numbers, and the computer just didn't know any better."

The incident occurred last year after Stan Mazanek received a mailer addressed to "Occupant" that offered a $5,000 life insurance policy for $1 for six months. He took it.

But rather than take out the insurance on himself, Mazanek decided to insure his guppy, which obviously had a shorter life expectancy than he did.

Stan filled in all the blanks on the form: "Age of insured: 6 months. Weight: 30 centigrams. Height: 3 centimeters."

Where the form asked about the state of health, Stan filled in "Good." Asked if he was a member of the military, Stan said, "No."

But instead of getting back a refund for his $1, Globe sent policy No. 3261057. So, when the guppy died within the six-month time period, Stan filed a claim, and waited for his $5,000. Instead of a check, however, he got a visit from a sales representative who had taken another look at the policy.

After various threats and counterthreats of law suits, the two compromised on $650.

"Most of the people I've talked to about it," Singletary said, "think it was pretty funny. But I don't." "I think it was a practical joke on his part, and a flaw in the way we do things. But I don't think it was very funny."

NEW BORN BABY FOUND IN CARTON

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — A newborn baby was discovered in a cardboard box on a store loading dock Sunday after police received a tip that a "hippie-type couple" was seen leaving something in back of the Venture store.

Doctors at Proctor Hospital examined the infant and pronounced him in good condition. He was described as a boy less than 12 hours old when admitted.

Nurses promptly nicknamed him "Palmer Venture" because he was found on Palm Sunday at the Venture store.

Virginia Gray and Springfield man married

Wedding vows were exchanged by Virginia Q. Gray of this city and Samuel A. Sutton of Springfield in an impressive ceremony Thursday, April 4, at First Christian Church in Springfield before the immediate families of the couple.

United in marriage by the Reverend Beryl Sales Kinser, D.D., the couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Samore of Jacksonville. The bride wore a formal gown of lime green polyester crepe with lace bodice, complemented by a yellow throatie white orchid. Mrs. Samore's dress was a long pale green floral chiffon complemented by a corsage of yellow cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Sutton received friends at a reception in Jacksonville at Holiday Inn where the bride's colors, yellow and white, were used in table decorations and refreshments. After a trip to Nova Scotia in August, the Suttons will be at home in Springfield at 1905 Barbary Lane.

Mrs. Sutton has been a member of the faculty at Illinois School for the Deaf a number of years, a position which she will be leaving at the end of the school term. Mr. Sutton is an internal Auditor for the Department of Corrections, State of Illinois.

Medical Society Starts Campaign

CHICAGO (AP) — A $250,000 fund is being established by the Illinois State Medical Society to create a state medical review program and campaign publicly against the federally required Professional Standards Review Organizations (PSRO).

The society's House of Delegates voted Saturday at the close of a four-day meeting to assess each of its 10,000 members $25 to set up the public campaign and the review program, which would rival the PSRO.

The PSRO program, enacted by Congress in 1972 social security legislation, is being set up across the nation by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Health care received by Medicare and Medicaid patients would be monitored by the PSRO. However, the society has opposed the plan, saying it threatens the quality of medical care the confidentiality of the doctor-patient relationship.

HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger said at a meeting of the society recently that if Illinois doctors refuse to participate in the program he would have no choice but to set up a PSRO staffed by laymen.

Scouts & Webelos Of Troop 109 Hike Piasa Trail

Members of Boy Scout Troop 109 and the Webelos hiked the Piasa Bird Trail on Saturday, April 6th, then camped at Pere Marquette State Park.

Dr. Joseph L. Bordenave of Geneva, newly elected chairman of the society's board, said that the review committee planned by his group will exceed the standards of the PSRO. He said an added merit is that it would be independent of federal supervision and funding.

Bordenave said the campaign against the PSRO will be directed at physicians and the general public. He said the drive will involve an expansion of the society's newsletter, special mailings and the placement of speakers on radio and television programs.

"One of the most serious threats to medical care to be found in PSRO is the fact that it will be dominated by Washington bureaucrats," he said. "Criteria and norms for treatment will be handed down from Washington with no regard or consideration for local needs."

Bordenave also said that his group and other medical societies in the state "tried to comply with HEW's arbitrary and capricious regulations, but it soon became clear that in order to protect the quality of medical care in Illinois we would have to formulate our own program."

In other business at the meeting, the society inaugurated Dr. Frederic D. Lake of Evanston, a radiologist, as its new president. He succeeds Dr. Willard C. Scrivener of Belleville.

MOSCOW MALL

Shopping at GUM in Moscow is a big occasion. None bigger in the U.S.S.R., in fact, for GUM is the country's largest store. The initials stand for Glavnyi Universalnyi Magazin, the Russian for "main universal store"—but, rather than a single department store, it is laid out like one of our shopping malls. It occupies a vast, neoclassical building stretching 275 yards along the east side of Red Square, opposite Lenin's tomb. Inside, it's a series of huge, arcaded halls lined with hundreds of shops and stalls. Compared to shops of the West, goods are limited and supply is erratic. So, whether the day's special is oranges or wigs, there's always a rush of buyers eager to stock up while they have the chance. ## Berea Aid Meets In Ankom Home

The Berea Ladies Aid met Thursday, April 4th, at the home of Mrs. Leslie Ankom with Mrs. James Luster co-hostess.

President Mrs. Lloyd Flinn opened by reading verse of the month, with the group repeating the C.W.F. prayer, singing opening song with Mrs. Ralph Robinson leading.

Mrs. Irene Robinson had devotions, the Lord's Prayer was said in unison. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Cecile Zachary, also reading correspondence from Mrs. Jean Petefish and Mrs. Lloyd Flinn.

During business meeting it was announced that Carol Grady had resumed the maintenance work at the church. The May meeting in charge of Mrs. Helen Petefish will have time and place announced.

The program included a reading by Mrs. Alice Pearson, The Missing Cup; readings by Mrs. Luster, Easter and The Robin's Answer. Two contests were won by Mrs. Chester Stewart, Mrs. Bill Kinnett and Lorene Stewart.

Roll was a flower exchange by seven members and four guests. Thirty-five dozen cookies and ten dozen eggs courtesy of the Aid were taken to the Christian Home.

Guests were Mrs. Bill Kinnett, Mrs. Alice Pearson, Mrs. Chester Stewart and Mrs. Virginia Simms. Due to sickness the Aid held no meetings in February and March. The January meeting was an all-day sewing for Passavant Hospital held at the home of Mrs. Albert Yancy in Ashland.

Annexation Plans

Junior College Hearings

By OLIVER WIEST
Illinois Community College Board officials holding hearings Monday on proposals to annex area school districts to the Lincoln Land Community College District got the same message in Jacksonville and Meredosia: It's too expensive to join a junior college district.

The hearings were convened yesterday in

Income Tax
Illegal Says
Historian

CHICAGO (AP) — Businessman and historian W. R. Anderson claims he's found the biggest tax loophole of all time.

Anderson says he discovered the federal Income Tax Act of 1913 is illegal and the government should return all the income taxes it has ever collected.

When William Howard Taft signed the income tax law 60 years ago, he was not legally President, Anderson explained.

"Through a monumental oversight, Ohio (Taft's home state) was not officially admitted into the union until 1953," Anderson contends. "He could not have been a legal President because he did not qualify under Article 2, Section 1 of the Constitution, which specified 14 years' residence in a state."

Anderson said congressional doubts over Ohio's legal status as a state prompted a 1953 action in which Congress "went through the motions of making Ohio a state, just in case."

Despite the congressional action, Anderson said, laws enacted under Taft's administration—including the income tax—were and still are illegal.

"Taxes collected for the last 60 years should be refunded because they were not obtained through due process of law," Anderson concluded.

Find Defendant
Not Guilty On Damage Charge

An 18-year-old Jacksonville young woman was found not guilty on a charge on criminal damage to property stemming from an incident Mar. 28 at the West Dunlap St. public housing project.

Judge Gordon Seator announced his findings after hearing evidence from a police officer and Brenda Chamberlain.

A police officer testified that he was hidden behind a wagon and saw Miss Chamberlain and another girl throw something at two windows. He said he gave chase and took the girl in custody.

Miss Chamberlain said she threw a rock and was actually throwing at the window in question, but missed. She said the rock she threw struck the side of the building and not the window. She was represented by Public Defender G. Ronald Kesinger.

Michael A. Kline, 18, of 884 Routh St., was admitted to probation for 90 days on his plea of guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He was also ordered to spend two Saturdays on the county work detail and pay court costs.

Mike L. Hammers, 15, of 425 W. Chambers, was fined $25 and $15 costs on curfew violation; $25 and $10 costs on no valid registration, and $25 and $10 costs on driving while license was revoked. He entered pleas of guilty to all three violations three weeks earlier.

Stephanie Proctor, 20, a student at MacMurray College, had her charge of improper overtaking dismissed on motion of the state's attorney for lack of evidence.

Winchester, Meredosia, and Jacksonville after citizens filed petitions earlier this year with the state board objecting to the planned annexation of their school districts to Lincoln Land. The annexation plan is the result of a law passed last year requiring every area of the state to be part of a junior college district by Aug. 1.

The law was amended to give citizens a chance to petition for a hearing and, after filing another petition, to hold a "back door" referendum to determine whether their school district would be part of any junior college district.

If the testimony at the Meredosia and Jacksonville hearings is indicative of the public's mood, voters will have a chance to decide that question in elections late this summer or early fall.

Of those testifying at the Jacksonville hearing last night only one — Michael Biloz, a MacMurray College teacher — spoke in favor of annexing School District 117 to Lincoln Land.

Opposition came from the Jacksonville Area Chamber of Commerce, the Citizens Tax Watch Committee, Illinois College, and Attorney Walter Bellatti.

"It is my opinion as a citizen that this area would not be benefitted by annexation to Lincoln Land Community College or any other district," Bellatti said. "The current method of having School District 117 pay the public's share of a student's tuition at Lincoln Land 'seems to make economic sense,' Bellatti said.

Bellatti declared that annexation would weaken public support for School District 117, which may soon ask the voters to allow a tax rate increase. "You can't keep taxes going up indefinitely and not have public resistance," he said.

Dr. Donald C. Mundinger, president of Illinois College, also endorsed the present method of supporting local students attending Lincoln Land because "it distributes the costs most equitably."

"I do not think wall-to-wall community college districts are necessary," Mundinger said, adding not enough students from the Jacksonville area attend the Springfield school to justify the annexation move.

Mundinger, in a reference to proposed contractual agreements between Lincoln Land and the two private colleges here, said "a community college in Jacksonville would hurt Illinois College."

Dr. Robert L. Poorman, president of Lincoln Land, confirmed that talks have been held as recently as 10 days ago on a contractual arrangement under which the local colleges would accept Lincoln Land students. But the stumbling block is the amount the Springfield school could pay is less than the tuition normally charged by the private schools.

Courses offered at substantially lower cost by Lincoln Land could mean a drop in enrollment at MacMurray and Illinois colleges.

Gordy Fish, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, and John Kilham, chairman of the Citizens Tax Watch Committee, both opposed annexation because it would boost tax rates.

Michael Biloz, chairman of the history department at MacMurray, was the only supporter of the annexation plan who spoke at the hearing.

"I think the taxpayers of this district deserve the same benefits as taxpayers from any other area," he said. Biloz claimed that with the contractual deal "this (tax) money can be kept right here in this community" and the local colleges "may benefit immensely."

Biloz said the availability of junior college courses here would extend equal educational opportunities to those who are unable to commute to Lincoln Land. "This certainly would raise the educational level of Jacksonville and Morgan County," he said.

The fight against annexation is a "delaying move," the teacher said, since the expansion of junior colleges is part of a nationwide trend which won't be halted by local opposition.

MacMurray College officials attended the hearing but did not testify.

Duane McCall, Supt. of Schools in the Meredosia-Chambersburg district, was the sole advocate of annexation at the Meredosia hearing Monday afternoon. McCall said Lincoln Land was the best of the districts available to Meredosia and the local board of education passed a resolution favoring alignment with the Springfield school.

Daryle Tegeder, Earl Lovekamp and John Alhorn proposed the move on economic grounds and said it would be better to wait and see what was available from nearby community colleges, including a new one proposed to serve the Pike and Adams County area.

School District 117 adopted a neutral stance officially on the annexation question, though school board members Cecil Franseen and Russell Morris said after last night's hearing they didn't see any benefit attached to joining a junior college district.

Under the present system, school districts outside community college areas pay a per capita fee for each student attending a junior college. This fee is the difference between the tuition charge the student pays and the support provided by the citizens of the junior college taxing district.

In 1973 School District 117 levied a tax of $85,930 to pay for charge-backs in the 1974-75 school year at a rate of 6.82 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

If District 117, with an assessed valuation of $125.9 million, were annexed to Lincoln Land local taxpayers would pay about $260,000 to the community college district at its current tax rate of 20.9 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

In the Meredosia-Chambersburg district the board pays about $13,000 a year for charge-backs. If it were part of Lincoln Land taxpayers would shell out about $50,000 a year to support the junior college.

One problem with staying with the charge-back system is that a local school board's authority to levy a tax for junior college tuition expires this September. That means a school district would have to come up with another source of financing, probably by taking it from the education fund.

In most districts that would mean going to the voters in a referendum to ask that the maximum tax rate for educational purposes be raised. Some persons at the hearings said that this could be a way of winning taxpayer approval for a rate increase which might otherwise be denied since officials could point to the savings made possible by staying outside a junior college district.

The Community College Board during June will review its annexation proposals in light of testimony taken at the hearings and report its findings by June 30. Districts which do not have referenda will then be incorporated in a junior college area effective Aug. 1.

MRS. RICHARD BROWN, chairman of the Art Cart at Passavant and Norris hospitals, displays some of the paintings used for room decorations at the hospitals. She says more are needed.

Hospitals Seeking Art Work For Rooms

Patients in Passavant and Norris hospitals have purchased so many of the pictures loaned to the hospital for room decoration that the supply is running low, according to Mrs. Richard Brown, chairman of the Art Cart.

"We need more pictures immediately," she said. "They should be at least 18 by 20 inches in size and suitably framed for hanging. Landscapes and brightly colored pictures and prints are most popular."

The Art Cart project invites artists and owners of pictures to loan them to the hospital for display in patient rooms. They need not be original works. If the owner wants to sell the item, the price is noted on the back of the picture; if it is sold, the price is returned to the owner.

"Our patients really appreciate and enjoy the pictures, whether or not they are for sale," Mrs. Brown said. "Friends of the hospital who have extra framed drawings, paintings, or prints in their homes do a service by sharing them for a while with patients. For area artists, the Art Cart provides the extra advantage of possible sales."

Persons who want to loan pictures may contact Mrs. Eloise Ragan, volunteers director, at Passavant (245-9541, Ext. 235). All pictures should be labeled with the owner's name and address and with the price if the picture is for sale.

Children's Home
In New Location

A zoning controversy on the north side of the city has been resolved and the proposed children's home for mentally retarded may be constructed on the south side.

Mayor Milt Hocking said he and other civic officials met with prospective developers of the proposed home and urged them to consider another location in Jacksonville for building the million dollar facility.

Mayor Hocking said the officials looked over the new site on South Diamond formerly the site of the Hoffmann Greenhouses and were encouraged. The site, according to Hocking, has 7 1/2 acres which is adequate for future expansion if needed and all utilities are installed, plus the street is paved.

Hocking said the group headed by Albert Teaters had made application for a zoning change from R-3 to R-5 to permit the construction on the 1135 South Diamond location. The zoning change was sought by Harry Hoffmann, doing business as Hoffmann Floral Co.

The proposal will be considered by the plan commission at their next meeting and then be returned to the city council for approval. Hocking said the firm may also go ahead with the purchase of the land on North Diamond for some other type of development.

No action by the council was taken to reconsider the zoning change on the property on North Diamond at Monday night's regular session.

The mayor said the new site under consideration may work out better for the developer and for all concerned.

Urban Renewal Plans
Members of the city council voted authority for four steps in the urban renewal program. 1.—bids were authorized for Central Park Plaza construction work; 2.—demolition and site clearance of some 20 parcels of land will be bid on May 10; 3.—authority to advertise for bids for streets, sidewalks, curb and gutters and related work in the area; 4.—authority for removal and transplanting of certain trees in Central Park.

The last item was bid by Roger's Southern Acres Nursery at a cost of $1,350.50 and includes six trees to be moved within the next week or ten days. The work involves moving the trees with 60-inch and 50-inch balls of earth to locations within the park. Engineer Edgar Bobb explained to the council that some of the trees involved are memorials to persons, planted by the Garden Club, and are considered worthy of moving. He said a few others are too large to consider moving and will be cut down, with regret, to conform with the overall plans.

Mini-Buses Bid
E. W. Brown Motors was the low bidder for two 15-passenger mini-buses on their price of $10,350. The bid was about $350 lower than the only other bidder. Delivery will be from two to three months, according to Alderman Charles Frank.

Frank said the bids were over the $10,000 mark but that with the help of South Jacksonville's contribution, the buses will be purchased and placed in operation.

Alderman Frank said the committee was well pleased and thanked members of the council for their consideration. The buses will be paid from revenue sharing funds.

council set aside $60,000 from motor fuel tax funds to pay for the city's share of the project. Estimated cost of the overall project is in the area of $150,000.

The council also approved paying half the cost of an overhead flasher to be installed at North Main and Walnut.

Plans for an overlay improvement plan on North Main from Walnut to the city limits will be presented at a later meeting.

First reading on two zoning changes were read and approved: enlarge Barber the Florist on North Main to permit a beauty shop and property on North West near Eli Bridge Co. changed to M-2 manufacturing. Some discussion centered around off-street parking for the change on North Main.

Second and final reading was heard on a change in fees for filing zone petitions, from $20 to $35 each. The last change was in 1951.

Railroad Hearing
City Attorney James Reilly reported that he and four others appeared at a hearing before the ICC in Springfield Monday afternoon asking that the Department of Transportation be ordered to pay half the cost of constructing an underpass at Westgate and the Norfolk and Western Railroad.

Reilly said he still had a couple of exhibits to send to the ICC but that the results of the hearing should be known within a month or two.

The railroad will also be asked to pay a portion of the cost, in addition to funds from the grade crossing fund and motor fuel taxes.

Reilly said railroad officials, of course, objected to the proposal.

Those who attended with the city attorney were: Jack LeSuer, consulting engineer; Thomas McKula from Passavant hospital; Chief Harvey Dean and Chief Charles Runkel.

Mayor Hocking appointed Arthur J. French and James Duerwer to positions on the police pension board of trustees. Both are named to two-year terms.

The city will receive bids for hospitalization and term life insurance on April 19. There was some objection from Pete Botkovich, present salesman for Blue Cross and Blue Shield from Chicago. The salesman said his firm had served the city for many years and that he objected to having local people involved in drawing up the specifications or evaluation of the bids.

The mayor invited him to submit a bid along with anyone else interested at the proper time.

Summer Rates
If you are planning an extensive flower or vegetable garden, complete with adequate watering, now is the time to make application at city hall for the special summer rate, effective in June, July, August. It calls for the yearly average, plus one dollar, for the water used that would not find its way back into the sewer system.

Applications must be made annually at the water department at city hall.

BEARDSTOWN — The cat was let out of the bag at the Tuesday night city council meeting when a local resident asked Mayor Bob Summey at the public session about a rumor of new construction on the Gosnell property.

The local man interested in the deal refused to give any information Tuesday morning, but in view of the discussion at the council meeting it can't do much harm to the deal to relate a little Gosnell history while awaiting the development of details regarding an option taken on a little more than four acres bounded by Myrtle Avenue and Washington Avenue at the state highway.

The area has provided "truck" in large and excellent quantities here for many years.

The mayor said the proposal would involve a zoning matter as well as water and sewer system actions that would have to be taken up by the councilmen.

Many residents in the area have become concerned over the rumors current for a couple of weeks.

Nebraska Bound
Mr. and Mrs. Gosnell came here as young "marrieds" in the year 1928 from the West. She had been teaching school and he was a veteran railroad man on the Casper division. She was a Nebraskan and he hails from Wyoming.

Mrs. Gosnell's relative, J. B. Turner, was operating a dairy farm and raising strawberries on what became known as the Gosnell Place which then contained about 10 acres.

Gosnell, now 74, said he foresaw hard times ahead and although he had seniority on the railroad at Casper he got down to the extra list here and decided to take up farming.

"I thought I could learn the work much quicker than I did," he related, "but it wasn't until the 1930s that the place began to pay a profit." He didn't pursue the dairy business but he grew strawberries, sweet corn and other truck and became the best known "trucker" as well as the (Turn to Page 6) (See "Reither")

Auburn Man
Killed Sunday
On Route 104

An area man was killed Sunday in a one-car accident on Illinois Route 104, about five miles east of Auburn.

Sangamon County Coroner Norman Richter identified the victim as 42-year-old Charles W. Brown, Sr., of Auburn.

The accident occurred around 10:45 a.m. but Brown's identity was withheld until late Sunday night as his family was out of town attending a funeral and could not be immediately notified.

State police say Brown apparently was alone when his car sideswiped a small bridge, left the highway and continued into a field. There were no witnesses. Funeral arrangements are pending at the Berry Funeral Home in Virden.
